Trestle Collapses Under Log-Laden Train; Man Killed

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

CROSSETT, Ark.—Three boys crawled from the wreckage of 690 tons of derailed freight cars when a trestle collapsed beneath a train in the hills west of here yesterday, but a 50-year-old Hamburg man was pinned to death in 12 feet of water below a mountain of debris.

George Kelly was known to be dead late yesterday after his brother emerged from the water with a part of his fishing pole. The body was pin - pointed and a wrecker was on its way.

Kelly, two sons and a nephew were fishing off a log in Saline Lake on the bank beneath the trestle when the 84-car freight train rumbled overhead at 10:20 a. m.

Nine cars near the end of the two - diesel train hurtled 25 feet in the shallow lake when the trestle crumbled in the center. A brakeman on the caboose said he "narrowly escaped death."

Railroad crewmen, National Guardsmen, the Ashley county sheriff's department and volunteers began clearing the wreckage at 4 p.m. yesterday, but it wasn't until around 6 p.m. when John Kelly located his brother's body.

Under Debris

He found it under tons of the wooden bridge, pulp wood and freight cars and brought to shore his brother's string of fish, a boy's cap and a part of the fishing pole.

Work ceased as a wrecker was summoned from Crossett. Some believed the body would be brought out by dark, but others doubted it would be recovered before morning.

Meanwhile, two of the youths—Cecil Kelly and Joseph Kelly, both age 12 — were hosptalized, but neither was in serious condition. Eighteen - year - old Don Kelly was treated for minor cuts and bruises and released.

Joseph, nephew to the victim, said the boys leaped from the log when he shouted a warning. He said his uncle didn't see the trestle begin to fall.

Joseph crawled out beneath two of the cars and Don pulled his younger brother out. Joseph suffered only a broken hand and his cousin Cecil sustained lacerations of the head and foot.

Cars, Pulpwood

Cars were sticking up from the piles of pulp wood and a jagged shell of the trestle stuck out over the heap. At least $50,000 in damages were done.

The Rock Island Line train was loaded with pulp wood — some cars reportedly carrying as many as three cords—when it headed across the trestle. The trestle fell back beneath the load and the cars tumbled in the opposite direction.

Grabbed Ironrails

"I was riding in the top of the caboose," said brakeman H. C. Smith of El Dorado, Ark. "I saw the end of the cars go over and I grabbed the ironrails. I narrowly escaped death."

There was screaming from under the wreckage as several persons, who were fishing on the lake, arrived at the scene. There were no sounds from below the pulp wood as crewmen searched for the man's body hours later.

"I looked up and saw the pilings start to shake and then wiggle," Joseph said from his hospital bed in the Crossett Health Center late Saturday.

"I hollowed to them and jumped off the log and I believe the other two boys did too," he said. When asked about his uncle, he replied: "He never saw it."

A 24-year-old National Guardsman who lives near the Lake said he was fishing 250 yards from the

Sen. Russell To Ask Change In Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) called on the Senate today to kill a civil rights bill provision which southerners fear could lead to use of bayonets to break down racial segregation in the South.

Russell, who is masterminding strategy for southern opponents of the bill, said he would press for an amendment to knock out this most sweeping and disputed provision in the House-approved administration bill.

He also announced he would offer two other amendments, both aimed at keeping the proposed commission to investigate violations of civil rights from being "biased or slanted."

Unusual Saturday Session

Russell explained his amendments as the Senate met for a long Saturday session to let more southerners tell why they object to the Senate even considering the bill.

The Senate will vote about 4 p.m.(CST) Tuesday on the pending motion to take up the bill. Approval of that motion by a sizeable majority is assured but a long and bitter struggle over the bill itself still lies ahead.

The provision which Russell asked to be killed would permit the Justice Department to seek injunctions against conspiracies to deprive persons of civil rights.

Stassen Sets Private Talks With Russians

LONDON, July 13 (UP)—U. S. disarmament negotiator Harold Stassen will hold a private weekend meeting with Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin to try to cut through the East-West deadlock on suspending nuclear tests, authoritative sources said today.

Stassen may agree to a suspension period longer than the 10 months proposed by the United States — but only in return for Soviet concessions, informed sources said.

Trade Hinted

They indicated he might trade longer suspension in return for Russia's dropping its demands for a complete ban on nuclear weapons, which are the only western force equalizing Russia's superior military manpower.

British and French sources disagreed with the American disarmamanet delegation on the meaning of Zorin's harsh rejection of the U. S. proposal.

The British and French viewed it as the beginning of the end for the four-month-old disarmament talks. Stassen's group more optimistically interpreted it as a Russian move to drive a hard bargain which would give the Soviets an advantage in an eventual disarmament agreement.

'Meaningless'

In Moscow, the Communist party organ Pravda said the 10-month suspension proposal is meaningless because none of the nuclear powers plans tests in the next 10 months anyway.

"As the Soviet delegate pointed out in his speech, none of the great powers intends to carry out tests in the next 10 months or one year since a longer period is necessary for preparing them," Pravda said.

"It is generally known that tests have been carried out and that in the United States they are ending in the next few months after which a natural recess begins.

Hurricane Dead Toll Reaches 506

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Sheriff Henry Reid today said the total of Cameron Parish dead in the hurricane Audrey has climbed to 506.

The sheriff said 324 bodies have been recovered and 182 persons are listed as missing.

Liability Rates In State Hiked

BATON ROUGE, July 13 (AP)—Louisiana motorists have been raised an average $4-$5 in auto liability insurance at an estimated extra cost of $1,700,000, a state official said today.

The rate boost for private passenger cars averaging 8.5 per cent went into effect July 10, said H. P. Walker, assistant director of the Casualty and Surety Division.

Walker said there is no change in commercial vehicle insurance figures.

His division, which fixes the auto insurance rates in this state, is a unit of the Louisiana Insurance Commission.

Pegged To Losses

"If losses exceed what insurance companies expect them to be," Walker said, "rates must go up.

"There are many factors involved," he added. "The most important of course is associated with the total losses paid out in liability claims.

"Informed sources feel the elements creating this situation are varied, but the major causes are greater traffic congestion, higher damage awards in court and, until recently, limited driver training education in Louisiana," he said.

Sharpest boost in the new rates was in the classification for cars where a male driver under 25 is allowed occasional use. The rate jumped $18.

Last Hike In 1955

The last time Louisiana raised its auto insurance rates was in December, 1955, when the state for the first time adopted several classifications and territorial designations for rate purposes.

There were some rate reductions at the time, also.

"Louisiana motorists, in effect, create their own rates," Walker said. "Rates vary according to the loss and premium figures.

"Louisiana is not alone in the trend toward higher court awards in traffic cases," he said. "In fact, the Louisiana average is below the national rate."

Walker said there has been a round robin of auto insurance increases throughout the nation this year.

Baton Rouge Highest

The East Baton Rouge - West Baton Rouge area continues with the highest rates in the state, and rural regions elsewhere holding the lowest rates.

All the rates are based on protection offering $5,000 for death or injury of one person, $10,000 total

U.S. Withdraws Appointment Of Budapest Envoy

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—The United States, showing anew its dislike for the Communist regime in Hungary, has cancelled appointment of Edward T. Wailes to be U. S. minister to Hungary, it was learned today.

State Department officials informed the United Press that Wailes, who was recalled in February for consultation, "will not be going back to Budapest." Instead, he has been reassigned as chief State Department officer at the Air College here.

There are no plans, it was said, to appoint a successor in Budapest.

Reassignment of Wailes climaxes a sharp dispute between the United States and Communist Hungary over his diplomatic status.

Signals Changed

He arrived in Budapest on Nov. 2, 1956, under instructions to present his diplomatic credentials promptly to the revoluntionary anti-Moscow government headed by Prime Minister Imre Nagy. These signals were changed by Washington when the Soviet Union intervened with tanks and troops to install a puppet regime.

Wailes stayed in Budapest without presenting his credentials until Feb. 27 when the State Department said Wailes was being withdrawn. Hungary had insisted the diplomat present his credentials or get out.

The United States has taken many opportunities to show its dislike of the Kadar Communist regime. Its delegation to the United Nations recently asked for the expulsion from this country of a member of the Hungarian delegation.

Rising Mercury Seen For Today

More torrid temperatures are expected to keep residents of the Twin Cities area sweltering today, according to the outlook issued last night by the federal weatherman. Isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers also are in prospect.

The high temperature recorded at Selman Field here yesterday was 96 degrees and the low was 73.

Arkansas is expected to be warm with a few thundershowers.

U.S. Slates Parleys On Travel Ban

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—The State Department disclosed today it will meet with press, radio and television representatives next week to discuss lifting its ban against American newsmen visiting Red China.

The development came soon after Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.;) declared in a Senate speech that the prohibition has placed United States policy toward Red China in a "straitjacket of government-enforced ignorance."

"The desire of the press to begin to get some first hand facts on which independent thought might be based is treated by the executive branch as something akin to a high crime," Mansfield said.

Welcome Step

He took note of the State Department's action, however, and said it was a "welcome step" and the department should be commended for it.

The Department said representatives of the various news media had been invited to meet Thursday with Andrew Burding, assistant secretary for public affairs, and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in Dulles' office.

The same group met with Dulles in February but failed to soften his opposition. He argued that U. S. policy in the Far East would be jeopardized if newsmen were given free rein to visit the Chinese mainland.

Would Give Advice

Council Keeps Tabs On Voting

JACKSON, Miss., July 13—UP—Southern congressmen and senators had better check to see what the NAACP lobby is doing before they vote on any measure before Congress. The Association of Citizens' Councils is keeping score.

The association is distributing from its Greenwood headquarters a pamphlet called "the NAACP legislative scoreboard." It shows how each member of the 84th Congress voted in relation to how the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People lobbied.

It not only covers civil rights bills but includes social security, federal school aid, minimum wage, public housing, poll taxes and statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

Eastland Slips Up

Members are scored as to whether they voted "favorably to the NAACP" or "unfavorably to the NAACP" on each issue.

The only senator with a perfect record of voting opposite to the NAACP is Willis Robertson (D-Va.).

Sen. James O. Eastland, one of the Citizens' Council champions, slipped up and got two bad marks for voting with the NAACP on extending social security benefits.

Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.), one of the most influencial leaders in the current Senate fight against the administration's civil rights bill, did even worse. He voted with the NAACP, according to the scoreboard, on social security and public housing.

Statewide Appeal Made For Disaster Aid Funds

NEW ORLEANS, July 13 (UP)—Louisiana's political leaders and a Cameron, La., doctor who lost three children in hurricane Audrey made a state-wide radio, television appeal today for contributions to a disaster relief fund.

In filmed and recorded appeals over a state-wide network, Gov. Earl Long and the state's two senators asked for donations.

Dr. Cecil Clark of Cameron, asked people to be generous. Three of his children drowned in the storm.

"I have talked with people who have lost all their wordly possessions and they have told me that their loss was nothing, that they are actually lucky since their families are still intact," he said. "But they need help, and the most direct way you can help is give generously to the Red Cross."

Clark, 33, said he had received money to rebuild his wrecked clinic. But he said the money will be used for hurricane victims until their needs are met.

Clark said he might accept funds for the clinic after the survivors' need for medical supplies diminished.

Damage to Cameron parish and other parishes of southwest Louisiana will amount to tens of millions of dollars, it has been estimated.

"It has been practically impossible to estimate in terms of dollars the great loss to people," Gov. Long said. "There remains much to be done and additional funds are needed to help the victims of this tragedy to rebuild in the stricken areas."

Chicago Suffers Paralysis After Giant Rainstorm

GRAVEL OUSTER

Rainach Asserts People Can Act

BATON ROUGE, July 13 (AP)—A segregation leader said today "the suggestion that Louisiana can't replace its Democratic national committeeman is an insult to the people of the state."

Sen. W. M. Rainach, Summerfield, sharply challenged the contention by national committeeman Camille Gravel that only the Democratic National Committee could remove him.

Gravel—target of an all - out drive by segregation forces because of his support of President Eisenhower's civil rights bill—said the state central committee could not oust a committeeman who had been confirmed by the national convention.

People Can Act

Rainach, chairman of the Legislative Segregation Committee and president of the Louisiana Assn. of Citizens Councils, commented, "the Democratic Party of Louisiana is an instrument of the people of this state. It does not take dictation from any other state or national party.

"I simply don't believe that the people in Louisiana will put up with the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) crowd in the National Advisory Council or the NAACP, telling us what to do about Mr. Gravel," he said in a telephone interview.

Last Thursday, Gravel said according to rules of the national committee it was the sole judge of the qualifications of its members.

He added, "I have no objection to Willie Rainach making any charges he wants to make against me as Democratic national committeeman. However, since these charges . . . have to be filed with and heard by the national committee, Rainach would find himself in the ridiculous position of asking the national committee to remove me because I supported the Democratic Party and its platform."

For Rights Bill

Gravel voted last February with the majority of the Democratic advisory council to support civil rights legislation recommended in the 1956 platform and has endorsed the civil rights bill now awaiting Senate action.

"If the committeeman named by the state were rejected by the national committee," Rainach replied, "and the state central committee stuck to its guns, the former national committeeman would represent only himself. That's largely what Mr. Gravel has been doing."

"He'd be a man without a country if the people remove him," Rainach said. "I'm not isolating him. He's isolating himself.

"Under the laws of this state," he continued, "the democratic State Central Committee has complete authority and responsibility to name and replace all its officials, including the Democratic national committeeman."

Downpour Is Worst Since 1885 Deluge

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—A record 24-hour downpour left Chicago swamped today with mounting damage estimated in the millions of dollars.

Hardest hit by the torrential rains were the city's subways, telephone systems, gas and power companies.

At least nine were dead as a result of the storm in Chicago, and another storm death was reported in nearby Will County.

In Chicago, two persons drowned, three others were electrocuted and four suffered heart attacks, three while battling floods in their homes.

Losses In Millions

Utility company losses ran into the millions of dollars. Losses to business could not be estimated.

At least 30,000 telephones were knocked out by the 6¼-inch rainfall last night and early today.

Underneath downtown Chicago, sweating sandbag crews fought to keep water from pouring over major links in one of the city's main sources of transportation, the subway. One large segment of the tubes already was inundated with 6 to 8 feet of water from the gushing runoffs.

A 7-months-old girl, Atella Toney, drowned when she rolled out of her bed into a foot of water in the bedroom of the family's basement apartment.

Flooded By Runoff

Although the forecast for more rain failed to materialize Saturday afternoon, water running off the embankment of the recently completed Congress street expressway poured into the Jackson Boulevard station of the Logan Square subway.

By mid day water reached the top of the tube in the station at Congress and LaSalle streets and service was cut from the loop turnaround to Logan Square.

Workmen used sandbags and kept three pumps working full blast to keep the runoff out of the north-south State street subway.

C. J. Buck, a power engineer for the Chicago Transit Authority, said workmen and pumps were "keeping ahead of the water" and expressed confidence the State street subway could continue operations.

Record Rain

A torrential downpour that started during a tornado alert dumped 6.24 inches of rain on the city in 24 hours, from noon yesterday to about noon today. Most rain fell in the six-hour period between 7 p.m. Friday and 1 a.m. Saturday. The old record of 6.19

35-PAGE INDICTMENT

Ellender Assails Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) today called President Eisenhower's civil rights bill "a conglomeration of some of the most monstrous civil wrongs ever sought to be imposed upon a free people."

Ellender delivered a 35-page section-by-section indictment of the measure, which was debated in a rare Saturday Senate session.

"It is no civil rights bill," Ellender said. "But instead is a conglomeration of some of the most monstrous civil wrongs ever sought to be imposed upon a free people."

Hits Commission

Of the investigating commission provided for in the bill, Ellender said President Eisenhower could appoint such a group if he wished and that the bill would give it only subpena power "to harrass and to plague the people of the South."

With the commission due to report in the next presidential election year, he said, it could be used for "a political witch hunt."

He also contended that there is no need for a new civil rights division in the justice department "unless mass lawsuits against our people are being contemplated."

'Most Deadly'

Ellender described the third section, containing broad authority for injunctions to protect civil rights, as the "most deadly." He said it would vest new police power in the federal government, destroy the right of states to prosecute criminal offenses and deny citizens their constitutional right to indictment by grand jury and trial by jury.

He expressed the belief that the provision would permit the jailing of all members of a state legislature who tried to enact laws to preserve segregated schools.

Ellender also argued that the right-to-vote section would be "an improper exercise of whatever power the federal government has in this field."

'Trap' Set Up By Husband Leads To Airman's Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13 (AP)—A Tinker Air Force Base sergeant described as "one of the finest airmen" in his unit was shot to death here last night when he walked into a "trap" set by the husband of an attractive 19-year-old housewife.

Police said he apparently was "the telephone suitor" who had phoned Emilie Canavan 15 times during the past week, attempting to make a date with her after her husband left for Wyoming.

At the suggestion of police, Mrs. Canavan agreed to meet the "telephone suitor" who identified himself as "Doug Edwards."

This Is Edwards

Ohmann, who said, "This is Edwards," when he arrived, was shot by the woman's husband, Leo J. Canavan. Canavan was waiting in the apartment armed with a .22 caliber pistol.

Detectives Don Cochran and E. B. Salty Meals were enroute to the apartment when the shooting occurred.

Cochran said Canavan, a 21-year old pilot, left a week ago for Casper, Wyo., for two weeks of summer training with the Air National Guard. A picture of Mrs. Canavan kissing her husband good by appeared in the local newspaper, and Cochran said the young housewife had been receiving telephone calls since that time.

She became so distraught that Canavan flew a jet plane home on emergency leave Thursday.

Ordered To Freeze

Canavan said when the Tinker airman entered the apartment, he stepped out of the bedroom and told him to "freeze," but the man instead grabbed Mrs. Canavan,

Thurmond Launches Move To Halt Airliner Drinking

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Sen. Strom Thurmond asserted today the scheduled airlines' voluntary program for limiting drinking on commercial airliners "appears to have broken down."

The South Carolina Democrat said he would press for early hearings on his bill to ban the serving of liquor on transport planes.

The voluntary program, which limits each passenger to not more than two drinks, went into effect a year ago. Thurmond said he has been getting "numerous reports the program is not working out."

Two Drink Plan Outwitted

"I have heard of many cases of unpleasant and potentially dangerous intoxication on airliners," he told the United Press. "The voluntary program appears to have broken down. I have asked the chairman of the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Aviation to hold early hearings on my bill."

Chairman of that subcommittee is Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.). Thurmond said Monroney has assured him he would set a hearing date as soon as possible.

The House last year overwhelmingly passed a bill similar to Thurmond's, but the airlines—apparently trying to beat Congress to the punch—set up their voluntary "two drinks to a customer" plan. The measure died in the Senate but has been reintroduced in both Houses this session.

Airlines Ignore Code

Rowland K. Quinn Jr., president of the Airline Stewards and Stewardesses Association, hailed Thurmond's move.

The airlines have failed completely to provide any relief through their proposed code," Quinn said. "The airlines seem to have a tacit agreement to ignore the code and we have had many reports of stewardesses being disciplined for failure to serve enough liquor to meet airline quotas."

Quinn said federal aid regulations forbid airline captains from accepting drunken passengers.

NEW AGA KHAN INTERVIEWED—Aga Khan IV, successor to his late grandfather as spiritual leader of 20 million Ismaili Moslems, talks with reporters in Geneva, Switzerland. # 10 Million Ismaili Moslems Accept New, Youthful Ruler

VERSOIX, Switzerland, July 13 (UP) — Ten-million Ismaili Moslems today accepted a 20-year-old Harvard student as their spiritual ruler in a ceremony that transformed him from Prince Karim, a nervous college boy, into the all-powerful Aga Khan IV.

Two days of ceremony at the family villa here were marred by an attempted burglary. Police seized three men trying to enter the villa Friday night only a few hours after it was announced that the late Aga Khan had chosen his elder grandson as his successor. All three were being held for interrogation.

Needs Modern Leader

A 43-member delegation from various branches of the Shiah Ismaili sect arrived to greet the slim, handsome son of Prince Aly Khan.

They were escorted to a salon in the villa and there heard the new Aga read "relevant" sections of the old Aga's will which proclaimed him as his heir.

They heard the old Aga's words that the Ismaili sect "needs a modern-minded young leader to cope with the problems of an atomic world."

Then religious ceremonies confirming him were held privately. The group later assembled on the green villa lawn.

New Ruler Nervous

The new Aga sat on a cream-colored satin chair, nervous and tense, with the 43 Ismaili leaders and a group of 15 women assembled around him.

His face was composed, but he gripped his knees so tightly the knuckles of his hands showed white.

He refused to answer questions but stated gravely, "My religious duties start as of today."

Cries of "enough" and "that's all" forced the newsmen to leave.

His father, Prince Aly, and his half-uncle, Prince Sadruddin, and his younger brother, Prince Amyn, were not present at the villa ceremonies.

Inside the building, in a room shuttered and kept locked, Swiss morticians prepared the body of the new Aga's 79-year-old grandfather for burial.

Pair Jailed On Check Charges

BOSSIER CITY, La., July 13 (UP)—A local man and woman were being held here today by police for investigation on charges of passing bad checks.

Police identified the two as Joseph Isaac Procella, 23, and Miss Rita Barham, 20.

They were arrested at a local grocery store and reportedly admitted to police they had passed as much as $1,000 in bad checks in about a month.

Woman's Body Is Identified By Tattoo Marks

ENID, Okla., July 13 (UP) — The body of a woman, which was found at the Great Salt Plains Reservoir east of Cherokee today, was identified from tattoos on her chest as Billie Stopil, about 22, of Enid.

The identification was made by Beverly Kline; also of Enid, who had been on a swimming party with the woman.

Alfalfa county Sheriff Aubrey Tatro said the body was bruised and there was bleeding from the left ear, indicating a skull fracture.

Tatro asked for an autopsy to determine whether there had been any foul play.

Far-Reaching Changes Facing Auto Industry

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, July 13 (AP)—The upsets of 1957 in production volume and market penetration are bringing far-reaching changes in auto industry practices.

Car makers for whom 1958 should be an "off year" in design and engineering changes will striye to retain the gains they have made or recover the losses they suffered in the changed pattern of the current model year. So changes comparable in many respects to those incorporated in a wholly new model introduction have been engineered by many car makers.

More Frequent

In many ways the new policy of more frequent major design changes spells the end of an era—an era that brought two years of "face lifting" changes following the introduction of an entirely new model. A spokesman for one leading car producer says "face lifting" is a thing of the past: that it no longer is sufficient to satisfy the car buyer in an age of sizzling competition.

Ford division which ousted Chevrolet from the top position in car assemblies and retail deliveries this year wants to hold the No. 1 spot. But it will have to compete with an entirely new Chevrolet in the new model year that starts next November. Buick, which lost the No. 3 spot to Plymouth this year, will try to regain that position.

Buick, of course, does not compete model for model with Plymouth. Its "Special" series comes closest to the Plymouth price field. But it also produces a substantial volume in its Century, Super and Roadmaster series.

But the over-all volume that goes with third place in industry output and retail deliveries is a coveted prize. In many ways the Buick effort to regain the spot second only to Ford and Chevrolet holds as much interest as does the battle between the top two car makers.

In 1955, the most fabulous production and sales year in auto industry history, Buick built 781,296 cars and sold 737,879. That was 9.84 per cent of industry output and 10.29 per cent of industry sales. Currently Buick is accounting for better than 7 per cent of industry output and about 7.5 per cent of the industry's sales.

Productionwise Buick is far behind its 1956 performance. Through the first half of 1957 it built 239,000 cars compared with 322,271 in the like period of last year. But, important to the comeback effort it will press in 1958 is the fact it has kept its output volume closely geared to retail demand. That means it should have no dealer inventory problem at the end of the present model year.

Edward T. Ragsdale, Buick general manager since March 1956, says his goal for 1958 will be the production and sale of at least 550,000 cars. Like all other top executives of the car industry, Ragsdale is tight-lipped about the design changes that have been made for the 1958 model year.

But he talks with confidence about 1958. It is a safe assumption the broadest possible styling and engineering advances have been made for the coming model year.

This writer's guess is that Buick's engineering changes will include a new transmission extending the advantages of its variable-pitch Dynaflow unit and availability of air suspension to replace conventional springing. Of design and styling the guess is the 1958 cars will be an inch lower and a few inches longer over-all with entirely new front and rear end treatment.

No Krebiozen Controversy Without Andrew C. Ivy

NEW YORK (UP) — If there hadn't been an Andrew Conway Ivy, there would have been no Krebiozen controversy. Only an Ivy could have maintained himself against the scientific community for almost six years—and only an Ivy would have investigated the stuff in the first place.

He is a two-way doctor, a Ph.D. as well as an M.D. In his youth he enjoyed nothing more than putting on boxing gloves. In 1949 when Krebiozen first came to his attention, he was vice-president of the University of Illinois in administrative charge of the Medical, Dental, and Pharmacological Colleges, and he was head of the Department of Clinical Science and professor of physiology.

Nor was that the full measure of his eminence. He was universally recognized as a cancer expert, a director of the American Cancer Society, an influential figure in the councils of the American Medical Assn. which had honored him with medals and scientific appointments, chairman or member of many scientific committees, frequent adviser of the federal and state governments on scientific matters, recipient of six honorary doctorates and many other recognitions.

Top of Heap

As he sat in his Chicago office on a summer day in 1949, he was most definitely at the top of the heap. His secretary said a man wanted to see him, and he said, let the man come in. Being Ivy, his door is always open to anyone at any time. For years he had thought that the day might come when someone would walk through that open door with the answer to cancer.

The man spoke no English and was accompanied by a French-speaking American businessman. Through this interpreter, he said his name was Steven Durovic and he was a Yugoslav emigre living in Buenos Aires and engaged there in a pharmaceutical business with his brother, Marko. He was a doctor of medicine, Durovic continued, having gotten his degree from the University of Belgrade where he had been a professor of medicine until forced into exile by the post-war revolution which overthrew the monarchy.

His only credentials were his own say-so. He was a scientific unknown—he had never contributed a word to "the literature "But he made sense at once to Dr. Ivy. He said he had obtained from the blood of horses, a substance which he believed horse body chemistry had produced for the purpose of protecting horses from the overgrowth of new body tissues. Uncontrolled growth is the essential mechanism of cancer.

Agrees To Test

What Durovic wanted to know, would this substance protect other animals, particularly man, and would Ivy test it and find out? Ivy said he would. Being Ivy, he had tested anything which made even a little sense theoretically; indeed, his major scientific reputation was for being an utterly tireless investigator.

Naturally, he asked Durovic for the details. Durovic said he would not disclose the precise methods he had used in obtaining the material; nor would he provide the pure substance for chemical analysis. He was the discoverer and he expected to profit from it, he said, and he was afraid other pharmaceutical interests would pirate it. He added that he had already put well over 1 million dollars into his experiments — his family's money and the money of investors.

To any other scientific investigator, Durovic's secrecy would have closed the door. The secret remedy, the unknown chemical compound, the magic potion rouse blinding suspicions in practically all scientific minds, and you can see why because the secret remedy is the essence of medical quackry. Scientific ethics enjoin very strictly against secrecy. But Ivy had always been unorthodox.

Entitled To Profit

Bing Ivy, the mere possibility of Durovic's material being "biologically active" against cancer in man was the paramount consideration. Believing in "the American system of free enterprise," he believed the discoverer of such a substance was entitled to profit from his discovery, he explained to this reporter, adding that, anyway, he was concerned with the scientific aspects, not the commercial ones.

So Durovic supplied the material, which he had named Krebiozen. It was dissolved in vegetable oil in ampules. Ivy had only Durovic's word that it was a white powder—even to this day he has never seen the substance in its pure form. Nor has anyone else, aside from Durovic and his brother. That is the basis for opposition charges that perhaps it doesn't exist.

Ivy injected ampule contents first in animals, then into himself. In that way, he found out it was, at least, harmless. His animal experiments, so dearly prized by orthodox scientists, were sketchy but indicated the material was active. He proceeded to two human beings with far advanced — and hopeless—cancer. Their tumors shrank. Thus Ivy began an investigation which continues to this day. However, all incredible hell soon broke loose. If it hadn't happened you couldn't believe it.

Baptist Storm Relief Fund At $54 Thousand

ALEXANDRIA, July 13 (Special) — Some $54,396 had been received yesterday at Baptist headquarters here for the Hurricane disaster fund being promoted by the Louisiana Baptist convention.

The hurricane disaster fund will be used for relief and rehabilitation in Cameron Parish and to rebuild Baptist churches in the area, according to Dr. James W. Middleton, chairman of the special committee promoting the fund.

The committee has set a goal of at least $100,000 for the special fund. Middleton said he hoped the goal will be passed when churches make their second plea next Sunday.

Middleton said many of the churches have not sent in the amounts collected last Sunday but are waiting until after this Sunday's offerings are in to send their checks to Alexandria.

Dr. Robert L. Lee, executive secretary of the convention, has urged all Baptist churches to send their gifts to Baptist headquarters as soon as possible so that the money can be distributed at once.

Woman Injured In Auto Crash

A West Monroe woman was injured and her car was demolished at 4:30 p.m. yesterday at the intersection of DeSiard and Manassas streets when a large truck crashed into her auto.

Sadie M. Neal, 16, of 300 Jackson street, West Monroe, suffered a cut on the left side of her head when a truck, driven by Joe Fletcher, 19, Negro of the Foster Homes rammed the left front of her car. He was charged with reckless driving.

Monroe police who investigated said that Mrs. Neal was driving east on DeSiard and Fletcher was going west, when he tried to make a left turn onto Manassas street and hit her car. The truck was not damaged, due to a large bumper on the front.

Mrs. Neal was taken to a private physician for treatment.

Soybeans Lead Grain Market

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Soybeans became the center of attraction on the Board of Trade this week as brokers, slightly aghast at the government's crop report, pushed some other grain prices downward.

Soybeans, facing the possibility of good demand and lighter supplies, soared 9½ cents Friday — within ½ cent of the daily limit. For the week they showed gains of as much as 13 cents.

Advances in soybeans aided futures in other pits, although wheat and rye particularly had shown some outstanding strength of their own earlier.

New style wheat closed Friday 1⅝ to 3¼ cents higher than a week ago Friday. Corn was 3½ lower to ⅛ higher, oats ¾ higher to ½ lower, rye 5 to 7 cents higher, soybeans 7½ to 13 cents higher, and lard 47 to 63 cents a hundred pounds higher.

HARD WORK RECOMMENDED

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — (UP) "Hard work never killed anybody," commented Mrs. Leah Deslaurier on her 97th birthday. She recalls the first job of her girlhood, at the Strathmore Paper Co. mill, at $3 a month.

GIRARD'S BRIDE LISTENS—Haru "Candy" Girard, Japanese bride of SP3 William Girard, held in the death of a Japanese scrap collector, listens to the latest news on the radio in her apartment at Kagohara, Japan, near Camp Whittington, as the U. S. Supreme Court decision that he be tried by a Japanese court is made known. Candy feels that a court conducted by her countrymen will be more lenient to her husband than an army court martial. ON CIVIL RIGHTS STAND

More Area Groups Join In Opposition To Gravel

National Democratic Committeeman Camille Gravel, Jr. continued to come under fire for his segregation views as two Northeast Louisiana parishes voiced public opposition last week.

The Democratic Executive Committees of Richland and Morehouse parishes joined a state-wide move to oust Gravel, who has announced he is in favor of President Eisenhower's civil rights bill.

The Morehouse parish Democratic Committee adopted a resolution calling for the removal of Gravel because he supports civil rights legislation.

According to Committee secretary E. G. Brown of Rayville, the Richland group several days ago telegraphed Gravel requesting that he resign because his "views are not with the majority of the Democrats of the state."

Brown said the Richland Comittee also sent a wire to N. N. Carstaphan, member of the State Central Committee, of Shreveport, commending him on his stand against Gravel.

Join Group

Richland and Morehouse joined a group in Madison parish and Sheriff Elliott Coleman, also member of the State Central Committee, of Tensas parish in denouncing Gravel's actions.

In addition to Sheriff Coleman, Charles E. Cox, central committeeman for West Carroll parish, and four other state committeemen have taken a stand against Gravel.

While opposition was snowballing against Gravel in the area, C. C. Bell, Jr., chairman of the Fifth District Democratic Committee, expressed "absolute astonishment" at Gravel's position.

"I cannot understand why any Southerner can go along with a proposition that stands to wreck our social and judicial systems that have stood for so much for so long," he stated.

Hits At Bill

Bell also hit the civil rights bill, saying "that section of the civil rights bill which would eliminate trial by jury is at best a serious threat to established American jurisprudence."

He stated that he had "noticed the Republicans in Louisiana have been reluctant to embrace their own president's civil rights program."

"If they are reluctant why should Democrats carry the ball for them?" Bell asked.

The Morehouse group said Gravel should resign because "he favors adoption of the so-called civil rights bill. . .which is opposed to the views and sentiments of a vast majority of the people of Louisiana."

Curing Louisiana Alcoholics

A campaign is underway throughout Louisiana for the eventual hospitalization and possible cure of every alcoholic in the state, including the down-and-outers who now spend more than half of their time in jail.

This is a worthy project and could eventually save both the state and the many cities of Louisiana large sums that are now spent in caring for those persons so chronically drunk that they are unable to hold jobs.

Monroe is one of the cities which have their quota of the chronic drunks and City Judge W. M. Harper has frequently called attention to the need for curing these persons. He has stated that the only present course is to send them to jail and that this does not solve the problem of these individuals, although it does prevent them from disturbing other people.

It is generally accepted now among physicians, psychologists, ministers and social workers that most persons who become alcoholics do so because they have not become socially adjusted. Nearly all alcoholics are lonely persons who do not have many social contacts. Many of them have no other form of recreation or entertainment. As a rule, they do not play games, indulge in sports or take physical exercise. This has led those concerned with the problem to believe that the whole personality of the alcoholic needs to undergo a change.

Apparently the greatest single organization working for the relief of alcoholics is "Alcoholics Anonymous." This group lives up to its name. It has no officers, no directors, no formal organization and no enrolled members. The only qualification for participation in its program is a desire to be rid of the alcoholic habit and to admit that this habit cannot be conquered alone.

Since alcoholism is conceded to be a personality problem, there apparently has been some belief that tranquilizing medicine might help.

A study conducted by Dr. Thomas M. Burbridge and Dr. Violette E. Sutherland at the University of California medical research center showed the opposite to be true. Their findings were revealed in the first report of the California alcoholic rehabilitation commission on research and treatment of alcoholism in California.

A part of the report said:

"Persons who take both tranquilizers and alcohol become more intoxicated than those drinking alcohol alone.

"There can be a delayed effect. A person using a tranquilizer could take a drink and notice no change. Yet he could be "hit" later—maybe while driving a car."

The report showed that the guy who is the life of the party on four jiggers of bourbon can cause a riot if he adds one of the popular tranquilizers. The series of experiments involving students revealed that, when a certain tranquilizer was mixed with alcohol, the drinkers "not only get more gay, but many of them tried to put each other into showers and things like that."

Researchers believe a person is approaching the state of being an alcoholic when no form of amusement or entertainment seems worthwhile without a generous supply of alcoholic liquor. When the person depends on liquor alone for enjoyment or entertainment, he is a confirmed alcoholic and must have outside help in order to recover.

In Louisiana it is proposed to set up seven centers for the treatment of alcoholics. This proposed project deserves unanimous support.

Army Russia's Real Boss

"As the army goes, so goes Russia."

In any dictator country might makes right and the crowd applauds. It applauds the winner in the same way that a crowd at a prize fight applauds the man who beats his foe to a pulp. It is not that one man is liked better than another; it is merely that the winner is the hero.

Khrushchev did not win control in Russia because he was more popular with the people than were Molotov, Malenkov and Bulganin. He won it because he had the support of Red Army Marshal Georgi Zhukov, who is rapidly emerging as the key factor behind the power shift in Soviet leadership.

In a report made on the triumphant trip of Khrushchev and Bulganin into Czechoslovakia it was stated that Khrushchev, the Soviet party chief, appeared fresh and buoyant as he swung down from a special train at the central station in Prague. In contrast, Bulganin, the premier of Russia, appeared red-eyed, tired and drawn.

There was no reason to believe the trip had been harder on Bulganin than on Khrushchev. The difference was that Khrushchev had just scored a big political victory, while Bulganin was in the doghouse. Bulganin gave Khrushchev full credit for "uncovering and destroying" the Molotov-Malenkov opposition.

There was speculation that Bulganin had supported Georgia Malenkov and Vyacheslav Molotov in the row with Khrushchev.

Apparently there were four or five of Russia's top men against Khrushchev and only one of them on his side. How, then, could Khrushchev come out on top? It was easy enough. The one man who supported Khrushchev controlled Russia's mighty Red army. How could a few puny men, no matter how high in position, stand against the army?

Observers give Zhukov credit for kicking out Khrushchev's foes and elevating Khrushchev to a more powerful position.

So Zhukov can make or break Russia's top men. What kind of position does that leave him in? Apparently it should give him anything he wants, including the premiership and, later, possibly the dictatorship.

Russia's army gains control over the civil government and the Russian government and the Russian people cheer the winner—any winner.

In the meantime, Malenkov, who was once Russia's premier, has been shipped off to Siberia. He has been buried even deeper in Siberia than was Leon Trotsky, when he was sent into exile by the late premier and dictator Josef Stalin.

Malenkov has been made manager of a hydroelectric plant in East Kazakhstan. Electric plants can be dangerous. There is a possibility that Malenkov may be involved in an accident. Precarious occupations may also await the others.

Giant Historical Stride

Assignment of Admiral Felix B. Stump as commander-in-chief of all United States military forces in the Pacific and the Far East is hailed in Washington as a gigantic stride in history.

Spain first controlled the Pacific by discovery and colonization. Then Britain as a naval power held sway for generations. Germany and the United States later became interested but were not dominant.

Given entrenchment by League of Nations mandates following World War I, Japan energetically expanded her Pacific empire until, at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack in 1941, she became the controlling power. In the war she started Japan was uprooted from the Pacific.

Now the United States, because of dominant power, swift communication and transportation, has more closely knitted the Pacific into one unit than was ever done before. The dream of many, since Magellan's circumnavigation of the globe, for a trans-Pacific empire is more nearly approximated. The U. S., as the order keeping power, has posted watch over the many atolls and archipelagos to prevent trouble.

The primary purpose of the Stump command is defense of the free world against aggression, particularly aggression that would menace the United States. His watch will cover half the surface of the earth.

The Pacific is now definitely a U.S. lake. Pride over that achievement of national prestige is tempered in Washington, however, by the knowledge that this suzerainty is a burdensome and perilous task.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

President Eisenhower Winning Fight For Republican Support Of Program

WASHINGTON, July 13 (CQ)—President Eisenhower is winning his fight for Republican support of his legislative program.

Congressional Republicans, who opposed the President more often than not in the first four months of 1957, are reversing themselves and regaining their normal place as the most consistent supporters of the Chief Executive's program.

Congressional Quarterly's interim survey of Congressional roll-call votes through July 9 shows the average Republican legislator voted with the President 54 per cent of the time, while the average Democrat backed him on 50 per cent of the tests.

On May 12, when Congressional Quarterly last surveyed the situation, Democrats led Republicans in support of the President, 57 per cent to 44 per cent.

Two days after that survey appeared, Mr. Eisenhower made the first of two television speeches explaining his budget and requesting support for his foreign aid program. He then told a news conference he would support all Republican candidates but would work "enthusiastically" for "people who believe, as I do, that the Republican platform of 1956 must be our political doctrine."

He followed up these statements with a series of breakfasts for all House Republicans, phone calls and informal chats with GOP Senators.

The new survey leaves no doubt the President's effort has paid off. A few figures are enough to tell the story.

Switch In House

Through May 12, the average House Republican had voted for the President's program 42 per cent of the time, against it 55 per cent of the time and had been unrecorded on the other 3 per cent of the votes.

In the latest survey he had upped his Support score 10 points, to 52 per cent, and cut his Opposition score 13 points, to 42 per cent. Absences account for the other 6 per cent of the votes.

Meanwhile, the average Republican Senator's score has not changed. He remains strongly for the Eisenhower program, supporting it 66 per cent of the time, opposing it 19 per cent of the time and unrecorded on the other 15 per cent of the tests.

The reversal by House Republicans has raised the combined Senate - House Republican Support score from 44 per cent to 54 per cent, cut the combined Republican Opposition score from 52 per cent to 38 per cent.

Tempering the satisfaction the White House can take in this trend are four important facts:

1. Despite the recent upswing, Republican support of the President's program is still not as high as in former years. The 54 per cent Support score for 1957 contrasts with a 67 per cent Support score for the average Republican in the two years of the last Congress.

2. Democrats still lead Republicans in support of the President's program in every section of the country except the South. The big bloc of southern Democratic Representatives, who agree with the President only 35 per cent of the time, lowers the Democratic score enough to put the Republicans in the lead nationally.

3. While Republican support of the President has grown since May, Democratic support has declined from 57 per cent to 50 per cent — the same as it was in 1955-56.

4. Because of all these trends, the President's 1957 legislative won-loss record is not up to the standard of prior years.

Congressional Quarterly identified 66 roll-call tests through July 9—34 in the House and 32 in the Senate—where the President, by message or public statement before the vote, made clear his stand on the issue.

Congress backed his position on 43 of those 66 roll calls, for a winning score of 65 per cent. In the Democratic 84th Congress the President won 72 per cent of his tests and in the Republican 83rd Congress he won 83 per cent of them.

Most Wins Bipartisan

Twenty-nine of the President's legislative victories were bipartisan, with a majority of both parties backing his stand. Notable among them were passage by both chambers of the Mideast Resolution and the recent House passage of the civil rights bill.

Six of the victories, including the House rejection of the jury trial amendment, can be credited to the Republicans. The other eight — mainly on budget matters — were achieved by the Democrats.

Of his 23 defeats, 11 can be laid to the Democrats. Among them were the House defeat of increased defense appropriations and the Senate vote for the Federal Hells Canyon dam.

Eight of his defeats — all on budget matters — were handed him by Republican majorities, and the other four losses — also part of the economy drive — found most members of both parties voting against the President's position.

The President's most consistent supporters in each party so far in 1957 are Sens. Thruston B. Morton (R., Ky.) and Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.), Reps. Horace Seely-Brown (R., Conn.) and Henry S. Reuss (D., Wis.).

Those in each party who have voted against his stand most often in 1957 are Sens. George W. Malone (R. Nev.) and Russell B. Long (D., La.), Reps. Bruce Alger (R., Texas) and Robert T. Ashmore (D., S. C.).

Nearly 12,000 Investors Back Hell's Canyon Dams

AIR-BORNE IN IDAHO — You come out of Boise in a single-engine Cessna, you climb to 10,000 feet and in about 40 minutes you are chin to chin with the Seven Devils, which are vicious-looking mountain peaks impishly dappled under the midsummer sun with snow.

Down below the Seven Devils is the dark, tumbled gulch which cradles a tormented stream. This is Hell's Canyon in the Snake River Valley where nearly 12,000 investors are building a series of three hydroelectric dams at Brownlee, Oxbow and Hell's Canyon itself. One picture is worth a thousand words. One glimpse is worth all the Congressional oratory concerning this over-debated dam site. If you want some definitions, here they are. Private enterprise? Risk capital: The greatness of this Atlas - shouldered America with its unique system of capitalism? The definition for all these things is natural resources plus profits - seeking ingenuity.

There are many obstructions in the game of dam building, and a minor one in this instance is myself. Last autumn I opposed the re-election of Senator Herman Welker (R.) and supported Senator Frank Church (D.), who spearheaded the Senate movement to kill the private enterprise dams of the Idaho Power Company. Only last month I was crying "scandal" when the company got a tax favor by what looked like subterfuge on the part of the Eisenhower Administration. You are dead wrong if you think that criticism of unworthy men and measures on the free enterprise side is inconsistent with a stand for free enterprise. All American institutions — Capital, Labor, the churches, the sports, the colleges —should clean their own homes. And whether or not anybody agrees, this column will call all shots as I see 'em, no matter who hollers. The Idaho Power Company seems to see it my way, for I am their guest on this trip, one of 35 or more newspaper persons who have been flown over or into the dam sites by the company.

When I signed the guest book on July 5th there were over 4000 names of tourists, representing 44 States, showing for the month of June. These numbers are a testament to the dramatic nature of dam building in the mountain wilds. Glenn Johnson, the resident manager for the construction firm, tells me he started bringing in the giant earth-movers back in November, 1955. He got eight miles from the first up-river site, the place called Brownlee, and from there on he had to build an access road. Later he built a bridge, a camp with offices and mess halls, a brick village for the permanent staff, and removed a landslide which had blocked the road. "For 150 days between November and March," he said, "we fought the weather."

Not only nature but nature-lovers, it appears, have to be hurdled in dam building. The Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington wrote a save-the-salmon proviso into the license granted by the Federal Power Commission. The company is obliged to spend over $500,000 to build and operate an electronic fish trap and to conduct fish studies. The Smithsonian Institution requires the company to spend up to $12,000 to preserve Indian relics and other prehistoric data which turn up in the excavation. The National Park Service makes the company spend $60,000 for recreational studies of the area. The Army Corps of Engineers requires that the Brownlee reservoir be run for flood control purposes. The States of Idaho and Oregon get some expensive benefits from this corporate venture.

Another natural obstacle, in a manner of speaking, is the family building habits of the American race. Some 1200 workers of the Morrison - Knudsen Construction Company moved in with their trailer homes and over 200 school-age children. This blessed event had an inundating effect upon the school district on the Oregon side of the river. There was no contractual obligation, but the dam builders dug down again and built a temporary primary school at the Brownlee site, a permanent and highly-modern grade school at the Oxbow site, which is 12 miles downstream, plus the hiring of seven teachers and bus service to the high school at Halfway, Oregon, 22 miles from the trailer village. The investment in education has cost an estimated $50,000 thus far.

Don't be misled. None of this is altruism. It is capitalism. The cost of all these obstacle-leaps is part of the price which the Idaho Public Utilities Commission will permit the company to charge for electrical power.

Editor, Monroe Morning World,

Having served my lifetime in the school work in Franklin parish as teacher and for some 30 years as superintendent of education until my retirement, and, having kept up with the continued progress of the schools in Franklin parish and those who have worked so diligently and given so freely of their time and talents towards the progress of the school system, naturally I am concerned over the continued progress of the schools.

One matter that has given me great concern of late and a matter that concerns our entire parish school system is the unfair and unjust charges and persecution being heaped upon A. J. Ensminger of ward one of this parish. Mr. Ensminger was elected to the Franklin parish school board and served on same for several years while I was serving as superintendent. He won the race in the first primary, defeating the two other candidates While this was a new work for him, he soon learned as much about the school system as the older members on the board, and, in no time the school board appointed him to the executive committee, on which committee he is serving as of this date.

I have known Mr. Ensminger since childhood and it was my distinct privilege to present him with his high school diploma. His education did not come to him easy and when he graduated into high school there was no high school in Wisner. He walked the five miles from Wisner to Gilbert each day over trails to obtain his high school education, and worked his way through college. After leaving college he started to work for a large lumber concern in Wisner as an office clerk. The general manager soon saw that the young man had executive abilities and was capable of putting over a program in a most efficient manner, so, immediately he was transferred to other departments for training and at the age of 30 was promoted to assistant general manager. At the age of 33 he was promoted to the position of general manager of the Louisiana operations and became the youngest executive in the largest corporation in the world. He is still manager of their Louisiana and Arkansas holdings. Recently, through his efforts, his company was awarded the first tree farm certificate in the nation to be presented to a strictly hardwood operator.

Mr. Ensminger's family background is school connected. His grandmother, Mrs. M. S. Hardy, was one of the first teachers in Franklin parish. Likewise, his mother, Mrs. Stella Hardy Ensminger taught in the parish schools and the two were largely responsible for my getting into the school work. Too, one of his sisters, Mrs. Stella Mae Ward taught for several years in the parish schools.

With reference to a board member's privilege to fire or have a teacher fired when anything goes wrong, the general public should be informed of the fact that the principal duties of a school board member are financial and pertain to the business end of the school system. Any complaints against a teacher should be registered with the parish class room supervisor and-or the superintendent of education. Any person has the right to present his or her accusations to the supervisor or superintendent and they are the ones to take the corrective measures. During my 30 years as superintendent the supervisor corrected several similar cases. Neither Mr. Ensminger nor any other member of the Franklin parish school board can fire a teacher unless due process of the law is followed and the entire school board takes action, not the individual member. Before a school board can take action written charges must be preferred. Should any patron of ward one have any different ideas they should acquaint themselves with the laws pertaining to teachers tenure. The good people of ward one of Franklin parish should take cognizance of this fact before unjustly accusing their board member.

To vote Mr. Ensminger out of office would not only be a severe blow to the Wisner High School, but would be detrimental to the school system of Franklin parish. The good citizens and voters do not wish for this to occur. Therefore, when you go to the polls on July 23, 1957 vote against the recall election and keep your good member on the board where he has so efficiently and faithfully served you. He knows how to put over a good program for the boys and girls of our parish.

Further, I would like to add that I have known Mr. Ensminger to be a tried and true Christian and Christian worker. He served as Sunday school teacher and on the official board of his church for many years. He served four years as associate lay leader for the Monroe district of his church. He has also served the boyhood of his ward and north Louisiana for over 20 years in the Boy Scout movement, serving some 11 years as scoutmaster. He is the recipient of the Silver Beaver award, the highest council award in scouting. He has served as district deputy grand master of the fourth Masonic district and has been active in Masonry for many years. He has constantly had the youth of his community at heart and still works with them.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN L. MCDUFF

Editor, Morning World

I have just finished reading the article (in Friday's News-Star) attributed to C. C. Bell, Jr., concerning the Eisenhower Brownell civil rights bill now in the senate and, also, his astonishment at the position of Camille Gravel.

It is also astonishing to me that C. C. Bell, Jr., would have taken the position he took last March 31, 1956 when he was right by this same Camille Gravel's side when they made a "special" trip to the executive session of the city Democratic executive committee's meeting in the courthouse for the unilateral purpose of being sure that the "Qualifying Statement" was on the certification of the city candidates.

However, I agree with C. C. Bell when he says he cannot understand why any southerner can go along with a proposition calculated to wreck our social and judicial systems.

I, for one, along with thousands of others, that I am personally acquainted with, have dedicated ourselves to resist anything calculated to wreck our social customs or judicial systems that we have had in effect for all these years. I am against the so called civil rights bill and tooth and toe nail against Camille Gravel. He should leave Louisiana!

Yours truly,
GEORGE H. STRONG
Chairman City Democratic Executive Committee.

Soviet Has More Trouble

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Things change a lot in ten years, yet in most respects remain the same. This history of the United States of Soviet Russia in the last decade substantiates that old truism. In 1947, the Communists by trickery, deceit and brutal force had completed their first subjugation of Hungary. They had been repulsed in Turkey and Greece, with American assistance to those countries. And they were moving confidently to gain control, over the Middle East.

The Iron Curtain had been first described in those words by Winston Curchill early in 1946, Josef Stalin was hopefully predicting a great capitalist depression in the United States and General George Marshall aad just unveiled his multi - billion dollar plan at a Harvard commencement.

This country was getting its first intimation of the extent of Communist infiltration and all western Europe stood in fear of Communist domination. Now ten years and many acts later in the drama of world affairs, the picture has altered considerably for the better, the U. S. is 14 billion dollars deeper in debt, and Soviet Russia is having more trouble than ever in making the Communist system work.

In economic terms, conditions in the USSR have improved, since they could hardly have been worse, but Russia is still as far behind as it was in 1947 because the scale of living in the free world has improved at a much faster rate. The next year, officialdom here believes, will be crucial for the new Khruschev-Zhukov government. Since Stalin's death, the constant turmoil in Russia has made the huge Red military establishment its only stable force.

'Ham' Operators Are Vital Links

By JIMMY HATTEN
Staff Writer

One of the quickest and most effective means of sending messages is through an apparatus operated by amateurs.

The apparatus is a short-wave radio, and the amateurs who operate it are called "hams."

Ham radio operators have a knack for making themselves extremely useful when they are most needed.

Although classified as "amateurs," hams have to pass examinations and be licensed by the federal communications commission before they can operate their sets.

They operate their radios within assigned bands of frequency which the commission has approved.

Bare Essentials

It takes about $175-$200 to set up the barest essentials of a set, and many hams invest hundreds of dollars more in their outfits.

There are about 60 ham radio operators in the Monroe area, many of whom belong to the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio Club, headed by Ted Van Laningham.

There are more than 100,000 hams in the United States, plus many other thousands in other countries. About 38 per cent belong to the official organization, the Amateur Radio Relay League.

Some sets owned by hams are powerful enough to reach all the way around the world. Marvin Hill of Monroe, who has one of the high - powered sets, often talks to persons in the far corners of the earth.

He once helped an expectant mother in Arkansas obtain some badly - needed money from her serviceman husband in less than two hours.

Hams in Arkansas contacted Marvin and told him the woman was expecting her child very soon and was in desperate need of money.

Marvin contacted an operator at the base where the serviceman was stationed in Japan, and he wired the money to his wife.

In times of emergencies, communication is of the utmost importance. But areas hit by disasters many times are rendered completely without contact with the outside world.

Unless someone in the area is a ham radio operator.

During disasters, such as the recent hurricane that lashed the Cameron area, hams cooperated with civil defense personnel, Red Cross, and the National Guard in transmitting emergency messages.

Maj. Gen. Raymond Hufft, commander of the Louisiana Guard and head of the State Civil Defense Agency used ham radios to direct operations following the hurricane at Cameron.

The operation of ham radios is a fascinating hobby, and persons in all walks of life — from ditch-diggers to millionnaires employ their ingenuity in making their sets models of efficiency.

Distinguished Operator

Numbered among ham radio operators is Herbert Hoover, Jr., who is a former member of President Eisenhower's cabinet.

Hams are always willing to help persons contact relatives or friend during emergencies. Many persons in the Monroe area were aided by hams to make contact with relatives when Hurricane Audrey hit the Gulf Coast.

Although hams are not paid in monetary terms, they are content with the personal satisfaction that comes through rendering a valuable service to their fellow man at the time he needs it most.

IF ATOMIC ATTACK COMES:

Civil Defense Leaders Say U.S. Can Survive

Emergency National Headquarters, July 13 (UP)—Civil Defense leaders said today the United States could survive a real atomic attack such as yesterday's mock assault which theoretically laid waste a hundred cities and killed millions.

But they were not prepared to say whether the test of civil defense and mobilization in "operation Alert 1957" was a success.

"We can't say whether it was a success or a flop," said Defense Mobilization Chief Gordon Gray in a telephonic news conference.

Will Continue Next Week

Lewis E. Berry, acting federal civil defense administrator, said the operation would continue next week but that it is too early to say what plans need overhauling.

Hypothetical enemy aircraft flew across the top of the world yesterday and dropped a mythical 175 nuclear bombs on 162 targets.

A holocaust of unimaginable horror would have been created by their combined 451.7 megaton atomic bomb load — equal to 451,700,000 tons of TNT.

They struck at cities where more than 55 per cent of the U.S. population, or about 95 million persons, were living before the alert sounded.

If the attack had been real, a pall of deadly radioactive particles would have blanketed vast sections, following Americans as they fled the target cities, air bases and atomic installations.

Today would have been the day awful realization.

Officials said the government and its armed forces would have continued operating. No attempt has been made yet to estimate on a national scale exactly how much of the nation's industrial machine, utilities, health and sanitation services would be left to carry the burden of survival and fighting the war.

"Hope To God We Don't

"We will never really know whether the test operation was a success unless we get into a real situation," Gray said. "I hope to God we don't.

"The test has been imperfect," he said "but it showed we are improving. The test was a great exposing the weaknesses and the real strength."

Berry conceded that there had been delays in relaying information.

The test, they said, had been run off "without script."

TO GERRYMANDER NEGROES

Alabama Solon Seeks To Abolish His Own County

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 13 Details of state Sen. Sam Englehardt's plan to abolish his county came to light today in the wake of final enactment of another law aimed at Negro voting.

The reputedly wealthy landowner and White Citizens Council leader is expected to divide the territory among five neighboring counties.

Englehardt has already eliminated all but a dozen or so Negro voters in Tuskegee, the county seat, by narrowing the city boundaries to exclude all predominantly Negro residential areas.

That legislative act—which even before it went into effect had touched off a Negro boycott of white merchants in Tuskegee—became law Friday when the time ran out for Gov. James E. Folsom to veto it. The governor let the measure become effective without his signature.

Negroes Excluded

Excluded from the city under the new law are the famed Negro school, Tuskegee Institute, and the huge Tuskegee Veterans Hospital, one of the largest in the nation. Englehardt has accused employes of both institutions of leading the boycott.

His impending county abolition bill, which would require a constitutional amendment, seeks to accomplish the same purpose on a broader scale, by splitting up the heavy concentration of Negroes in Macon.

Because they outnumber white residents of the county almost 7 to 1, the Negroes could dominate political affairs if they voted in the same proportion that white residents do. At the moment, however, white voters have a 2½ to 1 edge in voting.

Concentration Heavy

A state revenue department estimated in 1955 fixed the white population at 4,703 compared with 27,234 Negroes. But there are 2,600 white voters in the county and only 1,053 Negroes.

By dividing the population among the surrounding counties, Englehardt reasons they will lose their numerical advantage. Of the five, only Bullock County has a Negro majority, and under the proposed bill, that county would gain some 3,000 white residents and only "a few hundred" Negroes.

The remaining four counties—Elmore, Lee, Montgomery and Tallapoosa—all have white majorities of 10,000 or more according to the 1955 estimate.

Engelhardt's gerrymandering measure would submit the question to the people during the statewide Democratic primary election next May. But the plan wouldn't go into effect for another four years.

'Lumbering Sound'

"There was a lumbering sound," said SP3 Charlie Harrison Stanley. "I thought the train had stopped, but then I saw two cars in the lake."

Saline Lake is a narrow, shallow branch that was once a river bed and now runs into the Saline River. It runs beneath the trestle about 12 miles west of here in secluded pine country.

Sheriff B. A. Courson of Hamburg, said "thousands" converged on the scene and three persons fainted in the 90-plus degree heat. The wreckage was roped off by the National Guard.

"He must have been killed instantly," Courson said when questioned about the man pinned under the piles of timber and freight cars.

One man standing around said the trestle was 31 years old and received repairs three years ago.

"I've traveled over this bridge for 37 years and had never had any trouble up until now," conductor Steve Tucker, 62, of El Dorado said. He was riding in the caboose also.

Seventy cars pulled by two diesels had gone across the trestle when it caved in. Four cars and the caboose were left on one side of the trestle after the collapse.

Moving Pulp Wood

Tucker said the train weighed 6,100 tons. He said they were moving pulp wood from the wooded area into Crossett.

A brother-in-law of the victim said the man had eight children—two by a former wife and six by the present. Kelly was employed by th Crossett Company.

News of the wreck traveled fast and there were reports that 10 men had been killed. Smith said several people were fighting at the wreckage before he could climb down from the caboose.

"There was a lot of screaming," he stated.

Kelly was standing between his two sons when the crash came. Joseph said Don was baiting their hooks and removing the fish. It was reported they left home early Saturday morning.

"I was fishing about a quarter of a mile away on the river," said H. C. Smith, same name as the brakeman, but a resident of the Stillion Community near the scene of the crash.

Heard Commotion

"I've heard that train come through here for years and I didn't figure it would stop," he said. "Then I heard all the commotion.

Sheriff Courson said the full impact of the crash," couldn't have hit" Kelly. A bull dozer stood by as crewmen awaited the arrival of Rock Island officials.

Newsmen were numerous and photographers shot pictures from below the trestle and atop its shaky remains despite warnings from the National Guard. A plane flew overhead.

Ambulances from Crossett rushed the boys to the hospital here. Cecil, son of the victim, was in a dazed condition, but Joseph talked freely with a clear mind.

The tragedy brought back memories of the drowning of four persons in the Parkdale area when their car ran off a bridge on a Thursday night several months ago. Their bodies weren't discovered until the following Sunday.

Six crewmen on the freight train were not hurt.

An official of another railroad who declined to be identified, said one of the cars apparently had derailed, causing trailing cars to pile up and resulting in collapse of the bridge.

A spokesman said last night that train service on the line is expected to be restored by Wednesday.

Statewide Appeal Made For Aid Funds

nificient job in the hurricane area," the senior senator commented, but "there are perhaps hundreds of families who have lost everything in the storm. They have no way of repaying loans. Their need is cash to help them begin anew," so "please help those who now so urgently need your help..."

Others on the program included Sheriff O. B. Carter of Cameron who thanked neighbor parish officials for sending help."

"We in Cameron are doing everything possible to clean up, to bring order out of confusion and to start to rebuild," he said.

"We would like the men to return and assist in salvage work now. We will report through the press, radio, and television when it is safe for families to return to the Cameron parish area," he added.

State police superintendent John (Nick) Brown asked other residents of the Cameron area not to re-enter "unless it is absolutely necessary."

Dr. Andrew Hebmeg, representing the State Board of Health, said public water supplies are "now all safe-guarded" and areas that are considered dangerous for family habitation are now being decontaminated by the health teams and others."

State Rep. Alvin Dyson, from Cameron parish, also appeared on the program.

Sec. of State Wade O. Martin Jr., moderator of the show, said, "there is no governmental agency available that can give money for the restoration of homes and buildings or for the purchase of the hundreds of necessities for hurricane survivors. But the Red Cross can give these things if you give to the Red Cross..."

A vast area in southeastern New Mexico, known as the Permian Basin, was once covered with a shallow sea and supported a great deal of marine life. The waters receded some 150 million years ago and today the area is widely-known as an important-petroleum producing region.

for one accident, and $5,000 property damage.

In some instances, Walker said, private cars owned by farmers have been granted lower rates under the new schedule because of lower risks.

Six Rate Areas

Louisiana has six territories for rating purposes. Walker listed the six, using the most common type of car insurance — for drivers over 25 who do not use their vehicles for business:

Territory 1 — Orleans, Jefferson, Plaquemine and St. Bernard parishes, $40 policy raised to $43.

Territory 2 — East Baton Rouge and West Baton Rouge, $45 policy raised to $50.

Territory 3 — Bossier, Caddo and De Soto, $40 policy raised to $43.

Territory 4 — Ouachita, $35 policy raised to $37.

Territory 5 — Calcasieu, $40 policy raised to $43.

Territory 6 — All other parishes, $35 policy raised to $37. The lone exception is Lafayette, formerly listed with a $39 rate in this classification, and now reduced to the new $37 rate because of improved traffic experience.

Rainach said the post of national committeeman was created as a central committee officer by resolution.

National committee rules provide a national committeeman is "nominated by the states . . . and confirmed by the national convention . . . ."

For removal, the rules provide: "After notice and opportunity grounds found by the national committee to constitute good and sufficient cause, the national committee may vote to remove a member. . . ."

Rainach said despite the fact civil rights legislation was endorsed in the Democratic platform, Gravel was not required to vote as he did.

"A member of the council from Alabama stood up for the South," he said, "and she's still a member of the council."

Chairman Rufus Hayes has said he will call a central committee meeting if a majority of the 101 members ask for it.

Committee members from Union, Morehouse, Avoyelles, Claiborne, Caddo, DeSoto, Madison, Tensas and West Baton Rouge have announced their support of the drive to oust Gravel.

Only two or three members have supported Gravel so far.

Downpour Is Worst Since 1885 Deluge

inches was set in the 24-hour period, Aug. 3 and 4, 1885.

By mid day Saturday, some major highways leading north from Chicago still were closed and barricaded.

The chief threat seemed to be danger of fires starting from shorted electrical installations or possible gas explosions where flood waters have extinguished pilot lights.

The storm halted all air travel at bustling Midway Airport—the nation's busiest—knocked out an estimated 32,000 telephones and 15,000 to 20,000 street lights, stranded hundreds of motorists, turned whole neighborhoods into lakes and created emergency conditions in hospitals.

Some 50,000 homes were without electrical service at one time or another during the storm. A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said restoration of service cost the utility about $350,000.

attempting to shield himself. After a brief scuffle, Ohmann darted through the door and Canavan fired five shots at him.

"I didn't intend to kill the man," he said. "I didn't even think I hit him."

Ohmann, was struck by four bullets. He staggered into the yard, collapsed and died.

Asst. Oklahoma County Atty. Harold Theus said today he does not plan to file charges against Canavan.

He said the shooting was "purely a case of a man protecting his home.

Ohmann, who was married and the father of a 1-year-old daughter lived in nearby Midwest City. Neighbors said he "never seemed to get out of line."

Sgt. E. D. Hargis at Tinker said he did not think Ohmann was the man who had been telephoning Mrs. Canavan. He was one of the finest airmen that ever served in my unit. It just couldn't have been him."

Sen. Russell To Ask Change

Cunning Proposal

In his speech today, Russell said the amendment needed no explanation at this time. But he told the Senate last week that the provision was a cunning proposal to authorize use of troops against southern whites to do away with racial segregation, at bayonet point if necessary.

A sizeable number of senators believe that elimination of the provision is a necessary part of any broad compromise which they think must be reached before the bill can be passed.

Other provisions in the bill would set up the investigating commission, provide for a new assistant attorney general to handle civil rights cases, and provide injunctive authority to halt violations or threatened violations of Negro voting rights.

Russell's amendments affecting the commission would require Senate approval of the staff director and would forbid employment of voluntary workers.

Let Pupils Do Work, Is Prof's Advice

"Let pupils do the work" was Dr. L. M. Harrison's recommendation to teachers who attended Friday's session of the science workshop at Northeast State.

Problem solving is fine for grade and high school students, the consultant said. The teacher's jobs are to create interest in science and direct young people to find answers to their problems.

Dr. Harrison, professor of education at Louisiana State University, emphasized initiative in the classroom during his demonstrated lecture.

Science, he explained, is a field which lends itself to care for individual differences with little effort. Special projects can supply incentives for pupils who are not interested in a regular class problem.

Stressed Resources

The speaker stressed the importance of community resources to science classes. The teacher should point out these resources and develop their value by encouraging pupils to use them in experiments.

Problem solving calls for certain skills, Dr. Harrison explained and it is part of the teacher's responsibility to teach or develop these skills.

Illustrating teaching procedure, the consultant suggested putting a science question on the blackboard. This is a definite step in starting to find the answer to a problem which has risen in class, he said. "Don't solve the problem" for the group, he warned. "Guide them to discover the answer."

Proper steering will cause pupils to bring materials which will assist in finding the answer to the question. When young people begin to use these materials, Dr. Harrison explained, the group will become curious, then make statements about their findings. During this procedure pupils should be encouraged to read along the line of their experiments, then ask authorities in helping them reach conclusions.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

ON GRANITE

Glenn Jones Has World's Biggest Face-Lifting Job

By KEN JUMPER
Written for The AP

RAPID CITY, S.D., July 13 (AP)—As a beautician of sorts, Glenn T. Jones has probably the world's biggest face-lifting job every year.

Applying his own brand of skin cream, Jones has stuck his feet in the eyes of four of the nation's most famous faces.

The nimble National Park Service maintenance man has the job of giving yearly "facials" to the huge, stony figures of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt on Mt. Rushmore in South Dakota's Black Hills.

Jones' job is to keep the famous granite memorial in repair-to keep the massive faces looking like a smooth, white, sculptured monument for the million tourists who view it every year from the other side of a valley.

His task takes on impressive proportions. So huge is the Shrine of Democracy that Jones could take a short stroll on Roosevelt's mustache, stretch out for a nap on Jefferson's eyelid or play a precarious game of shuffleboard atop Washington's powdered wig. To wear such faces, a man would have to stand 465 feet tall.

South Dakota's variable weather plays havoc with the 60-foot faces that were carved in the side of Mt. Rushmore two decades ago by sculptor Gutzon Borglum.

Moisture freezes in cracks on the great countenances, opening fissures in the granite and paving the way for greater damage and erosion.

Heading a five-man crew that surveys Rushmore every spring, Jones holds the lone classification in the Park Service of "maintenance man — buildings, utilities — and sculptor."

He is one of the original rock drillers employed when Borglum undertook the Herculean task of turning a mountain into a statue. The work was finished seven months after Borglum's death in 1941.

Jones, sticking close to Rushmore after its completion, is the only man entrusted with working directly on the faces.

Toting a bucket filled with a "cosmetic" made of dry white lead, linseed oil and rock dust, Jones rides a seat resembling a bosun's chair over the side of the mountain.

He daubs the material into cracks, shouting instructions to other members of the crew, who man winches to raise or lower him.

"The rock dust gives the patched cracks the same color as the natural surface so they aren't visible from the public viewing point below," says Jones.

"We try to do two faces a year, but we do the tops of the heads each year."

While Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt get the rock dust treatment on their faces, a thin mortar is used to seal cracks on the tops of their heads to prevent seepage and subsequent further cracking.

Imported Rebels, Yanks Refight Civil War In Battle Panorama

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The battles which some authorities say "sealed the fate of the Confederacy" are being fought over again by rebels and Yankees — from South Africa.

The decisive battles of 90-odd years ago take place in "Confederama," a 480-square foot scale model of Chattanooga terrain.

They are fought with flashing guns and smoking cannon by 5,000 lead figurine soldiers made especially for Confederama by a Capetown, South Africa, firm.

Called the "world's largest battlefield display of its kind," the exhibit shows how the way was opened for Gen. William Sherman's march to the sea through Georgia.

Newsman's Brainchild

It's the brainchild of a Chattanooga newspaperman, who in his childhood days chose to play "rebels and Yankees" rather than "cowboys and Indians," and a local insurance man.

On the three-dimensional reproduction, the miniature soldiers are stationary, but a present-tense, shot-by-shot narration of each battle, with full sound effects, gives spectators a feeling of realism.

The little soldiers hold rifles that appear to be actually firing. The weapons are tipped by tiny light bulbs which flash in sequence. More than two miles of electrical wiring is used in the 24x20 display.

Progress of the battles is controlled by a master switchboard in an adjoining room.

Lee Anderson, associate editor of the Chattanooga News-Free Press, and Pendell Meyers are the principal owners and builders of Confederama, located at the foot of historic Lookout Mountain.

"Life and Death"

As Anderson, a student of the Civil War, sees it, the battles in and around Chattanooga, then a peaceful valley populated by about 2,500 persons, "were not merely struggles of life or death between the men in blue and gray, but a fight resulting in life for the Union and death for the Confederate States of America."

Anderson and Meyers worked for hundreds of spare time hours to set up the history - telling exhibit.

Back when Anderson was playing "rebels and Yankees," the Southerners always won, but in this account, he says, he just had to follow the book.

CANINE DENTIST

BELL BUCKLE, Tenn.—(UP)—A Chihuahua dog pulled little Steve Rigney's tooth. The boy's father had tied a string around Steve's loose tooth and Steve was lying on the floor when the dog grabbed the string, pulled it—and Steve's tooth.

WOMAN COMPANION ON TRIP

Rep. Reece Reopens Feud With Oregon Solon Potter

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.) reopened his feud with Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.) today with a public complaint that Porter took a woman employe of the Library of Congress with him as a "traveling companion" on two trips to Latin America.

Reece, one time chairman of the Republican National Committee, inserted his charge in the Congressional record.

Porter and the woman's Library of Congress supervisor angrily denied Reece's insinuations, although they confirmed that she did accompany the congressman in an official capacity as expert researcher and translator.

No Government Funds Spent

Mrs. Rosita Bennett, the only Latin American expert in the Library's legislative reference bureau, made the trips, to Costa Rica and Colombia. No government funds were spent.

Director Ernest S. Griffith of the reference bureau said it was common practice for congressmen to call on the bureau for expert advisers and assistants and that Mrs. Bennett was assigned and served in this official role.

Reece and Porter have been feuding over Porter's opposition to the Trujillo government of the Dominican Republic. The Oregon congressman wants the United States to cut off foreign aid from any Latin American "dictatorship."

Reece accused Porter of waging a "campaign of revolution" against the governments of the Domician Republics, Venezuela, Panama, Colombia, Cuba, and Nicaragua.

"I am at a loss to understand why this woman travels in the company of anyone engaged in supporting revolution against the governments of friendly, allied, neighboring countries," Reece said.

"We have cordial, diplomatic relations with the countries now under attack by the gentleman from Oregon, and yet an employe of the federal government, responsible for the conduct of foreign affairs, comports herself in a manner calculated to embarrass the government of the United States and countrary to its official position," Reece said.

Pan American Stratocruiser Lands At Wake

TOKYO, July 13 (AP) — A Pan American Stratocruiser put down safely on Wake Island last night with 58 passengers who had been warned to be ready to "ditch at any moment" during a flight from Honolulu. One of its four engines was dead.

Capt. Fred Watts, 44, San Francisco, said he radioed for help as a routine procedure after one engine went dead and a second "momentarily lost power." Watts said the passengers were told to don life jackets and to take off their shoes as a precaution, but added he had not actually planned to ditch the plane.

Alexander N. Goulandris, one of the passengers, described the trip as "four hours of hectic" flight in which "we were alerted for a ditch at any moment. We wore life jackets and took off our shoes. All emergency doors were open."

Goulandris is vice president of the United Operations Shipping Agencies Corp., New York City. The passengers arrived in Tokyo on the troubled plane this morning seven hours late.

Solons See Foreign Aid Bill Passage

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Democratic and Republican floor managers joined today in predicting House passage without major change of the foreign aid bill approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Reps. Carnahan (D-Mo) and Vorys (R-Ohio), senior committee members charged with piloting the bill to passage, gave their opinions in interviews as the House prepared to take up the $3,242,333,000 measure Monday.

But opponents figured they have a good chance of tacking on an amendment to end foreign trials of GI's, which President Eisenhower strongly opposes, and perhaps of knocking out the long-term economic development loan fund Eisenhower fought for.

The bill as it now stands is already 622 million dollars below what Eisenhower requested for the new fiscal year and 375 millions less than the Senate voted.

But administration supporters figure this is the best they can get in the House, and they'll be satisfied if they can pull the never politically-popular measure through without further big dents in it. A final vote is expected about Thursday.

Carnahan said he believes the outcome will be passage "in substantially the form it is in."

Army And Navy Bounce Radar Off Of Moon

FT. MONMOUTH, N.J., July 13 (AP) — The Army and Navy announced today that signals transmitted by powerful radar equipment of the Army Signal Corps at Ft. Monmouth have hit the moon, bounced back to the earth and were received by one of the earth satellite tracking stations.

The signals, sent from here by the giant radar transmitter Diana, were reflected from the surface of the moon and received by the Navy's minitrack test facilities at Blossom Point, Md., the announcement said.

The tests are being conducted to perfect the technique by which the operation of all of the Western Hemisphere satellite-tracking stations can be tested as soon as they have been completed and placed in operation.

89-Year-Old Senator Green Snaps Back After Collapse

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Sen. Theodore Francis Green, 89-year-old believer in the strenuous life, snapped back fast today from a collapse attributed to "a very mild case of heat exhaustion."

The Rhode Island Democrat, oldest man ever to serve in Congress, hiked 3½ miles yesterday through steamy midsummer weather.

Last night he lost consciousness briefly at a reception at the Pakistan Embassy. Though he recovered quickly, he was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Today the hospital announced it was mild heat exhaustion and his condition was now "excellent." It said he would stay in the hospital three or four days for his annual checkup.

May Have Been Rights

In a way, the civil rights fight in the Senate might have been responsible for Green's hospitalization.

"He's been crabbing all week that the long hours the Senate is in session on civil rights are keeping him from the gym," an aide said.

To compensate, Green yesterday not only sauntered 2½ miles, as usual, from his bachelor quarters in the University Club up the hill to the Capitol. He walked another mile in 92 degree evening heat from his apartment to the Pakistan Embassy.

There was a time when the trim little man engaged in mountain climbing and a bit of wrestling. He gave up tennis only recently, not because he's too old but because of lack of time.

Uses Gym

But he ordinarily gets to the Senate gym about three times a week for an hour's swim, often followed by a vigorous rubdown.

A few skeptics — notably cab drivers—say Green's long walks are more the product of frugality than a desire for exercise. But his intimates disagree.

"He's been walking all his life and doesn't want to stop now," said Ed Higgins, Green's administrative assistant.

1000 - MILE TV

MEXICO CITY, July 13 (AP) — Mexican TV had a long reach apparently due to an atmospheric freak July 3. Luis de Llano of the Mexican TV center got a letter from Mrs. L. E. Langford of 1304 Burdeshaw, Dothan, Ala., saying she and her husband saw the program "Concierto" of station CST that day. The distance is well over 1,000 miles.

Virginia Loses Another Round In Racial Fight

RICHMOND, Va., July 13 (AP)—Vriginia lost another major court battle today in its "massive resistance" approach to the Supreme Court's ruling against segregated public schools.

The state's 1956 Pupil Placement Act — designed to maintain thrown out by the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in an opinion handed down here.

The law set up a three-man state board appointed by the governor and gave it all powers of pupil assignment formerly held by local school boards. It reassigned all pupils to schools they were then attending and gave the state board power to make future assignments—occasioned by promotion or transfer—for a variety of reasons other than race.

But the appellate court, in upholding Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman in Norfolk and Newport News cases, said:

"This statute furnishes no adequate remedy to plaintiffs (Negro parents and school children) because of the fixed and definite policy of the school authorities" to maintain segregation.

The court ated to the existing Virginia Appropriation Act which provides that all state funds shall be cut off from elementary or high schools of a local school division if one elementary or high school in that division admits a Negro child.

Harvard Awaits Return Of Khan

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 13 (UP)—Associates of the Aga Khan IV at Harvard University looked forward today to his hoped-for return to the Cambridge campus.

Young Prince Karim, who succeeded the late Aga Khan as spiritual leader of 20 million Ismaili Moslems, is highly regarded at Harvard by students and faculty alike.

Lee Hoadley, retired master of Leverett House where the Prince lived as a student, described the 20-year-old undergraduate as "a splendid fellow."

Hoadley, who retired July 1, said Karim "decidedly was liked by all who knew him. He was a lovely fellow who excelled in team sports. He was quite scholary."

Hoadley described the new Aga Khan as "very wise" for his years though quiet. He said the junior was a man who asked for "no recognition outside of his own ability." Karim depended upon his own performances in class and athletics alike for recognition, the retired faculty member said.

Hoadley said he expected Karim to return to complete his studies in Near East history and go on to Moorish history. The professor could see no reason why Karim would not return if he wished to.

Young Baltimoreans Who Catch Fireflies Strike

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—Some 30 young Baltimoreans who catch fireflies in the name of science have struck for higher pay and better working conditions.

Armed with placards they picketed Johns Hopkins University last night.

The fireflies are used in experiments — among them a study to determine how come a firefly can light up without burning up.

Firefly catchers are paid on the basis of the weight of their catch. About 33 fireflies weigh one gram.

In addition to the pay, the catchers complain they don't like the blacklist which bars youngsters who try to add rocks and BB shot to their firefly take.

John Brewer, a biochemistry major in charge of the weighing, said the blacklist was necessary to keep things on the up-and-up. Project director Michael Garrick allowed the scales were off for a time but said they had been put back in working order.

The strikers seek a pay scale of 10 cents a gram. The present rate is 8 cents.

So far, youngsters have turned in some 400,000 of the bugs with the after-burners.

As for the strikers, Brewer says "I guess we'll have to import scabs."

Two of the few examples of New Mexico's Indian sculpture exist high in the Jemez Mountains west of Santa Fe.

Negro Charged In Nude Burglary

WOODSTOCK, Va., July 13 (AP)—Burglary in the nude—that's the charge police here have made against a 20-year-old Negro AWOL from Mitchel Air Force Base, N. Y.

Oswald Cooper Jr., a native of Woodstock, was arrested Thursday driving a stolen pickup truck —in the nude. Shenandoah County Sheriff Garland E. Weaver said 19 counts of breaking and entering have been placed against Cooper, and others are being investigated.

Why did he operate in his birthday clothes?

"To avoid identification," the sheriff said.

20 Wounded In Algiers Blasts

ALGIERS, July 13 (UP)—Twenty persons were wounded in two rebel bombings today on the eve of the French celebration of Bastille Day.

The attacks came in spite of stepped up French security measures to prevent rebel violence during independence day festivities tonight and tomorrow.

The first attack took place in the center of Oran where a rebel hurled a grenade through the window of a bus filled with workmen. The blast wounded ten, five of them critically. One of the victims had both legs amputated.

The second attack occurred at Setif, 78 miles west of Constantine on the main route to Algiers.

A rebel threw a grenade at a group of soldiers. The grenade rolled by them before exploding. Ten Moslems in the vicinity were wounded by the flying shrapnel. None of the soldiers was touched, French officials said.

President Expected To Put Restrictions On Oil Imports

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, July 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower is expected to place some sort of limitation on foreign oil imports very soon unless importers take quick voluntary action.

Total imports and crude imports have reached record levels. Domestic production meanwhile has declined about one million barrels a day since late March.

President Eisenhower last week appointed a special Cabinet committee to determine if imports are being received in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security. At the same time, however, Gordon Gray, Director of Defense Mobilization, continued efforts to obtain voluntary action by importers.

The special committee is expected to reaffirm a Feb. 26, 1955, Presidential advisory committee recommendation that imports of crude oil and residual oil should not exceed the proportions they bore to production of domestic crude oil in 1954.

Ratio Expands

The 1954 ratio of imports to domestic production was approximately 16 per cent. Opponents of imports contend the ratio now is about 22 per cent.

Membership of the new Presidential committee basically is the same as that which made the 1955 recommendation.

A decision by the new group that imports pose a threat to national security would not relieve the administration of its biggest probem—how to limit imports if such action is found necessary.

The defense amendment to the Trade Agreement Extensions act of 1955 merely authorizes the President to take the "necessary action" to adjust the imports of any article when that importation threatens to impair the national security.

The method of action is left to the President.

Various opponents of oil imports have suggested a variety of methods ranging from quota systems to equalization tariffs.

Ask Tariff

The imports committee of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Assn. "deems it acceptabe" that imports up to the 1954 ratio enter the domestic market at the present statutory rate of 10½ cents per barrel and that all in excess to that level be subjected to a tariff or excise tax.

"A tax of 40 per cent of value probably would be adequate to insulate the domestic industry against the disastrous effects of free trade with respect to petroleum," the committee said.

P. C. Spencer, president of Sinclair Oil Corp., warned this week, however, that the oil industry and the government must continue a balanced program of imports without rigid restrictions.

Must Import Crude

Spencer said the United States must import crude in progressively increasing quantities if future petroleum requirements are to be met.

Petroleum imports the four weeks ending June 14 averaged a record 1,556,100 barrels a day. The daily average for a single week reached a record 1,783,900 barrels last week.

Crude imports climbed to a record 1,146,800 barrels a day the four weeks ending June 14. Last week's record for a single week was 1,221,100 barrels a day.

Gray on April 23 certified to the President that crude oil imports threaten to mpair the national security.

The Suez crisis last fall halted a similar certification by Dr. Arthur S. Fleming, whom Gray succeeded as Defense Mobilizer. Except for the Middle East emergency, Fleming said, the outlook for 1957 imports would have left no course except to make a certificate to the President.

Scouts Cover Scenic Route Enroute To Valley Forge

By EUGENE PREAUS and TONY BREARD
Troop Scribes

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. — The contingent of Boy Scouts from the Ouachita Valley Council have had a pleasant trip sightseeing en route to the Boy Scout National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

The first night, July 5, was spent at Mammoth Cave, in Kentucky, including a historic tour through the cave.

The second night, July 6, was spent at Lockbourne Air Force Base, near Columbus, Ohio.

The third night, July 7, was spent at Niagara Falls Park, where a tour of the falls was made via Canada.

The fourth night, July 8, was spent at Alpine Scout Camp, near New York City. The next morning, a boat tour around Manhattan Island was included.

The fifth night, July 9, was spent at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, where a swim was included in the stay.

The tour at Mammoth Cave included, seeing the salt petre vats, wooden pipelines built by the Indians, the giants tomb, fat mans misery, tall mans misery, the Dead Sea, Green River, a boat trip on Echo River, the Ruins of Karnak, and the Mammoth Dome.

The tour of Niagara Falls included seeing the American Falls and then going over and seeing the falls from the Canadian side. This was exciting for everyone! There were a lot of pictures taken on both sides of the falls. We met a group of Scouts from Kansas City at the park where we spent the night.

The next night we came to Camp Alpine to spend the night via the New York Thruway which runs from Buffalo to New York City.

The next morning we got up and went to New York City through the Lincoln Tunnel. We then went to Pier 81 where we took a boat tour around Manhattan Island which included the seeing of the Empire State Building, the New York skyline, Wall Street, the Statue of Liberty, Brooklyn Bridge, the new housing developments, the United Nations Building, Yankee Stadium, the Polo Grounds, Columbia University, New York University, the Palisades along the Hudson River, The George Washington Bridge, and the liner S. S. United States. After the boat tour we went to an Automat where we ate. This was quite different from any kind of other service.

We then came out of New York by the Lincoln Tunnel and got on the New Jersey Turnpike. From there we came down to Camp Kilmer, New Jersey. Here all the boys were very glad to be able to go swimming and get hot showers.

The patrol leaders chose their assistant patrol leaders today and they are the following: Joe Files of Bastrop, Larry Moss of Waterproof, John Loyd Albritton of Farmerville, and Lonnie Batton of Transylvania.

The contingent will arrive in Valley Forge around 2 p. m. the evening of July 10.

The assistant patrol leaders of Troop 25 are Henry Lowentrette Winnsboro, Rodney Olivier of Franklin, Billy Leonard of West Monroe and Bob McHugh of Lorreauville.

Famed Choir To Appear At Church Here

The Princeton Seminary Choir makes its appearance in the Twin Cities at 8 p. m. Tuesday at Covenant Presbyterian Church, 1901 Milton, according to the Rev. Wayne W. Gray, pastor. This famed choir has sung in many foreign countries as well as America. The public is invited. There is no admission charge. A free-will offering will be received.

The Princeton Seminary Choir of Princeton, New Jersey, is on its twelfth annual summer tour which covers 11 southeastern states, Puerto Rico, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, and Cuba. Singing on the average of twice a day, the choir will spend five weeks in the United States and three weeks in the West Indies.

On Networks

This male chorus has appeared several times on N. B. C. and C. B. S. network radio and television programs and has broadcast numerous times while on its various tours. Its program has been recorded by the voice of America for international broadcast. In 1952 the choir was the first choral group to appear on television in Havana, Cuba.

For the past twenty-three years, under the leadership of David Hugh Jones, the Princeton Seminary Choir has sung in hundreds of churches throughout the eastern seaboard, singing three or four times nearly every Sunday during the academic season. For the past eleven summers it has toured extensively in all the United States, in Alaska, Hawaii, Cuba, Mexico, Guatemala, Canada, Japan and Korea. Altogether the choir has sung more than 2,200 times outside of Princeton and has appeared in over 1,700 churches, schools, civic clubs, hospitals, youth assemblies and military installations.

All members of this male chorus are college graduates who are now enrolled at Princeton Theological Seminary for three years of graduate study in preparation for the Christian ministry. They form a cross section of this year's student body of five hundred who come from every state in the union and twenty foreign countries and represent fifty - five different denominations.

Battles Over Natural Gas Are Many, Balloting Close

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex., July 13 (AP)—The history of natural gas legislation in Congress includes many battles and close votes.

There was nothing new about the 15-13 vote by which the current Harris bill squeezed by the House Commerce Committee this week.

The Harris bill that President Eisenhower vetoed last year and the Kerr bill that was killed by President Truman in 1950 also had narrow escapes, particularly in the House.

The new bill, with only lukewarm support from many oilmen who were the strongest backers of the Eisenhower-vetoed bill, faces possibly the toughest fight of the three measures.

Frees Producers

The bill now being studied would free natural gas producers from utility type regulation by the Federal Power Commission. The old Harris bill, as was the case with the Kerr bill, would have freed producers of federal controls.

Texas independent operators agreed to back the current legislation but have said they would review their position if several proposed amendments are not accepted. The House committee did not adopt the amendments.

The old consumer producer fight that plagued the two vetoed bills has not developed, but such a battle might be revived if House and Senate votes are delayed until 1958, an election year.

A House vote this year is very possible but the Senate is not expected to be in a mood for further vacation delays once it ends the current civil rights debate.

Before reaching the House floor, the bill must be approved by a 12-member Rules Committee. One Washington report indicates only five of the 12 committeemen definitely favor the bill.

Rayburn Could Help

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) could help push the bill onto the floor. He warned this week, however, that passage by the House this year might depend on whether everyone endorsing the bill puts their oar in."

Some sources thought this to be another challenge by Rayburn for more active support from the White House. President Eisenhower has said several times he favors the bill but he has given vigorous support.

Two amendments proposed by spokesmen for the administration also were turned down by the Commerce Committee.

Rayburn figured prominently in the House battle over the old Harris bill in 1955 and the 1949 fight over the Kerr bill. He relinquished the gavel to make speeches for both.

The old Harris bill received a close 209-203 House vote and then was approved by the Senate, 53-38.

The Kerr bill passed the House, 183-131, in 1949. The Senate gave 41-38 approval but an amendment caused the bill to go back to the House. The consumer - producer battle reached its peak in bitter debate that preceded a 176-174 vote that finally sent the bill to the White House.

President Truman said it did not seem wise public policy to remove FPC's authority to regulate. President Eisenhower said he agreed with basic provisions of the original Harris bill but said he vetoed the measure because of "arrogant" lobbying by a small segment of the oil and gas industry.

Sugar Prices Rise Despite Regulations And Efforts To Halt It

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The nation's sugar markets haven't been behaving lately the way well-regulated markets are supposed to act.

Prices are supposed to stay steady and stable. But they have been moving up. And more than that, they have been doing this in the face of government efforts to prevent it.

The advance hasn't been great—about 5 per cent—but it has led Agriculture Department control officials to shake their heads with the air of a parent scolding a naughty child.

Rigid Controls

Sugar is by law under more rigid government control than any other important agricultural commodity. The declared purpose of this law is to protect U.S. sugar producers from cheaper foreign competition and to protect U.S. consumers against unstable prices and supplies.

The domestic sugar market is divided among domestic, insular domestic and foreign producing areas which have historically supplied it. Each is assigned a quota or a share of the market, which is fixed by law.

The Agriculture Department estimates each year's requirements and then breaks this down among the sharing areas. The estimate is supposed to be one which will meet expected consumer requirments at a price that enables the domestic industry to make a reasonable profit.

This year's requirements were set originally at nine million tons. Supplies come largely from the domestic beet sugar producing area, located principally in the Midwest and Far West, the mainland cane area of Louisiana and Florida, and Hawaii, Puerto Rico the Virgin Islands, the Philippines and Cuba.

But the quotas have failed to hold prices at the stable level sought by the department. Things were happening to sugar in other parts of the world. Demand was rising, taking prices along with it. There has been considerable stockpiling in anticipation of possible shortages.

These developments had their repercussions on the domestic market. Those who owned sugar became reluctant to sell, except on rising prices

Lopez Drives Over Winning Tally In 7th

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 13 (UP)—Hector Lopez, hitting in his 19th consecutive game, drove in a seventh inning tie-breaking run with a sacrifice fly today as the Kansas City Athletics downed the New York Yankees for the first time this season, 6-4.

The victory, the A's first in 14 tries against the Yankees, went to reliever Glenn Cox who took over for starter Arnold Portocarrero in the sixth after the Yankees tied the score 4-4 on a double, a single and a two-run homer by Yogi Berra.

Second baseman Billy Hunter hit a solo homer in the fifth and outfielder Lou Skizas scored two more runs with a round-tripper in the sixth.

Yankee started Tom Sturdivant was lifted in the seventh after walking two straight batters. Al Cicotte promptly loaded the bases with another walk and Lopez' fly chased home walking Hunter.

West Monroe Beats Ruston

By BOB ANDERSON

West Monroe squared their American Legion Junior playoff with Ruston a one each with a 6-3 triumph last night at Monroe's Legion Stadium.

A four - run third inning made the difference. Scoring on only one hit, the Kilpatrick Funeral Home team from across the river made the score 5-1, both teams having scored in the first, and led the rest of the way.

Righthander Ronnie Haile got credit for the win, pitching five innings and allowing 4 hits and 2 runs. When Haile complained of a sore arm, Coach Loy Scarborough put in Wayne Works. Works did a fine job of saving the game, allowing only 2 hits and one more run.

The West Monroe half of the third was a weird one. Shelby Aulds led it off when he got one on an error. Ronnie Gallien grounded to third and Ruston tried for a double play but the throw to second was too late and all hands were safe. Another grounder to the infield by Joe Ford filled the bases when the visitors tried for another double play and missed. Catcher Smith let a pitch get by him and Aulds came home. Smith let another run in when he dropped the third strike on Bacon and Gallien came home.

Moses singled Ford home with the third tally of the frame, then went to second when Grubbs walked. Another passed ball sent him to third and a throwing error by the unlucky Smith brought him home with the final run of the inning.

Wininger Two Strokes Back For 2nd Place

By DICK BACON

KITCHENER, Ont., July 13 (UP)—Mighty George Bayer, the long-hitting titan of the links, captured his first tournament title today when he fired a two-under-par 69 to win the Canadian Open golf championship with a 72-hole total of 271.

Six-foot-five, 240-pound Bayer—the game's longest hitter — finished two strokes in front of little Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., who made a bold bid to catch him. Six strokes back of the pace going into the final round, the graying Wininger fired a six-under-par 65 to finish 11 under for 72 holes at 273.

Bayer entered the final round with an 11-under total of 202 and held a three-stroke lead over Bill Casper, but his lead melted to a single shot early in the round as he scrambled through the first five holes. At that time, Casper was just one stroke back, Doug Ford two and Frank Stranahan three.

Hartack Risks Sore Back For 2nd On Liege

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP) — Bursting ahead between horses at the eighth pole, the stretch-running Clem today beat out Iron Liege and jockey William Hartack by a length and three quarters to win the $151,500 Arlington Classic.

Jockey Conn McCreary gave Clem a terrific ride in covering the mile on a slow track in 1:36.3 to pick up the biggest prize since the event was inaugurated 28 years ago, $105,950.

The 3-year-old chestnut colt, an $8,500 Keeneland sales purchase by Mrs. Adele Rand of Santa Fe, N. M., paid $9.20, $3, and $2.40 to backers in a crowd of 21,435.

Iron Liege, the Kentucky Derby winner who was coupled with Barbizon as the 3 to 5 Calumet farm favorite, paid $2.40 and $2.20.

Third in the field of seven after Ekaba had been an early scratch was Louis Lee Haggin II's Manteau. Manteau, ridden by Kenneth Church a length and three quarters behind Iron Liege, paid $2.80.

Fred W. Hooper's Greek Game was fourth, followed by William S. Miller's Better Bee, Barbizon, and Jet Colonel in that order.

Clem's victory followed triumphs in his last two starts in the seven - furlongs Shevlin and the one - mile withers at Belmont, and marked the fourth time he hit the wire first in nine starts this year.

It boosted his winning for the season to $164,650, and his overall earnings to $208,350.

Hartack the nation's leading jockey, who was in quest of his 28th stakes decision this year, rode Iron Liege despite a fracture of the "wing" in a vertebra —An injury the plucky jockey suffered when thrown from his mount at Arlington Park last Wednesday.

Wearing a special leather support and yards of tape, Hartack brought On Tour to second place in the first race of today's program, then announced for the first time he definitely would be able to be aboard Iron Liege in the classic.

Tech To Launch Football Ticket Sale On August 1

RUSTON, La. Special) —Season tickets for Louisiana Tech's home football games for the 1957 season will go on sale August 1.

"We have what appears to be our finest home schedule in years," pointed out Joe Aillet, Tech athletic director, as he looked ahead to the five tough battles slated for Tech Stadium this fall. "Each team we meet in Ruston is a strong club and we believe football fans of the area will want to see them all."

The Techmen open the season in a home tussle on September 21 with Mississippi Southern. Other games scheduled for Ruston include Southwestern Louisiana on October 12, Arkansas State College on October 26, Memphis State on November 16, and Northeast Louisiana on November 23.

Mississippi Southern, one of Tech's toughest foes over the past years, played in the Tangerine Bowl last season. The Southerners have twice defeated and once tied Alabama during the past three seasons. Memphis State is annually rated one of the best small college clubs in the nation. This tussle will be Tech's homecoming affair.

Arkansas State's Indians have also played in several post-season bowl games in recent years and are expected to furnish stiff competition for the Techmen. The games with Southwestern Louisiana and Northeast Louisiana are both Gulf States Conference frays and will likely provide some thrilling excitement in the GSC title race.

A season ticket for the five home tilts will cost $7.50 and will provide a saving of $3.50 over the purchase of reserve seats for individual games. Tickets will be available August 1 at the Tech Memorial Gymnasium. Mail orders should be addressed to Joe Aillet, Athletic Director, Louisiana Tech, Ruston, La.

Persons who held reserved seats last season will be able to claim the same seats.

Dillon, Curtis Renew Mat Feud In Kallio's Feature

Black Jack Dillon and Jack Curtis continue their blood feud tomorrow night at Kallio's Arena when they tangle in a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win, wrestling bout.

Sharing billing on the twin bill card is a tag-team match between Frank Hurley and Mr. X and partners Bill Barney and Nelson Royal. This affair will have a 75-minute time limit and two falls will be needed to win.

Dillon and Curtis became something less than friends a couple of weeks ago when they had a difference of opinion during a tag match. Curtis left the ring with crimson splattered features, demanding a rematch.

Last week they traded blows in a 10-minute match without the services of a referee. More gore was in evidence and the boys still refused to be friends. The match ended up with both bloody but unbowed and went on the records as a draw.

They'll be after a decision this time and there'll be a third man inside the ropes to attempt to keep the rough stuff to a minimum—no small job. Allen "Sailor" Parker, an oldtime wrestler who appeared in the local ring on many occasions, will be the referee. He's from Jackson, Miss.

Nelson Royal, crowd-pleasing babyfaced battler, returns to the local scene after an absence of several weeks in the tag match. Royal's last appearance here was as referee n the midget girls match between Baby Doe and Caroline Bennett.

It's hoped the fines levied against the tag-team grapplers on last week's card will prevent any repetition of the brawls that have ended the last two tag matches held here. Hurley, Barney and Mr. X were in the one last week and Mr. X lost his mask and an unknown fan, who showed better wrestling form than some of the pros, lost his shirt. It was a good fight while it lasted.

Naturally, we all hope nothing like that happens again this week. Or do we?

PHILS TAG CUBS

Rookie Anderson Swings Mean Bat

PHILADELPHIA, July 13 (UP)—Rookie outfielder Harry Anderson had an inside the park home run and batted in three runs today and righthander Dick Farrell turned in a glittering ninth inning relief job as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-2.

Farrell came on after starter Warren Hacker, who had held his former teammates to five hits in eight innings, gave up a single to Walt Moryn and a double to Dale Long to open the ninth. The rookie faced Jerry Kindall who had homered earlier and forced him to bounce to short.

Moryn was sent home, but stopped dead five feet in front of the plate and was tagged out despite the fact that catcher Joe Lonnett had to leap for Chico Fernandez' high throw.

Anderson's homer, his eighth of the year, was a towering drive which struck near the top corner of the 75-foot high centerfield scoreboard, 350 feet from home plate, and bounded to right field. The blast came with one man on base in the fifth, and the rout of loser Dick Drott was completed in the sixth when Lonnett hit his third homer of the week into the leftfield stands.

Hollywood Cup Goes To Round Table In Romp

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 13 (AP) — Round Table, the choice and delight of a roaring crowd, ran away with the $162,100 Hollywood Golf Cup Handicap, and was the first 3-year-old ever to win the summertime classic, equalled the track record held by the great Swaps.

The youngster from Kentucky, owned by an Oklahoma oil king, Travis M. Kerr, and developed in California, hit the wire three lengths in front of Llangollen farm's Porterhouse, with Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Find third.

The time for the mile and one quarter was 1:58 3-5.

The big betting favorite, Round Table, paid $4.80, $3.30 and $2.60; Porterhouse $4.90 and $3.70, and Find $2.90.

In past years twenty 3-year-olds had taken a crack at this rich prize but none could beat the older horses. The best was a second by three of the sophomore aspirants.

Williams, Klaus Pace Red Sox Win

DETROIT, July 13 (UP)— Ted Williams and Billy Klaus supplied the long ball today to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 6-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers and give Tom Brewer his 10th win against eight setbacks.

Klaus poled out a triple and a double, each driving in a run, while Williams cracked his third homer in two days. The bases-empty blow was Williams' 23rd of the season.

The Red Sox put together two-run innings in the third and fifth off Tiger starter Paul Foytack and added single runs in the seventh and ninth.

Sammy White walked in the third and was singled to second by Brewer. They advanced on a wild pickoff attempt and White came in on a sacrifice. Klaus then tripled Brewer across to give Boston a 2-1 lead.

Klaus doubled in Piersall who had singled to open the fifth and the Boston shortstop later scored on another sacrifice fly for a 4-2 lead. Williams hit his homer in the seventh and Piersall doubled in the ninth, was sacrificed to third and scored on an infield out.

Indians Repel Threat In 8th To Top Orioles, 5-2

CLEVELAND, July 13 (UP) — The Cleveland Indians repelled an eight inning threat by the Baltimore Orioles today to register a 5-2 victory with the help of home runs by Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris.

Colavito put the Indians in front with his 17th homer off starter Bill O'Dell in the second inning and after the Orioles had narrowed Cleveland's lead to 3-2 in the top the eighth, Maris clouted his 10th homer with one on off relief ace George Zuverink in the bottom of the inning.

Don Mossi started for the Indians and allowed only two hits and no runs until the eighth, when the Orioles threatened the Tribe's 3-0 lead. Joe Durham walked, and this was followed by singles by Jim Brideweser, Bob Boyd and Bill Gardner for one run and the end of Mossi.

Cal McLish relieved and Jim Busby's single scored another run, leaving the bases full with nobody out. McLish struck out Bob Nieman, and then Ray Narleski came in to strike out Gus Triandos and get Billy Goodman on fly.

Upper Crust Of Golfdom Arrive For PGA Tourney

DAYTON, Ohio, July 13 (UP)—Golfing's upper crust, 128 of America's leading professionals, arrived here this weekend for some practice licks in getting ready for the national PGA championship here starting Wednesday.

The five-day national PGA grind will be played over the rolling Miami Valley Golf Club course here, which could be a haven for the long-distance clouters. The entire tournament is match play.

The Miami Valley's 6,773-yard, par 71 course boasts three holes of more than 500 yards, including the 598-yard par three hole.

The entrants, headed by some of the brightest stars in the business, will be shooting for a share of the $41,000 purse and a chance at the title held by curly-haired Jackie Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., the defending champion.

Burke won the top prize last year at Blue Hills Country Club in Boston. First prize money this year will be $8,000, while the runnerup receives $5,000 and the third place finisher gets $3,500.

First-round play will get under way Wednesday with 18 holes of match play. The entire field will get in double rounds Thursday and Friday with the 36-hole semifinals slated for Saturday.

The finals, also 36 holes, will be played Sunday.

This year's event will be the first PGA tourney here since 1954, when Byron Nelson beat Sam Byrd, 4 and 3, at the Morraine Country Club. There were 55,000 paid admissions for the event, a record which still stands for the tournament.

First round action will feature former champions Walt Burkemo and Chick Harbert. Burkemo will face young Jerry Barber, and Harbert is paired against former U. S. amateur champion Skee Riegel.

Other former PGA champions entered include Vic Ghezzi, Doug Ford, Chandler, Harper, Denny Shute, Jim Turnesa, and Sammy Snead. Snead is a three-time winner of the tourney.

Also on hand will be this year's National Open champion Dick Mayer along with past U.S. Open titlists Jack Fleck, and Ed Furgol. Gene Sarazen, former PGA and Open king, has withdrawn.

Two of the country's top young professionals will play in the event for the first time. They were Dow Finsterwald and Mike Souchak.

To be eligible, an entrant in the PGA has to be a pro for at least five years or be among the first 25 of the nation's top money winners.

The field also will include the law national qualifier, George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., who fired a qualifying score of 134.

As for the course itself, host professional Marchi said it would "be a stern test of golf."

He said the course had not been "tricked" to any degree, "mainly because we did not have to."

Marchi predicted it will take straight driving, good approaches and steady putting to win the crown.

Braves Earn 4-3 Win Over Pirates

PITTSBURGH, July 13 (UP)—Milwaukee right-hander Lew Burdette shook off a seventh inning "skull" today and with the help of home runs by Wes Covington and Del Crandall registered his seventh victory with a 4-3 edge over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Burdette smashed a triple off loser Ron Kline, but the hit was nullified after it was ruled he failed to touch first base. His extra base blow came after Crandall shot his ninth homer of the year over the left field scoreboard with Andy Pafko on base. Crandall's homer was the 103rd for the Braves catcher.

Burdette then stood off a rally in the ninth when the Pirates threatened with two runs. Joe Fondy led off the inning with a single and Dick Groat's second double of the game skimmed down the right field line. Fondy scored when Bob Skinner grounded out and Groat came across on a sacrifice fly by Gene Baker. But the Pirates' comeback hopes faded when pinch-hitter Jim Pendleton grounded out.

Covington drilled a 440 - foot inside-the-park homer in the second inning to get the Braves off to a 1-0 start. It was his fifth homer of the season.

Dodger-Redleg Game Halted By Rain During 2nd

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 13 (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers-Cincinnati Redlegs game was postponed because of rain today with the Dodgers leading 2-0 in the last half of the second inning.

Plate umpire Vic Delmore called the game after a 40-minute wait. No date was set for rescheduling the postponement.

The Dodgers had scored twice in the first inning against Hal Jeffcoat. Charley Neal and Jim Gilliam singled and Duke Snider walked to load the bases. One run scored on second baseman Johnny Temple's error and another was forced in on Gino Cimoli's walk.

Most goals in an American Hockey League game were 22 when Cleveland beat Pittsburgh, 12-10, on March 17, 1945.

Patty Claims Midland Net Championship

BIRMINGHAM, England, July 13 (UP)—Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris won the men's singles title of the Midland Counties lawn tennis tournament today, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1, with the aid of a temperamental outburst by his Chilean opponent, Luis Ayala.

Ayala's temperament cost him the first set. Patty was leading 6-5 and 30-love when a linesman called a service "in." Ayala thought it was out and he made no attempt to return Patty's next service over the net, thus conceding the net.

The speedy Chilean rallied in the second set and went on to take it after a service break in the seventh game. Patty settled down, however, and won all but one game of the third set.

Earlier in the day, Patty defeated Ramanathan Kishnan, India's leading player, 8-6, 6-4. And Ayala beat Mervyn Rose of Australia, 4-6, 6-1, 9-7, in a semifinal match suspended by rain last night.

Angela Mortimer of England won the women's single crown with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Maria De Amorim of Brazil. The match lasted only 30 minutes.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

EDITOR'S NOTE: Of interest to duck hunters will be the completed regulations governing construction and use of blinds in Wham Brake, beginning this winter. C. D. Hamaker Jr., agent of the International Paper Company, Southern Kraft Division, has supplied us the following, and our duck hunting friends will be obliged to him for this information, most of which, in its early draft stage, has already been reported:

The Wham Brake Reservoir located in Ouachita and Morehouse parishes is owned or leased by International Paper Company. This reservoir was built as an industrial unit to be used by the company's mills at Bastrop in connection with stream control and waste disposal, and this is its primary function.

The company is pleased that an incidental result has been the development of some excellent duck hunting. As a contribution to the community the company has permitted free access and enjoyment of the reservoir to the general public and sportsmen, subject to certain regulations for the protection of the company's property and its use of the reservoir. It is desired to continue this service with a minimum of regulations in order to enable the people of this area to enjoy the benefits of the hunting.

However, in order to protect the property and its use and to avoid congestion and to promote safety and good hunting, it is necessary that certain rules and regulations be adopted.

REGULATIONS

1. No vehicles are allowed on the levees or on any of the structures and the levees must not be dug into or damaged in any way.

2. In the main basin all boats must be put in at the control structure at the south end of the reservoir, or at the road crossing the state highway at Wham unless special permission is granted otherwise. A parking lot for cars is available at the south end of the reservoir. In the basin north of the highway crossing at Wham boats may be put in at any point on the west side of the basin north of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. An individual boat owner may keep his boat at other points in the reservoir provided the boat is put in at one of the above points.

3. Beginning April 1, 1957, no blinds shall be built which will be closer than two hundred (200) yards from the nearest existing blind. If there are any present blinds closer than two hundred (200) yards which interfere with older blinds the junior blind will have to be moved so as to meet the present regulations if there are any justifiable complaints from the adjacent blind owner which are substantiated.

4. A permit will be issued to each blind owner and only one blind will be permitted to any one individual. Each blind owner is asked to post or fix a sign or evidence in writing showing the name and address of the owner and the date the blind was built and whether it was built by the present owner or someone else. This sign or notice should be placed inside the blind if it is not locked or in a well protected place. It is suggested that if the sign is written or typed it be covered with waterproof plastic or cellophane so it will not be destroyed by the weather.

5. No overhead blinds or blinds built in the tops of trees will be permitted.

6. Prior to the opening of the 1957 season all blinds will be numbered by the company and a permit issued to the owner whose name is posted on the blind.

7. In order to evidence ownership of a blind some work or other action designating active control, such as brushing or other construction must be performed by the owner prior to the current hunting season of each year. In the event such evidence is lacking during any hunting season, the ownership of the blind is forfeited, and, at the company's option, the blind may be destroyed.

8. The company reserves the right to revoke any permit if the blind owner or his guests fail to use reasonable precaution for the safety of others hunting in the area.

9. Hunters using boats are requested to avoid interference with occupied blinds and other boats and must not shoot within two hundred (200) yards of any occupied blind or other hunters in boats. Compliance with this request will avoid the necessity of stricter regulations for hunting in boats.

10. In addition to the posting of the notice of the blinds, owners of blinds are requested to notify International Paper Company, attention Mr. C. L. Houston, Bastrop, Louisiana, giving their names and the approximate location of their blind. If it is necessary to move your blind please contact Mr. Houston and he will endeavor to help you with a new location and in such other ways as he can.

11. Anyone desiring to build a blind after this date must make application to C. L. Houston, International Paper Company, Bastrop, Louisiana, and a location and number will be assigned and a permit issued. No new blind will be built without a permit.

12. All hunters are asked to be courteous and considerate of others at all times while hunting in the reservoir.

13. All hunters or others going on the property do so strictly at their own risk and the company cannot assume any responsibility for injury, loss or damage.

14. Operation of boats at high speed is dangerous on account of submerged logs and trees.

15. The enforcement of the game laws and regulations is a responsibility of the authorities of the State of Louisiana and hunters are urged to obey those laws.

16. It is believed that the above regulations are reasonable and will not work hardships and will improve the hunting and enjoyment of all those using the reservoir. The full cooperation of all sportsmen is requested.

17. Approximately one-half of the reservoir is on lands leased by International Paper Company on a long term lease. If the owners and lessors of these lands so desire it will be necessary for the blind owner to have a permit from the lessor or owner of the land in addition to the one secured from International Paper Company. Ouachita Farms Corporation (formerly Breece Lumber Company) has informed us that a permit from that company will be required for any blinds built on their land.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY

NOTE: We have received a large number of applications for blind permits. On account of water conditions it is very difficult to get to the existing blinds at this time to number them or to locate new blinds. This will be done as soon as practical and in the meantime we request that all applicants for blind permits be patient. Owners of existing blinds are requested to put their names on their blinds as soon as water conditions permit.

Keep alert for those snakes. Cecil Crabtree, West Monroe building contractor, brings this reminder after his encounter with a rattlesnake Friday on Cypress creek in the southern part of the parish. He was bream fishing and almost stepped on the snake that got away while he was trying to find a club big enough to finish him off. "He was a big one, and I'm thankful he warned me," said Cecil.

KEEGAN WINS IN RELIEF

White Sox Tag Hard-Luck Stobbs With 14th Defeat

CHICAGO, July 13 (UP)—The Chicago White Sox tagged hard-luck-ridden Chuck Stobbs for six runs today and whipped the Washington Senators, 7-4.

The win went to Sox reliefer Bob Keegan, who took over from starter Jack Harshman in the third inning and permitted but two hits, a double and a home run.

It was the second place Sox' sixth victory in their last seven games and marked their 11th triumph in 14 games this season with the Senators.

Stobbs, who has now lost 13 and won only two, allowed the Sox a pair of runs in the first, fifth and sixth innings. He finally was relieved by Truman Clevenger in the sixth after Les Moss and Sammy Esposito had opened the inning with singles.

Chicago's two-run first came on a walk, two singles and Herb Plews' throwing error.

The Senators tied it up in the third on two singles, a walk and Ed Fitz Gerald's bases - full single, all off Harshman. The Sox used two singles a walk and a double to score their two runs in the fifth, and three singles and a sacrifice to put across their third pair in the sixth.

Terzia Squirrels Object Of Gathering At Bastrop

BASTROP, La., (Special) — A 14-day controlled squirrel hunt on the Theo Terzia Game Management Area in Morehouse parish will be aired at a meeting of parish sportsmen at the courthouse here Monday at 2 p.m.

The meeting was called after a group of Morehouse hunters took an opposing stand to the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission in recommending that the refuge be opened.

Joe L. Herring, district supervisor of the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, will represent the commission at the meeting, which will be held in the police jury room of the courthouse.

Herring recommended that the area be opened for the controlled hunt. The refuge is under a federal aid project and the final okay of the opening will come from the federal government.

It has been reported that more hunters oppose the opening than those who are in favor of it. A large crowd of interested persons is expected to attend the meeting.

A spokesman of the group opposing the opening said the main objections are that the area supplies a major portion of the parish with game and that an open hunt in the refuge would be a detriment to the parish's game source.

The refuge, which is approximately 40,000 acres in size, is located in the northwest corner of Morehouse parish. It was turned into a game refuge 21 years ago and came under federal aid two years ago.

Herring explained that under the 14-day controlled hunt plan, two check stations would be operated on the refuge — one at the north end and the second at the south end.

He said permits would be issued at the stations to hunters going into the refuge and that persons found in the area without a permit would be prosecuted.

The area would be open to the public and the season would open with the regular squirrel season—October 18 — and run for only 14 days.

It was pointed out that under the federal system, areas that are not opened for hunting at one time or another are taken from under federal aid.

In such a situation, Herring explained, the state not only loses what money it has spent in the area, but is required to refund the federal government what it spends on the refuge.

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission has spent about $10,000 on the Terzia area, Herring said.

"We've found through study and practice that opening these areas occasionally does them good for reproduction purposes," Herring stated.

He said the Terzia and outlying areas suffered a squirrel die-off in 1953. He explained that lab tests proved the squirrels died of malnutrition.

"We don't think there's anything to get excited about in this situation," Herring said. "Interested sportsmen are naturally concerned about opening a game management area, but in the long run it has always worked out best for everybody concerned."

The Louisiana Wildlife Federation at its annual convention in Alexandria passed a resolution that game management areas be opened on recommendation from the state biologists.

LAYOUT NOT 'TRICKED'

PGA Field Faces Tough Course At Miami Valley

DAYTON, Ohio, July 13 (UP)—The 128 professionals competing in the $41,000 National PGA tournament at the Miami Valley country club here starting Wednesday will face a stern test of golf.

Although the 6,773-yard course has not been "tricked" to any degree for the tournament, it still is dotted with 62 traps and a winding creek that crosses five holes. Par is 36-35—71.

No. 1, 510 yards, par five—Fairway rises to plateau at 500 yards with trap at right and rough to left... beyond rise fairway levels off. Green is fairly level and slopes toward fairway.

No. 2, 300 yards, par four — a slight dogleg with one trap at the right placed to catch a sliced tee shot. Green elevated and trapped.

No. 3, 598 yards, par five — the longest hole on the course where the power players should shine. Trapped both sides... green level and trapped to right... accuracy a premium.

No. 4, 355 yards, par four — dogleg to left with tree at 150 yards. Fairway beyond slopes to left, and ball will roll to within pitching distance... green level, slightly elevated and trapped on three sides.

No. 5, 245 yards, par three — tee slightly elevated and fairway dips and rises to fairly level green guarded on left by trap and roughs on sides.

No. 6 414 yards, par four—fairway rises gradually to 225 yards, concealing the green... out of bounds on left and cedar trees on right. Green trapped to front.

No. 7, 425 yards, par four — A straight tee shot a must through trees with difficult rough on left, and rough and mounds on right. Approach must be made over a trap, and green trapped on left with mounds to right.

No. 8, 161 yards, par three—A rolling green slopes to fairway, guarded in front and both sides by deep traps. Could be troublesome.

No. 9, 400 yards, par four—Trees to left and rough to right of fairway. A series of traps bisect fairway from 275 yards out and extend almost to left corner of elevated rolling green, which trapped on both sides.

No. 10, 415 yards, par four—Traps, rough and trees on both sides of fairway, green slightly elevated, sloping toward fairway.

No. 11, 370 yards, par four — Ground rises slightly from tee... two depressions cross fairway about 250 yards out. Green flat and well trapped.

No. 12, 430 yards, par four—A good tee shot a necessity... must be straight between trees... fence and out of bounds line to left and rough to right of fairway. Green well elevated, trapped three sides.

No 13, 145, par three — Pitch shot from elevated tee to elevated green, well trapped.

No. 14, 330 yards, par four—Fairway straight with slight rise but a ditch is located 75 yards from tee. Rough is all around green with traps in front and back.

No. 15, 550 yards, par five—Another ditch located 250 - 265 yards from tee, and players must drive over a slight rise in the fairway. Trap on right front of green and another on left.

No. 16, 423 yards, par four—A good drive can use a four to eight iron to green. A straight fairway... green not trapped but mounds on both right and left.

No. 17, 168 yards, par three—Ditch located halfway down straight fairway. Deep traps on right, left and right-front of green.

No. 18, 430 yards, par four—A deep trap runs across fairway about 100 yards from green.

No. 18, 430 yards, par four—Two traps on a straight fairway could mean trouble. One located on left about 100 yards from green... another runs across fairway, which requires ball to be pitched over... downhill all the way to green, which has no traps but heavy rough.

Gibson Points For 1st Major U.S. Net Title

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP) — The bid of Althea Gibson, newly crowned Wimbledon champion, for her first major U. S. title features the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament starting Monday.

The meet, with a field of 75 men and 38 women, will run through Sunday at the River Forest Tennis Club.

Gibson is no stranger to the tourney, having competed in 1950, 1955 and 1956. In her best effort she advanced to last year's semifinals only to be ousted by Shirley Fry 7-5, 6-1 in a repetition of their Wimbledon meeting of that year.

Gibson, naturally, is top seeded in the women's bracket. The other rankings, in order, are Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., the Wimbledon runnerup; Karol Fageros, Miami, and Lois Felix, Meriden, Conn. Pilar Herrero of Havana and Martha Hernandez of Mexico City head the women's foreign seed.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., is No. 1 in the men's division as he tries to repeat for the crown. He also won it in 1950.

Seeded behind him, in order, are Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, the 1953 champion; Bernard Bartzen, Dallas, 1954 winner; Sam Giammalva, Houston; Grant Golden, Wilmette, Ill.; Bill Quillian, Seattle; Barry MacKay, University of Michigan's national collegiate champion; and Maxwell Brown Jr. Louisville.

The foreign seed lists Ashley Cooper, Wimbledon finalist, first, and his Australian teammate, Neale Fraser, second. Kosei Kama, Japan's national champion, is third.

Muffett Tops Texas League Strike Outs

By The Associated Press

If pitching is the major part of baseball — as it often is reputed to be — it's easy to see why Dallas and Houston are so far ahead in the Texas League race.

Hurlers for the league - leading Eagles and second place Houston dominated the pitching categories in the latest weekly statistics.

Murray Wall, the 31 - year - old former University of Texas star, gave Dallas the league's top winner with a 14-5 record. Wall also pitched the most complete games through the first half, July 2, and had a creditable 1.61 earned run average, good for second in that department.

His Eagle teammates, Tommy Bowers and Ernie Broglio, also had top-notch pitching records. Bowers had a nifty 12-4 record while Broglio had 10 victories against 4 defeats.

Howard Nunn of Houston, however, led in percentage for pitchers with 10 or more games charged to them. He had a 10-3 record for .769. Houston also had the league's strike out leader in Billy Muffett who whiffed 115 batters while compiling a 12-6 record, good for a tie for second in games won.

In addition to these, both clubs had fine second - line pitching.

The effective pitching among the first division clubs was beginning to show in sliding batting averages.

Outfielder Jim Frey of Tulsa fell off three points but held the individual lead with .318. Shreveport's Walter Derucki and Nelson Burbrink, Houston's veteran catcher, were tied for second with .307 followed by Al Baro of Houston at .306 and Ed Irons of Oklahoma C at .303. The percentage was based on 150 or more times at bat.

Houston had the one-two punch in the homer department. Keith Little leads with 20 and Benny Valenzuela trails with 17. Valenzuela also led runs batted in with 56 and doubles with 25. Charles Ortel of San Antonio paced the triple production with 8 and scored the most runs with 55.

Rain Nullifies 4-0 Card Lead

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—The game between the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants was postponed because of rain today with the Cards leading 4-0 in the top of the second inning.

The Life Of Gus Kallio—Finnish Farm Boy To Wrestling Champion

By BOB ANDERSON

Once in a while, during the intermissions at the Monday night wrestling bouts in Monroe, someone will ask a limping, stocky, baldish man, "Were you a wrestler?" And Gus Kallio will smile and answer, "Yes. I was a wrestler."

Yes Gus Kallio was a wrestler. He began wrestling at 15 in his native Finland and fought — and won — his last match at 58. He wrestled in the rough mining towns of Montana, in the tank towns of the great plains, in the lumber camps of Canada and in Madison Square Garden. He wrestled in Johannesburg, in the Belgian Congo, in France, in Great Britain and in Mexico City.

He wrestled with hailstones bouncing off his back. He wrestled —and beat — boxers. He even boxed — and beat — boxers. At Homer, he once defeated 20 men in less than an hour.

Kallio was welterweight champion, junior middleweight champion and, for 10 years, 5 months and 10 days, middleweight champion of the world, the last American titleholder of this vanished breed. He was a wrestler.

When Gus first set foot on this country, a husky young man of 22 years, he entertained no grand ambitions of being a professional wrestler. He had his future all planned out. A few years to look over the vast United States, a sort of "last fling," and then back to Finland, his sweetheart and a life as a farmer.

Born May 16, 1891, the son of a former weight lifting and foot racing champion of the Finnish militia, Gus began studying Greco-Roman wrestling while going to agricultural school. After graduation, he wasn't quite ready to settle down, so off he went to America.

Once in the United States, Gus headed for the wheat fields of the Dakotas where there was a heavy concentration of his countrymen. He worked with threshing gangs all over North and South Dakota and in a Montana copper mine as a motorman.

Friendly wrestling bouts were common among the strong young farm hands and Gus soon became the "champion" of his group. On one occasion he was goaded into taking on 23 big hands, one after another. After supper, the boys gathered in a nearby barn and, after drawing numbers from a hat to determine the order of appearance, they went at it.

Finishing most by simply picking them up and banging their heads on the floor, the Finnish newcomer took care of the first 14 handily. He broke number 15's collar bone and the remaining would - be gladiators promptly quit.

In his off hours in Montana, Kallio opened Kallio's Athletic school, a gymnasium where he taught wrestling. With his fame as an amateur spreading throughout the Dakotas and Montana, Gus decided to wrestle professionally in his spare time.

Jack McAllister, the town bully of Rolla, North Dakota, was his first victim. This match, like most of the Finn's early bouts, was staged in a barn on Saturday night. The admission was 25 cents a head and the winner took all.

His fellow Findlanders backed their boy to the limit, usually betting every spare cent they had on the matches. Gus didn't hesitate to back his skill with his own money either. His faith in his own prowess was to prove costly a few weeks later when, going into grappling full - time, he went to Minneapolis and tangled with Pete Petkoff. Weighting 142 pounds at the time, Gus had no business in the ring with Petkoff, a legitimate middleweight and an experienced wrestler, but the cocky young farmer was ready for anything or anybody — or so he thought.

The match was at 2:30 in the afternoon in a stock barn. Gus bet every cent he had. Petkoff clamped a toe hold on Kallio early in the bout and held on for 45 long inutes before Kallio's friends stopped the match.

Beaten, broke and crippled, Gus had to borrow 35 cents from a friend to soothe the torn ligaments in his knee. Now was a good time to pack up and head back home to Finland, get married and settle down. But World War I had kept Gus from going back home and he had lost touch. With the war's end came the news that his girl had quit waiting and married somebody else. So Gus decided that he was in America and wrestling to stay.

Charging the Petkoff bout off to experience, Gus had a four month layoff before getting back to business.

It wasn't a very good business, however. He won a few and lost a few and was going nowhere. Afraid that poor condition was the cause of his lack of success, Kallio put himself on a rigid diet, no meats, smoking, drinking or late hours.

His record improved along with his condition and Gus began to make headway in the wrestling game. Kallio has always thanked good condition for his great success and says "Good condition is the best hold." Even today, at 66, he's in remarkable shape for a man his age and has a pair of arms that rival those of the younger pros who perform here every Monday night.

Kallio's career hit another snag in 1921 when, again letting his eyes get bigger than his muscles, he was soundly beaten by Clarence Ecklund, a light-heavyweight. Recognizing there were still a few things he didn't know about wrestling, Gus headed for Nebraska to study the art under the man he, along with the rest of the wrestling world, calls the "greatest wrestler and wrestling teacher who ever lived," Farmer Burns.

After months of work under Burns' direction, Gus' rise in his profession was rapid. By Oct. 3, 1921, he was the world's welterweight titleholder by virtue of a win over Jack Reynolds at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

In 1924, W. P. Thomas, now of Monroe, was commander of the American Legion at Homer. Interested in promoting wrestling for the Legion, he sent to a friend in northern Minnesota asking about the possibility of getting some wrestlers down to Homer. His friend suggested Kallio and in 1924 the Finlander fought a wrestler named Karencary in Homer.

The bout was held in a local theatre with Thomas refereeing. Thomas recalls that Karenctry knocked Gus out for about 20 minutes with a body slam. Dizzy and vomiting, Gus finally continued the match and eventually won.

Kallio stayed in Homer for several weeks, wrestling there and in other close-by cities. The local belles, says Thomas, took quite a liking to the blond Finn with the broad shoulders and bulging biceps, but Gus proved as hard to pin matrimonially as he was in the ring.

One night while Gus was grappling with Billy Hallas, a top welterweight, a burly carpenter named Big Boy Hall spoke disparaging of his ability and said he could beat the Finn with no trouble. Kallio answered Hall by beating not only him, but 19 other local boys weighing between 175 and 220 pounds in less than an hour.

A carnival hit Homer about that time and Kallio and a group of his friends attended. As most carnivals do, this one had a strong man. When the usual challenge for any spectator to take on the strong man was made, Gus prom answered. He soundly trounced the big bruiser in wrestling and beat him in boxing the next night.

Earlier, in April of 1923, Gus had his first bout in Monroe. The bout was held on Grand Street across from the present Western Union buiding in the upstairs of a building which burned down a good while ago. Jimmy Demetral was his opponent. At the time, Demetral was wrestling under another name which Kallio can't remember now. He does remember the bout's referee, Bob Harmon.

Kallio wrestled several times in Monroe, one time against Orville Cox in Roosevelt Stadium on Washington Street. That was on July 21, 1933 and Kallio won as usual.

In 1930 Kallio made Acadia, La., his base of operations. He fought several matches there and stayed there when he wasn't on tour. He even bought a house and about 90 acres of land both of which he sold later.

In 1926, Gus won his second championship by taking junior middleweight honors from Joe Barelli in Warren, Ohio, in three falls Two years later, in a grueling 2½ hour bout, he won over Midget Fisher for the middleweight crown.

For Kallio, the Fisher bout was the reward of over ten years of sprains, bruises, cheap hotel room and ceaseless travel. He was now at the zenith of his career. He was a big-time champion and he played the part.

Gus never had a manager and gaine fame as a shrewd businessman who didn't fight for peanuts and always gave the fans — and the promoters — their money's worth. Always a tireless campaigner, he stepped up the pace and traveled even more, risking his crown all over this country and Canada.

Early in 1930, the National Boxing Association decided to end the ceaseless bickering as to who was who in the wrestling world. It named five men in the four wrestling divisions, welter, middle, light-heavy and heavyweight, to meet in a tournament to settle the various championship claims once and for all. Kallio beat Ralph Parcaut on March 21, 1930 and on April 9th of the same year forced Ray Carpenter to give up the deciding fall with a hammerlock in Columbus, Ohio. Gus Kallio was now the undisputed champion of his division, recognized by the highest authority in the game.

With his crown now set even more solidly on his head, Kallio set off on another tour, wrestling anywhere he could earn his price and anyone who thought they were man enough to take the title from him. He became one of the best known wrestlers in the business and one of the great athletic figures of sports' "golden era." He was "Smiling Gus Kallio The Untamed Finn, the Finish Thunderbolt. The Flashing Finn, The Flying Finn (a title he disliked because "there was only one Flying Finn — Paavo Nurmi"), and other colorful handles attached by imaginative sportswriters.

In March of 1932 the middleweight champion appeared in probably his most memorable bout, to him anyway. Facing Otis Clingman for the title in a giant circus tent at San Antonio's Exposition Park, Gus was having a rather bad night and Clingman had him in an armlock when the tent top suddenly split open, hail stones poured through, the tent poles swayed violently, the lights went out, the roof sailed away and pandemonium reigned.

Gus was suddenly all alone in the ring with hail stones beating down upon his naked back. Clingman, deciding he valued his life more than the middleweight championship, had made a speedy exit. Kallio scrambled out of the ring and crawled under the ring, championship intact with the help of the elements.

Gus proved he could take it in the spring of 1935 when he went to sleep at the wheel of his car near Fremont, Ohio, and rammed into a bridge. Rushed to the hospital with severe cuts and bruises about the head and his tongue almost completely severed, Gus refused an anesthetic while the tongue was sewed together. His refusal caused him plenty of pain but didn't hurt his public relations a bit.

Besides taking on all comers at wrestling, Gus was never adverse to tangling with boxers either. His first bout with a boxer was in Red Lodge, Montana, in 1923 against Syd Sucklyn. Gus put the pugilist out for over 20 minutes, when after nine minutes of action, he picked him up and banged his head on the floor. In 1926 he put the gloves on with a fighter named Toughy Jackson and fought him to an 8-round draw in Edna, Texas.

Between wrestling and boxing bouts, Gus proved to be a true Finn by excelling in Finland's national sport of track, winning a 3-mile cross country foot race at South Range, Michigan.

In 1934, Gus went on his grand tour of Africa and parts of Europe. He fought in South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, the Belgian Congo, the Portugese island of Madeira off the coast of Morrocco England, France and other points before coming back home to let Uncle Sam's bonebenders have another crack at him.

In 1938 and early 1939 a Mexican middleweight by the name of Octavio Gaona was claiming to be the top wrestler in his division. Kallio, 48 years old now and slowing down a bit, readied his tired old body for another defense of his honors and set off for Mexico City. There, on Jan. 17, 1939, he lost his cherished championship to the Mexican in three falls. After 10 years, 5 months and 10 days. Gus Kallio was just another wrestler.

Back home again, the dethroned champion tried to coax Gaona into a title bout in the United States but in vain. Gus paused and took stock of himself. He wasn't getting any younger, he was no longer champ, there were few middleweights around anymore, he was tired and he had money in the bank — so he called it quits and started promoting here.

His first promotion was on March 15, 1939. His arena was the building now occupied by Van Olds-Cadillac on Walnut Street. Then he moved up to 506 Walnut during the same year. After over 12 months at that location he moved again, this time to the Ouachita Valley Fairgrounds where he stayed for about four months.

On his 50th birthday, fulfilling a promise he made to Farmer Burns, Gus crawled through the ropes again to take on Red Byrd, a wrestler in his early 30's. Burns had fought a match at age 50 and Kallio vowed he'd do it too. He did, and, like Burns, he won it.

Gus fought several more matches, both in his own arena and in other cities. His last match was in Pensacola, Fla., at age 58. He won it too.

In May of 1941, Kallio opened at his present location at 312 Walnut. He's been there ever since, promoting wrestling matches every Monday night along with an occasional boxing bout and running a profitable skating rink during the rest of the week.

Asked why he picked Monroe to settle in, Gus says today, "It's just like a roulette wheel. The little ball has to stop somewhere, so I stopped in Monroe. I don't think I could have found a better place. I've made lots of friends here and I'm happy."

Who could ask for anything more?

Varied Issues Have Caused Men To Miss White House

A HISTORY OF PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS. By Eugene H. Roseboom. Macmillan.

We have had 43 presidential elections, 33 winners and ever so many more losers, Roseboom reminds us, and then astutely goes over them, the candidates, the real an dthe phony issues, the parties that rise and vanish.

The elections are the quadrennial climax of our political system. This is the story of those highlights alone, with just enough of every administration, from Washington to Eisenhower, to explain the campaigns.

Men have gone to the White House, or missed it, on such issues as the Constitution, state rights, war, peace, the League of Nations, tariff, prohibition, depression, free silver, labor and farm problems, Masonry and Catholicism. And they have organized not only as Whigs, Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, and Prohibitionists, but also under such indigenous names as Barnburners, Hunkers, Free Soilers, Woolly - Heads, Locofocos, Stalwarts.

Roseboom takes almost 600 pages, and sometimes his comments are so lively and sharp you wish he'd taken more: Hamilton "created a party without becoming a good politician;" for Salmon P. Chase, "the path of duty always led to public office;" Harding's speeches had "much feeling but little filling."

Here are the excitement, the torchlights and the parades without the doorbell-ringing, grassroots tedium; this is the cream of the American political story, the drama that skips everything but the splendid last acts.

Reflections Can Improve Picture

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

This week's picture is one I have had in the files since April and it does show a thought or two about how to shoot reflections. Here is the letter which accompanied the picture:

"I am enclosing a snapshot which I thought made an interesting print although there is nothing spectacular about it. I had a couple of exposures left on a roll of film which I wanted to finish. I was looking for something to create an interesting or novel effect and this idea struck me as we stopped at Paul Hewitt's Music Store. The reflection produced an interesting effect, I thought.

"I was using a Zeiss - Ikon camera with a Novar - Anistigmat lens, Verichrome Pan film, shooting at 1-100 second with the lens set at about F-11 Naturally, the foreground is slightly over - exposed in an attempt to catch the reflected light from the window. Also, you can make out a piano inside the store and the outline of a display light at the top of the window.

"It was definitely an experiment but I thought the results interesting.

The letter was signed by James E. Sharp of Columbia.

Now then, let's analyze the picture. First, I know your criticism would be the darkness of the reflections as mentioned. I think this might have been corrected by moving the subject into the shadow itself, and using a fairly small opening with a very slow shutter speed. This would have equalized the light on the subject and reflection and given the background a chance to remain fairly light.

Focusing for reflections is best done by focusing on a spot halfway between the subject and the reflection. This then can be sharpened by using a rather small opening with a slow shutter speed, providing available light is sufficient. This was a good try at something new. Good work.

New Generation's Musical Tastes Changing, Says Veteran Conductor

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

(ADVANCE — New York, July 13 (AP) — Want to throw a surprise party for your husband?

Pelletier, whose Met career ran from 1917 to 1950, came to this country as a youngster — and it is youngsters that he works with here now a great deal, and youngsters he seems to like most to talk about.

For three years conductor of the New York Philharmonic children's concerts, he says youngsters no longer can be tempted with the musical fare they liked even a few years ago.

"They are not interested in games, or stunts, they want Debussy's 'La Mer,' Ravel's 'Daphne et Chloe,' and things of that caliber."

A Montrealer born into a large musical family, he spends half his time in Canada, half here—unless it's a third in each place and a third traveling in between. There, too, in the conservatory he trains young people, and likes them to start as early as possible.

"For voices," he said, "you wait till the teens. But for strings, if you get them in their first years, they develop a suppleness in fingers and wrist which otherwise are apt to stiffen beyond remedy.

"Get them early and they become proficient, and so proud of it that when they are older they ignore the distractions of the sports field and stick to music."

The National Federation of Music Clubs' 1957 Award of Merit went to Pelletier for his efforts in encouraging the study of strings. At a children's concert he used 25 school-age youngsters as substitutes for some Philharmonic players in part of his program.

"Not so long ago young people all wanted to study clarinet or trumpet; now there is a great switch to strings."

He continued: "You used to tell a child: 'Now do that, now practice this for the next lesson.' That isn't enough today. You have to tell him why he is expected to do this or that, and also have to be able to show him. A mediocre teacher isn't enough, it must be a great teacher. When Oistrakh was here and talked to Joseph Fuchs, who teaches in the Montreal Conservatory, Fuchs asked whether he liked to teach. The Russian said he did, and added that it was lucky he did, too, for his government required it of him, arguing:

Vivian Della Chiesa Re-Emerges As Successful New Pops Thrush

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Vivienne, the new pops singing sensation, has finally shed the one-word pseudonym that adorned her first hit records and revealed herself to be none other than concert star Vivian Della Chiesa.

But that's all the revealing and shedding she plans to do in her new career.

"I'm not going to do a strip-tease or take a bath on stage," insisted this winsome, blue-eyed blonde who was a radio favorite for years. "If I can't make the grade as a pops singer with my voice alone then I'd rather not sing again, ever."

Trained as a dramatic soprano and still much in demand as a concert singer, the one - time opera star is startlingly frank about her reasons for going into the pops field: "There's more money in it."

Rapid Success

Toward that end she bought a part interest in V. I. P. Records and launched her pops singing career by using only her first name on the labels so that disc jockies and the listening public would rate her on her merits and not her past accomplishments.

VIVIAN DELLA CHIESA

The results were instantaneous and successful. Within six weeks her full throated, bluesy renditions of "Light A Candle" and "Love Letters in the Sand" had spiraled to the top of the best seller lists and she was being compared with everyone from Kay Armand and Lena Horne to Jo Stafford and Kate Smith.

Actually, neither Vivienne nor Vivian was making an abrupt break with the past. From her childhood days in Chicago, where she was born into an opera loving, music happy Italian family that sang to each other from morn till night, Miss Della Chiesa has been mixing popular songs, both American and Neapolitan, with her classical repertoire.

Power Plus Range

"I guess that's one reason why I did so well in radio and concerts," she admitted. "I was trained in the old operatic tradition but I was an American and knew all the popular songs."

I her pops style Miss Della Chiesa sings several octaves below her regular concert voice, but she has the power, the range, the coloring and the clarity of diction to make a ballad come alive without the aid of echo chambers, hopped - up arrangements or other technical gimmicks employed by today's crop of popular balladiers.

Her sudden success has generated the usual frenzy of interest among booking agents, supper club owners, Hollywood, television and record companies that knew her as a concert artist.

"For 20 years," she says dryly, "everybody knew who I was. Now that I've been re-discovered everybody wants to know where I've been."

Something of a prodigy, Miss Della Chiesa was practically a household word on radio during the depression years and she's still a bit sensitive on this point, which is understandable for a good-looking lass embarking on a new career.

Loving Picture Has Been Painted In Warm Colors

A HOUSEFUL OF LOVE. By Marjorie Housepian. Random House.

Down on East 24th Street, in the spring, summer and fall of 1929, Uncle Pousant runs his Armenian resturant. Nearby live the doctor and his wife and their daughter, who tells this story. And there is a long cast of other lively uncles, aunts, grandparents, cousins, friends, young and old, well seasoned Americans or fresh from Armenia, in New York, Binghamton, Council Bluffs, Newark.

Newark is Nuvark, to Pousant and maybe you can guess what are Sonysite and Ezbrypak.

Out in Council Bluffs, where Uncle Levon Dai went to lecture, he stayed to work and scored a success even according to American standards. But matriarch Marta-mama, just a few years short of 100, would like to see him back in New York once more before she dies, and see him married, too, to Satenig Sulyan, newcomer from Romania possessed luckily of some plump western-European good looks and also a lot of money.

This is an account of a rewarding, not very American way of life lived right here in America. There is proper scorn for rubbery cheese and railway-diner meals, instead of tastier-sounding shish-kebab, chickpeas, pomegranate, garlic, onions, sesame oil, mussels, honey sirup. No doubt the children of these people will all eat ready-sliced bread and frozen foods, and at the same time lose some of this richness of life. But for these particular generations, savor and zest were the goals, not success. It is not fair to Miss Housepian to call this a story; she has instead painted a loving picture in warm colors.

Letters From Peking Is Another Buck Special

LETTER FROM PEKING. By Pearl S. Buck. John Day.

"First, before I say what must be said, let me tell you that I love only you."

That much of the letter Mrs. Buck lets us see at the start but the rest not till we are three-fourths through this novel with its numerous international and interracial relationships:

Baba who married the Chinese woman; his half - American, half Chinese son Gerald who marries the American Elizabeth, who tells this touching story; their son Rennie who is a quarter Chinese; the girls he falls in love with who do and don't object to the exotic strain in his blood. Later there will be others with a double heritage. We meet them in China and in Vermont where Elizabeth and Rennie settled after Gerald, head of a great university, has dissed them from Communist-invaded China.

The question that serves to keep us reading concerns Gerald's mysterious behavior; he has banished the wife and child he loves. Parallel with this is Rennie's task of deciding what is his race, and his allegiance, and Elizabeth's temptation to yield to American suitors when she is so unsure of Gerald.

A sentimental bit of hocus-pocus to prepare for the ending doesn't spoil the fine, warm spirit of this story of a love so deep it draws no line between slant eye and straight, between white and unwhite skins. Mrs. Buck's talent for fiction is put stirringly at the disposal of her constant heartfelt plea for a world that pays more heed to love.

Dreadful Experience In Reflections On Hanging

REFLECTIONS ON HANGING. By Arthur Koestler. Macmillian.

For three months in the Spanish Civil War, Koestler was under sentence of death. If anything in the world could ever lead a man to reflect on the nature of the one irreversible legal penalty, it would be this dreadful experience. Koestler consequently reflects — if this fiery tract can be called tamely a reflection — on the situation in England, where he lives.

About one person a month has been hanged there in recent times. A summary of them over five years shows a pitiable list of offenders often insane, often under 25, and in most cases, as other penologists have noted, not habitual criminal types. Every jury recommendations for mercy was denied by the court.

Koestler claims it is the judges who have held out implacably against reforms that would allow discretion in passing sentence, as it is allowed in other categories and final as hanging itself.

of crime. And in further arguing that reform is necessary, he recounts some of the bloodiest incidents out of the past, like the execution of children and unspeakable mishaps at the gibbet, and some pretty horrid examples of more recent brutal blood-letting in the name of justice.

The book caused a tremendous to-do in England — where every death sentence in almost two years has been commuted. According to a foreword by New York University law professor Edmond Cahn, its appalling lessons apply here; 42 of 48 states allow capital punishment which however is outlawed in 36 countries, or most of the rest of civilization. Koestler's indictment is as savage

Guide To Good Reading

Now At The Ouachita Parish Public Library

FRANCES FLANDERS, Librarian

A wealth of new books on a variety of subjects has been added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week. There are books for everyone and I hope that each of you will find listed here just the type of book which you have been seeking. For myself and my staff I purchased a book called "Technical Services in Libraries." This is a very find book which tells many ways in which business methods can be applied to library procedures. It will be of great help to me in planning the work areas of our new headquarters library.

Three books of a religious nature were among the week's additions. "The Supernatural Origin of the Bible" by Kenneth James Nettles is a very fine and scholarly book and is of special interest because Mr. Nettles has a sister living in Monroe. "The Episcopalian Way of Life" by William Norman Pittenger is a very splendid book of particular interest to all who are members of that faith. "Kingdom of the Saints" by Ray Benedict West is a new interpretation of the Mormon settlers of Utah and their way of life.

Social Science

In the field of social science there are four new books "A Citizen Looks at Congress" was written by Dean Acheson and is a very good interpretation of our law making body. "The New Revolution in the Cotton Economy" by James H. Street will be of interest not only to farmers but to all those who had geared their way of life to the cotton economy. "N. E. A., The First Hundred Years" is a comprehensive history of the National Education Association, while "colleges for our Land and Time" by Edward Danforth Eddy is a discussion of the land-grant colleges of our country.

Trip to Italy

Anyone planning a trip to Italy will be interested in a new publication by Mario Andrew Pei called "Getting Along in Italian." This gives excellent information for the non - Italian speaking traveler in regard to making himself understood in Italy. A very scholarly book of anthropology is called "Races of Africa" and was written by Charles G. Seligman. This is an invaluable book for the student of peoples and cultures.

In the practical field there are four new titles. One is the 34th edition of the Radio Amateur's Handbook, published by the American Radio Relay League. Another was written by Jean B. Amer and is called "How to Make Containers and Accessories for Flower Arrangements." This book will be welcomed by the many members of the garden clubs in the parish. Another useful book is called "The Picnic Book" and was written by Marian Tracy. This book contains menus and suggestions for outdoor cookery and takes into account all of the new developments in food packaging. "How to Choose, Plan, Equip, and Decorate Kitchens" by Virginia Hart Wheeler is a book of special interest to anyone planning a new home or even planning to do over their present kitchen.

Five Arts

The category of fine arts also has four new titles. "The Gingerbread Age" by John Maass is a very fine discussion of Victorian architecture and will be of interest to all who like that period. "A Picture History of English Pottery" by Griselda Lewis is a beautifully illustrated account of the outstanding types of English pottery and porcelain. "Oil Painting Is Fun" by Alois Fabry will be most interesting to the many artists in our community as will "Artist's Handbook of Materials and Techniques" by Ralph Mayer. This is a very fine book and its value is inestimable.

In the field of American humorous writing a very interesting new title is "Where Did You Go? Out, What Did You Do, Nothing" by Robert Paul Smith. It is a discussion of the differences in attitude of children today and a generation ago.

There are several new books dealing with history in one form or another. "They Fought for the Sky" by Quentin Reynolds is a very excellent account of the aviators in World War I. Another stirring book is "Taxis of the Marne" by Jean Duturd. This is an account of the glorious effort made by the taxi drivers of Paris to evacuate the French soldiers who were trapped in the Battle of the Marne. "All Rome Trembled" by Melton S. Davis is a story of contemporary Italy and the effect that the death of a rather obscure young woman had on Italian politics. "Ghost Ship of the Confederacy" by Edwin Carrington Boykin is the story of the Alabama and her captain Raphael Semmes. This is one of the great annals of our naval history and one that will be interesting to many readers. " A Weekend in September" by John Edwards Weems is an account of the Galveston flood of 1900.

The Ouachita Parish Public Library is ready and eager to serve you; we invite you to take advantage of its resources.

Review Of Financial, Oil, Gas News

WEEK IN FINANCE

Some Spots Good, Some Bad On Business Scene

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Good in some spots, not so good in others—that was the complexion of the nation's business this week.

In a few instances, what was good news for some folks was bad news for others. Outstanding example: The rollback in oil prices.

Definitely on the bright side were reports of a record boom in summer employment, a whirlwind rise in stock prices, and faint whisperings of improved demand for houses, furniture, apparel, TV sets, and cars.

A poll of the nation's top bankers found these traditionally cautious individuals outwardly confident of continued prosperity right through to the end of the year. Commented the American Bankers Assn.: "Most bankers expect a period of stable high activity with employment, income and demand for credit remaining much as they are."

Less Optimistic

Some observers of the business scene were less optimistic. Widely echoed was one prediction that business in the third quarter, which started last week, would experience a more-than-seasonal slowdown.

While store sales continued to hold up well (department store business in the week ended July 6 was 4 per cent ahead of last year), merchants continued to complain of rising costs. A survey by the National Retail Dry Goods Assn. showed gross margins of department stores at their highest point in 10 years, but profits "dangerously lower." The culprit, according to NRDGA: an "alarming" rise in expenses.

The defense boom suffered a setback this week when the Air Force flagged down its Navaho guided missiles project. North American Aviation Inc., the prime contractor, said the halting of work on this project would force the company to lay off 10,000 workers at its California plants. Contracts totaling more than 100 million dollars will be cancelled.

Two Factors

Two factors apparently lay behind the "stop-work" decision. One was pressure on the Pentagon to hold defense costs down. Another and perhaps even more compelling reason was suggested by reports that the "Navaho" with its atomic warhead had been outmoded by newer and even deadlier missiles.

Unanswered at week's end was the question whether some of the urgency had been taken from the defense program as a result of the London disarmament talks and the political shakeup in the Kremlin.

What's happening to oil prices? Last month, after granting refinery workers a six per cent boost in pay, major oil companies announced a round of price increases on home and industrial heating oils, diesel fuel and gasoline. Petroleum economists warned that the new price structure rested on a shaky foundation —that rising inventories and ebbing demand could not support an increase now.

This week the oil price front weakened. Esso Standard Oil Co., eastern marketing affiliate of the huge Standard Oil Co. (N. J.), slashed prices of its home heating and diesel fuels by amounts ranging up to four-tenths of a cent a gallon, in many cases more than wiping out the June increase. As for the gasoline price rise, many suppliers were quietly granting discounts to filling station operators.

There were signs, too, of growing resistance to the July 1 rise in steel prices.

H. R. Davis, national sales manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co., said most retailers will probably hold the price line on home appliances and other household goods despite the higher cost of steel.

Total employment across the nation in June rocketed to 66½ million, highest ever reacorded for that month and 1,300,000 higher than in June a year ago. Students taking summer jobs accounted for much of the increase.

RULE OF THUMB CHANGES

Homeowners May Lose If Recession Should Come

By ROBERT F. COLL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Many of today's home buyers are riding the inflationary wave and could go under if a recession occurred, according to the National Housing Conference.

The conference, after a recent survey of home buying, concluded that the old rule of thumb that a family can afford a house costing two and one-half times its annual income isn't true today.

It found that the ratio should be 1.6 instead of 2.5 for a $10,000 house. It said other safe ratios are 1.7 for a $15,000 house and 1.7 for a home costing $25,000.

The conference found that while the wage-price spiral coupled with prosperity has boosted the family income, other costs such as interest and discount rates, taxes, maintenance and repairs have been creeping up.

The surveyors pointed out that should a recession hit, the family would face a shrinking income to meet "non-shrinkable" mortgage costs. They found that many home buyers, whom it classed as "marginal" owners, could go overboard because:

Marginal Owners

—They used up their savings for a big down payment and a smaller mortgage.

—Borrowed on life insurance or from other sources.

—Accepted gifts from relatives.

—Cut their other normal expenses to put 25 or even 30 per cent of the family income in housing.

—Postponed necessary repairs and maintenance.

—Took in roomers or boarders.

—By riding along with inflation it is easier to pay off a 1947 mortgage with 1957 dollars.

Ethyl Strike Continues With Over 3,000 Idle

BATON ROUGE, July 13 (AP)—More than 3,000 workers entered the weekend today still on strike at the Ethyl Corp. plant, although production continues.

Each side is waiting for the other to make a move.

"Tank car and drum shipments of ethyl anti-knock compound are going out daily from the plant on schedule," said Wallace Armstrong, resident manager.

"Plant operations are continuing at a high rate of efficiency," he said.

And president Willie Dipaola of the striking local 12,900, United Mine Workers District 50, said "morale is very good" on his side of the fence.

S. G. Henry, ethly community relations director, said everything is quiet "and we have received no requests from the union to meet and negotiate."

The UMW walkout Tuesday began, with members of the Allied Oil Workers Union refusing to cross picket lines, in a dispute over company plans for changes in manpower and production in tetraethyl production cycles.

Further Action On Natural Gas Bill Expected In Week

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Natural Gas Bill, which squeezed through the House Commerce Committee this week by two votes, is headed for another stiff test in the House Rules Committee.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark), author and chairman of the Commerce Committee, said today he plans to ask the Rules Committee next week to clear the bill for House consideration.

The measure would add to the Natural Gas Act a provision exempting independent gas producers from utility-type regulation by the federal government and generally easing federal controls over them.

The Supreme Court has held that the Natural Gas Act, as it stands, calls for federal regulation of prices of gas produced for interstate commerce. Opponents claim consumers would pay more for gas if this regulation is lacking.

Harris emphasized that the bill is considerably different from the Harris-Fulbright Bill, vetoed last year by President Eisenhower.

Harris has said that this year's bill would amend the Natural Gas Act to provide for "a new method of regulation of the prices at which producers sell natural gas to interstate gas pipeline companies—a method which is administratively workable and which, it is believed, will empower the federal power commission to control such prices in a manner which is fair and just to all segments of the consuming public."

RISE FOR THIRD WEEK

Stocks Surge To Near-Record Top

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—The stock market surged this week close to its historic bull market peak of April 1956.

The market set 1957 highs on three of the five trading days. It was the third straight weekly advance.

Trading at times was turbulent and some gyrations of specialty issues were hectic. Talk was of "inflation psychology."

Business and economic news was by no means uniformly bullish. Tight money and inflation were still the dominant factors in Wall Street thinking. The decline in bonds and the latest boost in steel prices were leading investors to a preference for shares in business rather than fixed-income securities.

The Associated Press average rose $2.40 during the week to $188.80, close to the peak of $191.50 on April 6, 1956.

The week began with a rush as averages pushed to 1957 highs. Profits were taken Tuesday in an irregular session. The market had enough of "consolidating" Wednesday and soared to another high. Thursday was another day of profit taking. A late rally pushed the market to its third '57 high of the week Friday.

The five most active issues were Sperry-Rand, up 1⅞, Olin-Mathieson up 3⅞, General Motors up 2⅝, Revlon, up 5 and Bethlehem Steel up ⅜.

In government bonds trading was very dull and price changes indefnite.

Cotton Future Prices Drop Lower Again

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Cotton futures prices were lower again this week.

After several days of aimless drifting, most of it on the downside, the market on Friday went into a sharp decline that left the entire list in lower territory. Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Echange took net losses ranging from $1.70 to $3.60 a bale.

Easiness at the start of the week was attributed chiefly to a bigger-than-expected government acreage report. Other bearish factors included House approval of soil bank benefits with a top limit of $3,000 for individual growers, and reports of favorable weather in the belt.

Sell Off

Friday's sell off was triggered by news the House Agriculture Committee had called an executive session for Tuesday, July 16, to consider new price support legislation. This came a surprise to many traders who had believed there was little chance of any new legislation on price supports being passed in time to affect the 1958 crop.

Offerings were absorbed by trade buying, short covering, and buying attributed to the belief that a higher loan rate might be in the offing.

The official government acreage report, indicating that a total of 14,224,000 acres had been planted to cotton as of July 1, contrasted with a series of private estimates which had placed the total considerably lower. These estimates had ranged from about 13,600,000 acres to 14 million.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON — July 11 (Special)—Some members of Congress say the clean-up movement in organized labor shows signs of becoming a flop.

Defiance of the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee already is seen in actions within the teamsters union. It is similarly expected in the bakery workers union. An immediate result may be to increase pressure on the senate rackets committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) to broaden the scope of its inquiry to all parts of the country.

Exposure of labor union corruption and hoodlumism is regarded by some Congressmen as the best method of bringing about a clean-up in the near future. More and more legislators voice the opinion that legislation will be necessary to halt union corruption.

Bills Pending

Legislation now is pending in Congress to this end, but no action is foreseen soon. The legislation includes: (1) Abolition of compulsory unionism; (2) Reversing court decisions permitting the federal government to pre-empt rights of states; (3) Removing union antitrust law exemption.

Seriousness of the problem within organized labor is emphasized by some members of the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee. A. J. Hayes, chairman of the committee, has been quoted as saying that "Organized Labor needs the help of government, needs the help of industry, needs the help of business, and others" in eliminating whatever wrongs may be in the trade union movement.

Civil Rights Debate — The historic civil rights debate in the Senate may block much legislation of importance to business. This could result in many bills of this character being acted upon next winter — during a political year. Thus uncertainties for business could be increased.

Rush Expected

Once the civil rights is ended, however, there may be a rush to pass important measures in a week or 10-day period before adjournment. If so, big spending advocates would make every effort to push through programs involving huge future commitments. Pre-adjournment rush periods also are often employed by the advocates of big government to force action on measures to this end.

Economy Drive Continues — The economy drive in Congress continues. This is due to failure of Congress to enact all appropriation bills by commencement of the new fiscal year on July 1. Opportunity to save billions of dollars still exists.

The Senate restored approximately one billion out of $2.5 billion cuts made in the Defense Department appropriation bill by the house.

The Administration won a victory in enactment of a new foreign aid authorization bill in the Senate, but final triumph is in doubt. The House may substantially change the Senate bill, lowering the authorization and placing other restrictions in the measure. Further, once the authorization bill is passed, appropriations must be voted separately.

Sound Expert Urges Change In Hi Fi Speaker Systems

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press Staff Correpsondent

Jack Frazier, who has been in the business of sound since 1928, is the leading American exponent of the eight-inch woofer in high fidelity speaker systems.

"It moves the same amount of air," he says, "as four, 15-inch speakers with 16 times the amount of power in a horn system."

With Ed May, who is now with Jim Lansing, Frazier used the eight-inch speaker in plug-loaded systems.

He is operating a speaker system factory on his own in Dallas since May left and has brought out three exponential horn systems, all with eight-inch woofers.

A horn in a speaker system serves the same purpose as the long curved tubing and the big bell on a tuba in a band.

Californian—A New System

The music goes in — from the diaphragm in the case of a speaker—and comes out loud and deep.

"Exponential" simply means that the air column of the horn, which is made of non - resonant plywood, tapers at a given rate.

The biggest of Frazier's new systems, which he calls the "Californian," has 28 feet of air column and a taper rate of 17.2 cycles per second.

It is a huge system and along toward the top in the price range. Frazier says it is flat, within five decibels, from 20 to 17,000 CPS.

The middle speaker in the line Frazier calls the "New Yorker." It has 16.8 feet of air column, tapering at the rate of 20 CPS. and Frazier says its range is 30-17,000 CPS.

Dixielander Speaker

The third of his new speakers is a more modest-sized job called the "Dixielander." It also is considerably more modest in price than the other two and, according to Frazier, checks out at 40-17,000 cycles.

To provide the middle and high range in all the speakers, he uses Altec 802-C drivers, with horns he makes himself out of aircraft plywood.

He says this reduces slightly the extreme brilliance of the driver, making it more compatible with the sound produced by his horns.

The crossover in the "Californian" is at 600 CPS. The crossover in the other two is at 800 CPS.

Frazier also designed the cabinets for his new systems. They look alike, except for size. They are in semi-modern design and, to borrow an expression in bad repute among audiophiles, fine furniture.

Texans Miffed

Nearly all speakers and systems favor certain instruments. These reproduce well piano, strings and voice. The two big ones should get a careful audition from organ music lovers.

250 TONS=A ONE CARAT DIAMOND by ALTON HOWARD

Oh yes, there are some famous diamonds that were found on top of the ground or maybe in some old river bed, but such finds are rare. The Jonker Diamond is a case in point. This diamond was found in 1934, on a farm near Pretoria South Africa by Jacobus Jonker. He sold the gem for $315,000.00.

However on the average 250 tons of earth and rock has to be mined and moved to find a diamond of one carat size. Then there must be the sifting and crushing of the ore. From here to the sorting tables—cutters—polishers—jewelers and finally on your finger. A long expensive process indeed.

When you stop and think how much work really goes into the finishing of a diamond I'm sure you'll appreciate it's true value.

We spend hours in grading and selecting our diamonds and frankly many times we reject and return to the cutters, stones that do not meet our grading standards. This we do for your protection for perhaps a diamond more than any other commodity is purchased by the customer blindly, not knowing what makes one diamond more valuable than another. Knowing that the quality diamond our customers receive depends upon our ability to grade and buy, we make many tests before one of our diamonds is offered for sale.

Come in and visit us and I'll be glad to show you our modern grading system and let you see for yourself some of the differences in diamonds. HOWARD BROS. JEWELERS, 116 DESIARD ST., MONROE, LA.

Ike's Speeches Indexed By Newspaper Librarian

Shoemaker, a 50 - year - old librarian, has been publishing indexed volumes of every major statement Eisenhower has made since he first announced his candidacy in 1952.

The first of the three volumes of "The President's Words" put Shoemaker $1,000 in the red; the next $500 and the third slightly less. He hopes to break even the next time.

Why bother at all?

As head librarian of the Louisville Courier - Journal, Shoemaker gets all kinds of questions — particularly during campaign years.

Several persons kept coming in and asking what Eisenhower said at various speeches when he started his campaign.

"I thought it would be a lot easier for me to index them. I only intended to do it during the campaign, but, after he was elected, I decided to continue.

"It was habit - forming then. And, besides, I enjoy it."

To date, Eisenhower has written three personal letters thanking Shoemaker for his efforts.

In his last letter, the president said "I have a rather unhappy feeling when I visualize the work that confronts you in making the index of the subjects I talk about during the course of any one year . . . But, at any rate, you have my continued thanks for making available to me a record that is highly useful."

Cash Donations Needed To Establish Museum

By DORIS TYNES

"A donation at present will help preserve the past." That's the slogan the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society has chosen to launch their drive for needed fun in the establishment of a museum for this area.

The few weeks past have shown an increase in donations of all types. Public interest has reached a new peak and relics have literally poured in. Instead of the "summer slump" which had been anticipated, donations have reached an all time high. Because of the increased volume of items for display, cash is especially needed at this time for the purchase of supplies to properly preserve these old relics. Your cash donation at this time will in truth help to preserve reminders of the past. "A donation at present will help preserve the past." Contributions may be sent to Museum, Box 573, Monroe, Louisiana. To have your donation picked up, telephone Mrs. R. N. Milling, FA 3-2481.

A number of relics were donated recently by Mrs. E. N. Faulk and Mrs. E. K. Flournoy. Among them were two interesting little dolls, one made in Germany, and believed to have been used in 1895. Another doll not quite as old was brought over from Italy in 1923. Our first top hat was donated by these ladies. It was worn by Mr. Faulk back in 1905. Another top hat has since come in donated by Mrs. Ethel H. Handy. Mrs. Faulk's wedding shoes, worn in 1893, size one and one-half (Imagine!), were among the donations. Among several objects used by Capt. John E. Morris, Jr., while in the service of his country were a sword which came from the Philippines, (1915), a pair of World War shoes, and a mess kit (1918). Other miscellaneous articles were: two fans (1888 and 1890), a crazy quilt made by Mrs. Faulk (1890), a caribou horn, an 1890 handbag, and a number of costumes sent the family by the actress Camille Goodrich, sister of Mrs. L. W. Mobley, two Harrison Fisher books with pictures of the glamour girls of 1907, several pieces of sheet music 1890's, and several pictures of downtown Monroe around the turn of the century.

It is so pleasant and encouraging to find people who are interested enough in our venture to contribute so generously. The Ouachita Society thanks you, the generous public, for your kind participation in ultimate establishment of a museum for northeast Louisiana!

Prominent MD Kills Son, Then Takes Own Life

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., July 13 (UP)—The family of a prominent surgeon, who killed one of his twin sons and then took his own life, said yesterday he apparently found the heartache caused by the youth's mental illness more than he could bear.

Dr. Charles J. Brady, 53, shot his son, Jon, 20, in the back with a .38 caliber revolver Thursday night while the rest of the family watched television in the den of their fashionable home in this resort community.

Then he shot himself in the heart.

Only Explanation

"That's the only explanation we have for what happened."

District Attorney Erwin Zastrow said, "We're convinced it was murder and suicide. There's no doubt about it."

He said no inquest was planned. Double funeral services were scheduled Saturday at St. Francis de Sales Catholic Church.

Richard Brady said Jon had been treated by a Milwaukee psychiatrist for mental illness for the past four years, but had managed to maintain a C-plus average in the Marquette University liberal arts college.

He was attending summer session at Marquette, where he was a sophomore. His family said he was 27th in his class of 86 when he was graduated from Lake Geneva high school in 1955.

The bidding:

South, 1 heart; West, double; North, redouble; East, pass.

South, pass; West, 2 diamonds; North, 2 hearts; East, pass.

South, 4 hearts; West, pass; North, pass; East, pass.

Opening lead: King of spades.

An elementary problem in card combinations is presented in today's offering; yet it is one which players of considerable experience will sometimes overlook under the pressure of actual competition.

The bidding was not very eventful. In view of his favorable distribution, West had a reasonable double of the opening heart bid and North had a classic redouble. East preferred to let his partner work himself out of the awkward situation, which he was able to do readily enough with a call of two diamonds. North was content to offer a single raise, having previously announced an above average hand by his redouble, and South carried on to game.

West opened the king of spades, on which East played the queen. This normally calls for an underlead of the ace by the opening leader, but West, having no quick re-entry, decided to cash the ace and then the ten. With the "book" tricks in, West got out with a spade in order to await developments.

Declarer was aware of no danger in the hand, and without giving the matter much thought played the ace of trumps out of his own hand, and with it signed his own death warrant, for East could not now be prevented from winning a trick in hearts.

A time honored ritual would have stood declarer in good stead as he attacked the problem of this hand. He should have raised the question, "What holding do I fear?"

The answer is, obviously, all four trumps in one hand. If the four happen to be in the West hand, then he need give the matter no further concern for nature has placed an unsurmountable obstacle in his path. But if East has all four trumps, proper management will permit declarer to pick up the suit.

Correct play is a low trump to the king, and when West shows out the situation is clear and dummy returns a low heart, forcing East to split his honors else South will win with the nine. Declarer reenters dummy with a club and puts through another trump to finesse East out of his remaining honor.

However to keep pace with our City's normal growth, definite improvements must be completed and in operation not later than June 1958.

Man Jailed On Forgery Counts Here

A California man placed in the Ouachita parish jail on two charges of forgery yesterday admitted forging three additional checks in the Twin Cities, but stated that he did not recall which establishments he fleeced.

C. A. Van Dayne, 47, of El Centro, Calif., who also said that he is probably wanted in several other states, was apprehended by the joint work of the Sheriff's Department and the Monroe city police at 11:30 a.m. yesterday on Louisville avenue.

Cashed Check

Van Dayne, who used the name of Van Martin in writing his checks, went into a West Monroe store yesterday morning and cashed a check for $25. The merchant became suspicious over the check, and tried to call the Kansas bank which Van Dayne had named. He found that no such bank existed.

He immediately called the sheriff's office, and the man was caught within 45 minutes, booked at police headquarters, and transferred to the parish jail.

Sheriff Bailey Grant said that the department had charged Van Dayne with forging one check in Monroe and one in West Monroe.

Also in the parish jail is Ruth Remore, 22, of 710 Miro street, who was booked by Monroe Police Friday night on a felony theft.

Police officials yesterday stated that the woman was charged with taking a large diamond ring from a local hospital where she had been employed for two days, and pawning the jewelry.

Democrats Rap President's New Economy Drive

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Congressional Democrats protested today against President Eisenhower's latest economy moves.

In the House, Democrats angrily retaliated against the President's secret "cut spending" directive by threatening rougher treatment of his foreign aid and other budget requests.

Thy also talked of out - doing the administration by setting a spending ceiling lower than the President's, thus clearing the way for a politically popular tax cut.

In the Senate, former Air Force Secretary Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said Eisenhower's "incredible policies" scrap multi-million dollar weapons programs but "refuse even to consider" money-saving suggestions for greater efficiency in the armed services.

Millions Down the Drain

He pointed out that the administration recently scrapped the entire program to develop a new military cargo plane, the C-132, after spending 93 million dollars on it. Thursday, the government announced it was abandoning development of the Navaho intercontinental guided missile after investment of 500 million dollars.

"The administration explains these unique efforts toward unilateral disarmament in the face of growing Communist military strength on the grounds he cannot afford to discontinue our efforts to remain strong," the Missouri Democrat told the Senate.

"At the same time, President Eisenhower continues to refuse to even consider moving down the three broad avenues where grate savings could be made in the military through greater efficiency," he said.

Budget Ceiling Talked

These "avenues" are the Cordiner report for a career incentive plan for the armed forces, The Hoover Commission recommendation for further teamwork by the services, and a "true weapons system evaluation program, which we haven't had since World War II," Symington said.

In the House, Democrats talked of placing a ceiling of 68 to 69 billion dollars on the money the government can spend in the fiscal year which began July 1. This would be three to four billion dollars below the President's original spending estimate of $71,800,000,000.

The proposal grew out of angry Democratic reaction to the discovery that Eisenhower two weeks ago secretly ordered government agencies to hold spending wherever possible to last year's totals—or one to two billion less than he had told Congress the government needed to spend this year.

Boy, 4, Hurt In Car Crash

A car accident at the intersection of Louisville avenue and N. Fourth street at 10:35 a.m. yesterday injured a four-year-old Monroe boy.

Kenneth Vidrine of 1308 S. Third street, a passenger in a car driven by Geraldine W. Hancock, suffered a laceration of the lip and was taken to a private physician for treatment.

Monroe police who investigated, stated that the Hancock sedan was going north on N. Fourth and starting to cross Louisville, when Jesse R. Smith of 4012 Twentieth avenue, New York City, apparently ran a red light on Louisville and struck the car, damaging its right side.

NEW DELHI, July 13 (UP) — Roberto Rossellini said today Ingrid Bergman's announcement that they were about to resume housekeeping in their Italian villa came as a complete surprise to him.

Rosselllini was stricken with influenza tonight and was ordered to bed by his doctor. This forced him to cancel his planned departure for Bombay Sunday and a possible reunion with the Indian woman with whom he has been linked romantically.

The possibility was raised that his married Indian secretary might accompany him when he leaves India. The Indian government reversed an earlier decision and issued a passport to the "golden beauty" from East Bengal.

Staying in India

Rossellini said he had "no knowledge" of his wife's statement in Rome last Saturday that they would be reunited within a month. He said he planned to stay in India "some time more," but refused to disclose his plans.

"I am not flying to Rome," he said.

When Miss Bergman arrived in Rome with her daughter, Jenny Ann Lindstrom, Friday, she was informed by her attorney that he had talked on the telephone with Rossellini and that the director did not plan to reach Italy until September.

Sonali Gets Passport

Mrs. Sonali Das Gupta, 27, wife of Indian film director Hari Das Gupta and mother of two small children, was refused a passport last May as a result of a petition filed by her husband and father. They said she was preparing to leave the country with Rossellini.

The government reversed itself and issued a passport on the grounds that it considered a further delay would "infringe the private liberty of the individual."

The decision to issue the passport was made at a high level. All passports must be confirmed by the central office of the home ministry.

Both Rossellini and Mrs. Das Gupta have denied their relationship has been anything but a business association. They occupied ajoining rooms in a hotel for a time, until Rossellini moved out while under criticism by Indians.

YOUTH INJURED

A baseball game at Ruston sent a West Monroe youth to St. Francis hospital after 11 p.m. Friday, after he was knocked out when hit by another ball player. Injured was Kelton Bacon, 16, of Route 2, West Monroe, who was taken to the hospital by his parents. The youth suffered a head injury and nose bleed. X-rays were taken and he was hospitalized for observation.

CAR MISSING

SYRACUSE, N.Y. —(UP)— Dr. Mohamed Fotoohi, stranded when his car broke down, was given a lift by a friendly mechanic who drove the doctor home, told him he would fix the vehicle and happily took only an advance payment of $12 for the ride and work. After several days went by, Dr. Fotoohi told the police he hadn't seen his car nor the friendly mechanic since.

Second Week Of Clinton Trial To Open On Monday

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 13 (UP) — The second week of the Clinton segregation trial opens Monday with the government saying it is just reaching the interesting part of a case the defense says does not exist.

A sneak preview for attorneys of three newsreels may determine whether the jury of mountain - bred, elderly East Tennesseans gets a close - up of John Kasper in action with his 15 co-defendants from Clinton, Tenn. The court rules on the film's admissability Monday.

The whole case goes back to the integration of Clinton High School by order of U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor late last August. This was the first integration of a public school under the 1954 Supreme Court decision in a state of the Deep South.

Two Personalities

Two personalities are paramount. One is Kasper, New Jersey - born segregationist and anti-semitic. He appeared on the scene at Clinton just before the integration began.

The other is Judge Taylor. The roly-poly little judge stuck to his guns by issuing temporary and permanent writs to keep anyone from interfering with the integration.

Kasper, speaking on street corners and the lawn of the Clinton courthouse, was the first offender. He already faces a year's contempt for an earlier violation of the injunction and is working for a writ of certiorari from the U.S. Supreme Court to stay out of jail.

The most violent disorders at Clinton have not shown up in the trial, nor are they likely to. It took the Tennessee militia, with tanks, to restore order on Gov. Frank Clement's orders after 12 Negroes first enrolled at the high school. Kasper's part in those events were disposed of at his first government trial. He was acquitted of state charges of riot and sedition.

Pastor Beaten

But two months later, in November, trouble broke out again and a Baptist preacher, the Rev. Paul Turner, was beaten up after he escorted Negro students to school. The school was shut down for a few days and the 15 Clinton defendants were rounded up and charged with contempt.

In January, the complaint was amended to include Kasper, the only one who had been personally served with the injunction. The government produced testimony Friday to indicate that Kasper, segregation's soldier of fortune, was in Clinton within a week of the November riots.

In five days of trial, the government brought 11 of the 15 Clinton area natives into the testimony. But the platoon of defense lawyers insisted no case was shown. Prosecutor John C. Crawford, U.S. district attorney, said the case would get stronger Monday.

LOURDES ENCYCLICAL

Pope Lashes Out At Both East, West Materialism

VATICAN CITY, July 13 (AP)—Pope Pius XII lashed out at materialism of both East and West today and called for return to Christian principles in an encyclical hailing the forthcoming centennial jubilee of Lourdes.

The jubilee will begin Feb. 11, 1958, and continue a full year. During that time millions of people are expected to visit the famous Roman Catholic shrine to the Virgin Mary in France.

It was at Lourdes that Bernadette Soubiroux, a 14 - year - old French girl, reported the Virgin Mary appeared to her Feb. 11, 1858. Since then, millions have visited the shrine. Many have claimed miraculous cures for their ailments, and some left crutches to festoon walls and ceiling of the grotto.

To French

The pontiff's encyclical letter, addressed to French cardinals, archbishops and bishops was dated July 2, Roman Catholic feast of the Visitation of the Virgin. It was released today by the Vatican press office. In it the Pope made one of his sharpest attacks on materialism, which he called the modern world's "terrible Temptation."

The Pope said "The Most Holy Mother — the Virgin Mary — has launched a cry of alarm" for this modern society that would "gain the universe at the price of its soul and is running toward its ruin."

"This materialism," he said, "is not found only in the condemned philosophy—communism—that rules the politics and economy of one part of humanity. It also pervades the love of money whose ruins are broadening.

Raps Cult Of Body

"It is experienced in the cult of the body; in excessive search for comforts; in avoidance of all austerity of life that prompts disrespect for human life even to the point of destroying it before it has seen the light.

"It is manifested in an unbridled search for pleasure that shamelessly exhibits itself, and tries also to seduce with literature and spectacles the souls of those who are still pure.

"It is demonstrated in a disregard for (one's) brother; in egoism that oppresses him (one's brother), and in injustice that deprives him of his rights—in a word in that concept that regulates only functions of material prosperity and earthly satisfactions."

The Pope concluded his encyclical with words of comfort for the humble, sick and grief stricken, many of whom will go to Lourdes during the jubilee year.

Girl Scout News

Day camp's in full swing with ten units of girls making their homes under trees at Pine Wood. Two hundred and thirty-five girls plus staff make this the biggest camp Pine Wood has ever seen. A tour of the unit homes shows clever bulletin boards, lashed tables and washstands, log seats, and other housekeeping arrangements set up by the girls themselves.

A check of activities around camp found the girls of Log Lane having a cookout, cooking meat, potatoes, onions and carrots in foil over coals. Mrs. Earl Fisher is leader of this unit of fly-ups, Mary Jo Strausser and Billie Sue Sixon serving as program aides.

Pine Cliff unit, another fly - up group, was starting on prints of leaves as part of their work on the tree bradge under the direction of their leaders, Mrs. Ursine Striner and Mrs. Louis Breard, and Nancy Claire Noland, program aide. Both groups had trips to the Linville fire tower as part of their work on the tree badge. Mrs. Thompson and Mr. Hecker of the forestry department accompanied the girls, helping them with the badge requirements that have to do with fire prevention, diseases of trees, and conservation.

Century Oak unit, made up of seventh and eighth grade girls under the leadership of Lucy Huckabee, and Anne McCarty, chose a site farthest from camp near a huge oak tree which gives the unit its name. The most exciting thing that has happened to them is that they chased and caught the one remaining pig of three who somehow got in the grounds and couldn't find their way out. The camp director promised the girls a treat for managing to catch the pig.

One unit of sixth graders, calling themselves the Ramblers, has made a unit home on a shaded slope which had never been cleared before. The girls have chosen the Adventurer and Rambler badges as their program. Their leader is Mrs. A. R. Nichols of Springhill, and Nancy Martin and Sue Turner serve as program aides.

The other sixth grade unit calls itself the Adventurers, having chosen that badge and the Rambler. They have been making star maps as required by the latter badge. They had their cookout Thursday, choosing squaw corn, a one - pot meal. Mrs. Edmund Middleton is leader and Joan William program aide, for this group, which also has cleared a new part of the camp grounds.

The above are all Intermediate groups. Next time we'll carry news of the five Brownie units.

If you thought last week was hot, you may be interested in the remark of one Brownie Scout. Asked by her mother is she had been hot at camp, the camper replied, "Oh, no, we're under the trees, and besides, we're too busy!" A smart answer, we'd say. Helping to keep the girls cool in that cooler of ice water in each unit and the 25 gallons of a cool drink, which Mrs. L. L. Nash and Ronnie Herver prepare every day at lunch time.

MRS. JAMES ARTHUR HOOGLAND

Trinity Methodist Church Setting For Late Afternoon Ceremony Uniting Miss Goff And Mr. Hoogland

On Sunday, June 30, at five o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Dorothy Etta Goff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Goff, Jr., became the bride of James Arthur Hoogland, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hoogland, all of Ruston.

The Trinity Methodist Church was the scene of the double ring ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Jolly B. Harper.

A white wrought-iron archway entwined with smilax was at the center of the altar and was flanked by four large bouquets of white chrysanthemums and delphinium and double-tiered candelabra holding tall white tapers. The chancel rail was graced by trios of candles interspersed with huge white single mums and waxed magnolia leaves. The same decor was repeated at the extreme back of the altar. Directly in front of the arch was the satin covered prie dieu, on which the couple knelt for prayer.

Dr. Marshall Bretz at the organ played traditional nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. J. L. Dodds who sang "I Love Thee" by Greig, "Calm As the Night" by Bohn, and "The Lord's Prayer."

A large bow at the back came down the length of the dress. On her head she wore a half-hat of ice blue feathers and net and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white Chantilly lace over net and taffeta. The bouffant skirt was in scallops and her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap which was of lace and edged with seed pearls. Her cascading bouquet was of American Beauty roses surrounded by fleur d' amour.

Serving his brother as best man was Richard Hoogland of Columbus, Ohio. Ushers were Donald and Frederick Hoogland, brothers of the groom, and Lacy M. Stinson, all of Ruston. Lighting the candles prior to the ceremony were the bride's brother, Kennon Goff, and John Tom James.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Goff wore a champagne lace over taffeta dress with matching accessories and a corsage of American Beauty rosebuds. Mrs. Hoogland chose to wear a pale blue cotton sheer dress trimmed with sequins, white accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The reception rooms were decorated with multiple arrangements of summer blossoms. Greeting the guests were Mrs. J. M. Baker, Mrs. Donald Hoogland and Mrs. Frederick Hoogland.

The bride's table was centered with a silver branched candelabra and the punch service at one end. At the opposite end the tiered wedding cake, topped with a life-like white yellow throated orchid, was placed on a mirrored plateau edged with Chantilly lace. Serving were Mrs. Dallas Lomax, Mrs. O. O. Goyne, Mrs. L. O. Gahagan and Mrs. Allen Guthrie. Also assisting were Mrs. Raymond Purcell, Mrs. Richard Hoogland and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Love and Miss Esther Lee McFarland.

Return To Family Dining Is Urged

ST. LOUIS — The president of the National Association of Food Chains has called for a return to family dining.

John A. Logan said the demand and complexity of present - day living find "too many families eating dinner by shifts with mother dashing off to a PTA meeting before father's commuter train brings him home. In the meantime, the children may be off to scout meetings, baseball games, the movies or to baby sit for a neighbor."

Logan, in a talk before a group of home economists meeting here, said he was not deploring "the extent to which families are community and group - minded today.

"But there is a possibility that we can go so far in promoting informal eating and quick food preparation that the social satisfaction, the spiritual significance . . . of 'breaking bread together' may go by the wayside."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BAKER BOYD, JR.

Miss Jackie Lynn Walters Exchanges Vows With John Baker Boyd, Jr., In Double-Ring Ceremony In Crowville

A double ring ceremony was performed June twenty-eight, uniting in marriage, Miss Jackie Lynn Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Walters, and John Baker Boyd Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Boyd of Delhi.

The Dr. H. L. Driskell was the officiant in the Crowville Baptist Church before tall pink tapers in spiral candelabrum and baskets of spic and span gladioli with silver foliage and potted palms. The pews were marked with pink gladioli with silver foliage and pink satin bows.

Mrs. Roy W. McIntyre was the organist and the soloist was the Rev. Ira C. Griffin.

The bride, on the arm of her father, wore a gown of white embroidered tulle over net and bridal satin. The fitted bodice formed a point at the waist and the bouffant overskirt of full ruffles of plain tulle showing in front complimented the deep ruffle of the chapel train. The finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a tiara made of the same material as the wedding gown. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and white Frenched carnations and lily of valley in crescent design.

The bridesmaids were Joy Bankston Smith, Kay Lynn Payne, Patricia Mills Caldwell, and Mary Opal Caldwell. The junior bridesmaids were Renee and Rejean Fousse. Virginia Lou McKinney served as flower girl. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor. The flower girl carried a basket of ice blue taffeta and maline filled with rose petals.

Thomas Mack Boyd served his brother as best man. Ring bearer was Guy Steven Williams, nephew of the bride. The groomsmen and ushers were Perry Payne, Jerry B. McLain, J. N. Franks, and Billy Gene and Danny Ray Williams.

The bride's mother wore a gown of beige nylon over rose taffeta and a corsage of Frenched champagne carnations. The groom's mother chose a gown of navy nylon over navy taffeta. Her corsage was of orchid pom poms.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was pink, overlaid with lace, and was centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets. A five tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, was placed on one end of the table. The crystal punch bowl was on the other end.

When the couple left on their wedding trip, she was wearing a blue cotton suit with black and white accessories. She wore at her shoulder, an orchid from her bouquet.

Blouses Will Show More This Season

By DROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

This summer's smart traveler wears one of the new lightweight, all - season suits and takes along an ample supply of blouses in the new miracle fabrics that can be dunked in the washbowl at night and worn without ironing next morning.

What's more, her blouses will show this season. Her easy jacket is worn open in new casual manner espoused by Chanel, bringing the blouse back into the spotlight.

She'll want one or two lightweight, easily washable sweater blouses in tones to match or contrast with her suit. These may be orlon or tycora, preferably sleeveless, as easy to wash as a pair of stockings.

Then she'll want some dressy blouses, perhaps in the new Lady Fauntleroy look — dainty sissy shirts with lots of ruffles, to give a frivolous feminine touch to a tailored suit or to wear merely teamed with a skirt.

One or two dark print blouses in easy - care dacron crepe are prescribed for the well - rounded blouse wardrobe, and for sports wear a monogrammed shirt in a dacron and pima cotton blend.

MRS. PAUL JERRY HOBGOOD

Miss Dorotha Louise Welch Weds Paul Hobgood At St. Matthew's In Afternoon Ceremony Here

White chrysanthemums and tube roses formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Louise Welch and Paul Jerry Hobgood. She is the daughter of Mrs. McGregor True of New Orleans, and John Timothy Welch of Rayville. He is the son of Mrs. Carlos Guy Hobgood and the late Mr. Hobgood of Bogalusa.

The Monseignor Marsh heard their vows in the St. Matthews Catholic Church July thirteenth, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Willoughby Thomas was the soloist accompanied by Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ.

The bride entered on the arm of her father and wore a floor length white organdy gown with a peter-pan collar and a tiered skirt edged with Chantilly lace. Her veil of illusion was delicately embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses placed upon a prayer book.

The only attendant of the bride was her sister, Mrs. Frank Marion Sykes of Peoria, Ill. She wore a model of pale blue, pure silk with a fitted bodice overlaid in Chantilly lace. Her hat was a velveteen shell with short veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of white roses.

George Hobgood of Bogalusa, served his brother as best man. The ushers were Horace Boler and Wendell A. Holloway.

Reception Held at Rendezvous

Following the wedding ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Taylor and John Timothy Welch were hosts at a reception at the Rendezvous, where Jerry Hughes of Shreveport, rendered organ music.

The bride's table was laid in white and centered with a tiered cake surrounded with flowers and greenery. Presiding at the table were Mrs. George B. Franklin, Jr. and Miss Nancye Hobgood.

Beside the bride's book were tall burning tapers, where Miss Gail Durham presided.

Mrs. Hobgood is a graduate of Jones County High School of Ellisville, Miss., and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Hobgood graduated from the Bogalusa High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

The couple will make their home in Bogalusa where Mr. Hobgood is in business.

The Good Old Days Meant Corset Stays

CHICAGO—In Elizabethan England women went through untold torture if they cared enough about their shape to squeeze into a girdle, reports one corset firm.

Researchers said getting into a "foundation" became such a monumental task that craftsmen even put hinges on the garments to make matters easier.

Even in the early 1800's this advice was given English mothers:

"Have your daughter lie face down on the ground, so that, by having a foot in the small of her back, you can secure a firm purchase on the laces."

But getting into a gridle ceased to be an engineering feat, the researchers said, when manufacturers started using modern fabrics instead of whalebone and steel "stays."

Parents Can Spot That Little Genius

CHICAGO — Parents can play a big part in "discovering" the talented child says a Northwestern University education professor.

The parents are in a position to recognize gifts in their children at an early age, Dr. Paul Witty says in the magazine National Parent-Teacher.

If the child accurately uses a large vocabulary, is interested in books, can concentrate longer than most children, learns early to read or is adept at drawing, music or other art forms, then the child has unusual talent, Witty said.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dear. The bridegroom's father is Walter E. Garner of Winnsboro.

The church was decorated with a background of magnolia leaves and greenery interspersed with magnolia blooms, gardenias and crepe myrtle. Three large baskets of white gladioli were used on the altar. Candelabra held the white cathedral tapers which illuminated the setting.

Advice To Summer Travelers Going On Cruises For First Time

That summer cruises are enjoying greater popularity is made evident by the increasing questions about customs on shipboard. Some of them are from men and many from older women, but the most typical questions are from young women about to take their vacations.

The following advice, then, is directed to a young woman making her first cruise, from the moment of arriving "on board" until adjusted to her surroundings and "at home" amongst her new - found friends.

The first thing to do on arrival is to find your cabin and see that your luggage is put in it. If you are sharing the cabin, be sure that you do not spread your possessions over more than your half the space. You next find the deck steward to get a place for your steamer chair and then go to find out from the dining - room steward where you are seated at table.

Customs on shipboard depend upon the difference between a "crossing" and a "cruise." A short transatlantic crossing may lead to very little friendliness. A cruise, on the other hand, always has a sociable atmosphere, like that of a large house party where the guests speak to each other as a matter of course.

On every cruise there is a director who acts as hostess and tries to see that the passengers have a pleasant time. Any young girl or man on board, who is without friends, is expected to go to the director and ask him or her to be introduced to the persons that they would like to know. This means, if they play deck games or bridge or canasta or like to dance, he, or she, arranges for games and introduces them to partners. On the smaller ships, the purser or possible the chief steward assumes the office of "director."

General rules of courtesy, however, are these: If you are seated next to those who respond with friendliness to your greeting, then you may continue to talk. But if they make little response, you then leave them alone until they show friendliness to you.

And now for a practical list of clothes on a typical cruise: One or two simple lightweight suits in your favorite color or colors. (Remember bright colors look fairly subdued in sunny climates.) They should have accessories such as an odd belt or two scarves or extra blouses. Two or three cotton or silk "spectator" sports dresses. Slacks, or shorts (only if you are young or at least slim). Never wear either ashore unless you are sure that it is the custom in the place which you are about to visit for ladies to wear them. At present, costume jewelry adds smartness and brightness, especially in the evening when a so-called "cocktail dress" is more suitable than a low - cut evening one. Overdressing on shipboard shows ignorance of good taste.

When going ashore, be sure that you have comfortable foot-supporting shoes, not wobbling stilt heels. (If you must wear these, then choose the times when sitting in your deck chair!)

Remember that nights on the water are always cool and that a warm coat is essential. A bathing suit will be necessary if you like either swimming or sunning. If your cruise is to the south, remember the sun is very strong and burns fast even on a hazy day. Use sunglasses and expose your bare skin only a few minutes each day to the direct sunshine, until you find how much sun you can take without blistering painfully.

By the time you arrive at your first port, it is probable that you will have made a number of friends. Perhaps you especially like someone, who was introduced to you by the hostess or who sits next to you on deck or at table, and you can go ashore with her or him. If this is not the case, then you must go along in the general group.

At the end of the cruise comes the bewildering moment of giving the right tips to those who have served you. The fixed rates of yesterday are no longer in force. But a dollar a day to your room steward and also to your table steward is approximately the amount for a short cruise and is somewhat less if the cruise is longer. An encouraging fact, however, is that a novice can ask the advice of a seasoned fellow traveler who will be glad to share his expert knowledge on the proper tips to give.

Billy Ray Cawthon Of Epps Is Wed To Miss Judye Stephenson In Ceremony At Big Lake, Tex., Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church in Big Lake, Texas, was the setting for the wedding ceremony of Miss Judye Stephenson and Billy Ray Cawthon on Thursday evening of last week. The marriage rites were read by the pastor, Rev. T. M. Bennett.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Stephenson of Big Lake, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cawthon of Epps, La.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with front and back panels of hand - clipped Chantilly lace, embellished with three tiers of clouded tulle. The bodice and bouffant skirt were sprinkled with iridescent pearls and sequins, and the pearl and sequin studded coronet, designed by the bride, was draped with imported French tulle.

Mrs. Naomi Black of Dallas, Texas, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Anita Stephenson of Big Lake, Texas and Miss Linda Monroe of Ralls, Texas. Linda Black and Stevie Black, both of Dallas, Texas, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively. Sue Stephenson and Linda Tippin, both of Big Lake, were candlelighters.

O. I. Courtney of Big Lake, was best man. Joe Meyers of Fort Worth, and Howard Johnson of Big Lake, were groomsmen, and the ushers were David Jacobs and Jim Tom Mills, both of Big Lake. Mrs. W. N. Wright, organist, furnished the wedding music.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with an imported brocade satin cloth, and cascading down the cloth was a pink satin ribbon inscribed with the names of the bride and bridegroom.

For traveling, the bride chose a blue shantung dress with white accessories, and wore a white orchid. Following a wedding trip to Louisiana and other southern states the couple will be at home in Big Lake.

Out - of - town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. George Franklin Cawthon Jr., of Arcadia, Mrs. W. N. Holloway of Stockton, Calif., Mrs. R. E. Meyers and Joe Meyers of Fort Worth, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Collins and Don of Maryneal, Texas, Mrs. C. R. Brannon of Lubbock Texas, and Mrs. Margaret Black of Dallas, Texas.

Miss Gloria McGaughey Weds July 5

Mr. and Mrs. John McGaughey, of Washington and Natchez announce the marriage of their daughter, Gloria, to Guin Hester, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hester of Roxie, Miss. The wedding was solemnized on July 5th in Fayette, Miss.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The young couple is now making their home in Roxie with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hester, the parents of the bridegroom. In the fall Hester will enroll at Copiah - Lincoln Junior College, Wesson, while the bride will enter the eleventh grade of the Roxie High school to complete her high school education.

The "little red bra" promises to join the "little red dress" which dominates the fall fashion collections. Brassiere manufacturers collections showed a number of reds, ranging from deep pink to the flame shades. Girdle and slip manufactureers too are bringing out reds, so the woman can coordinate the underpinnings.

Not it's the cocktail umbrella, joining the cocktail dress in fashion phraseology. These umbrellas get pretty fancy — with jewel decorated knobs and tips.

Texas Girl First From U. S. At Games For Deaf

By O. B. LLOYD, JR.
United Press Staff Corespondent

AUSTIN, Tex. — A 32-year-old physical education instructor, who tried out "just for the heck of it" is well on her way to becoming the first American woman ever to compete in the women's track and field division of the International Games for the Deaf.

The only thing that could hold Mrs. Ruth Seeger back is completing a $1,200 bankroll needed to finance the trip to Milan, Italy for the Deaf Olympics Aug. 25-31.

Mrs. Seeger already has deposited $450 with the U. S. International Games for the Deaf Committee, but needs $750 more if she's going to be among the 25 U. S. entries who sail from New York, August 11

Tried Out On Her Own

She will be one of three women making the trip, but the only one competing in field and track. The other two will take part in swimming and diving.

Until a few years ago, Ruth, a naturalized Texan from Minnesota who came here to teach at the Texas State School for the Deaf in 1949, didn't even know there was a women's track and field division.

"When we found there was such a division, Ruth looked over some of the records, and decided that just for the heck of it she would see how close she could come to them," explained one of her teaching colleagues.

She came so close that Raymond Butler, the school's football coach who acted as official record keeper for Ruth's efforts, thought they might get her a place on the U. S. team. He sent the marks to Alexander Fleischman, head of the U. S. committee, at Silver Springs, Md., and Ruth was in.

From Gallaudet

Without any meet competiiton experience since her college days and with no special training, she hit four feet, four inches — the women's record is four feet, six inches — in the high jump; came within two feet of the broad jump record of 13½ feet, and threw the shot 28 feet, five feet shy of the record.

This will be the first meet competition, outside of intramural contests in college, for Ruth, who was an outstanding athlete at Gallaudet College, a school for the deaf in Washington, D. C.

She hasn't made up her mind what events she will enter, but friends at the school say it will probably be the high jump, the broad jump, and the 100 - meter race, with an outside possibility that she might compete in the javelin throw being inaugurated in the women's division this year.

New Games To Keep Your Child Occupied

SPRING AND SUMMER seem to be favorite times for small fry to come down with measles, mumps, chickenpox and other childhood ills which call for plenty of time in bed and often are harder on Mom than on the young patients.

Wise mothers have found that it's good policy to lay in a supply of new games to keep young convalescents occupied and quiet during that trying period when they must stay in bed but still don't feel really sick.

"It's easy to find games for all ages in these days of classified knowledge, when games are clearly labeled as to subject matter and age group. Older children have a wide choice of new and intriguing board and card games, but sometimes it's hard to find games within the capabilities of the pre - school child.

One good choice for the kindergartner is "Candyland," which is played merely by matching colors, and requires no reading or counting skill. Its peppermint stick forest and gum drop mountain appeal to young imaginations.

Then there are quiz games, such as "Go to the Head of the Class," in which Mother takes the role of quiz master when she has

Woman Airs Gripes On Packaging

"Women are lazy. They look for convenience, and they have a lot of ideas about improving packages."

So said Dorothy Diamond, who writes "The Woman's Viewpoint" for a business magazine, addressing a recent symposium of the Package Designers Council, for which she acts as a judge in annual packaging awards. Here, she told the packagers, are the things women look for:

1. Ease of storage. (She feels the long aluminum foil package is difficult to store.)

2. Ease of opening. (She commends the new zip - off cereal packages and the new flip-off lids.)

3. Effectiveness after opening. (Packages for brown - and - serve rolls, she says, are hard to reclose.)

4. Packages attractive enough to be used on the table. (She applauds the apothecary jars for vitamin pills, decorative spice containers and foods packaged in serving dishes.)

Miss Diamond listed among pet gripes lipstick cases which tarnish before the lipstick is used and sealed cookie bags which are hard to re-seal.

Cutting Tips Give Annuals Long Life

Annual flowers differ from certain bulbous or perennial flowers in that cut stems rarely have the ability to continue development so that tight buds unfold. In gladiolus if the lower florets are showing color, nearly every tight bud on up the stem will eventually open if the cut stem is well tended. On the other hand, a tight zinnia bud will never open after being cut. So the first rule, then, in cutting annuals is to select stems with young, newly opened or just opening flowers, not expecting tight buds to open.

The time of the day to cut annual flowers varies with the type. A broad generality which works on most occasions is to assume that flowers with hollow or pithy stems (like zinnias or calendulas) keep best if cut in the afternoon when the plans are in somewhat wilted condition. Stems of this nature take up water very rapidly, and should be plunged in water immediately on cutting. Then the flowers should be kept in as cool a place as you can find over night.

In the morning the stems and foliage will have crisped - up amazingly and with these stiff stems and perky flowers it is possible to go ahead with flower arrangement. There is so much advantage to this technique that if you want a bouquet for an evening occasion it is much better to cut flowers of this type a full day in advance, chilling them over night and keeping them in a cool location during the day so that they will be in prime condition for your evening bouquet.

Conversely, flowers with solid stems like poppies or cosmos should be cut in the morning, selecting only newly opened or just-opened blooms. Stems of this nature do not readily take up new moisture, so it is expedient to pick them before they have a reduced supply as a result of the day's sun and heat.

Most annuals offered by seedsmen nowadays are satisfactory as cut flowers, although some, like morning glory, convolvulus, Scarlet Flax, Blazing Star, Flower Tobacco, Brown Eyed Susan Vine, Baby Blue Eyes and Four O'Clocks generally not useful for this purpose.

You'll find that quite a few of your garden favorites make better cut flowers than you might suspect. An arrangement of the new hybrid Petunia Red Satin is a fabulous and glowing attraction as a centerpiece, while such durable varieties as Crackerjack Marigold will last for days and days without any special attention at all.

The chemical aids in prolonging the life of cut flowers work very well, but what we like to do best is to have so many blooms coming along in the garden that we an cut a fresh, new and different group every day. This regular changing of floral decoration is n only satisfying to the gardener and flower arranger but soon becomes a familiar and pleasant point of interest for everyone who enters your home.

Grey-Leaved Plants Take Drouth Best

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

No matter how much rain we may have in spring and early summer, we southerners can surely count on some drought in July. After the floods we had earlier in the year, this year, the drought is a real shock to a garden. It is at once apparent which plants can take it and which ones cannot.

Of course, the best plants in a garden during dry times are the grey and silvery leaved plants like artemisias, bunny's ears (Stachys lanata) dusty millers, santolina and the old perennial agrostemma. We have called attention in the column in former summers to the handsome woody perennial, Centaurea gymnocarpa. This year, we are planting all of the mulleins we can find from all over the world. These big rosettes of wooly leaves are handsome, winter and summer, and the tall stalks of yellow or reddish or pinkish flowers are always stunning objects in the landscape.

Our old common mullein is a beautiful thing for its foliage alone. The Greek mullein, Verbascum Olympicum has just as dramatic foliage and much showier flowers. The reason we do not see more of these mul'eins or verbascums in gardens lies in the fact that many of them are biennials and people just do not take the trouble to raise biennials. Most verbascums will come back from seed by themselves if you will leave the stalks till they are ripe. They like bone meal in the soil or a light dusting with hardwood ashes. This seems to make up to them for limestone in which they ordinarily grow in souther Europe and the Mediterranean area.

Right now is a good time to plant biennials. Some of them will not flower next year if you wait much longer to sow their seeds. If you do not know which plants are biennials, here is a short list: Anchuse capensis, Canterbury Bells (grow them with some shade and never in a dry place), Sweet William, Lavatera arborea, Honesty stocks, verbascums and wall flowers.

"Ten Weeks Stock" is a slow biennial that sometimes refuses to flower till the third year unless started by mid - summer. The foliage is ever-green and beautiful in the garden. Stock may be recalcitrant grower for you unless you either lime the soil where it is to grow or supply it with wood ashes or bone meal. In ordinary unlimed garden beds — and few of us lime our soil any more because of the weeds it encourages —stock will grow but do not flourish.

The old - fashioned Sedum spectabile is a very drought resistant perennial. The new varieties cannot be praised too highly. They come in bright deep pinks and in white. Another plant that deserves more attention in southern gardens is coral - bells (Heuchera) The wild one in our woods will stand the worst of drought right in the sun, though it is a deep woods plant.

Outdoor Living Can Be Easier, Cooler

By Euna Spielman

In hot weather, grown-ups, as well as children, are living out of doors more than ever before. For this reason more thought and effort are being given to making the out-door living area more comfortable and livable. To be comfortable this hot weather, we must make the area cool.

Miss Winona Chauffe, Extension Landscape Specialist of LSU, gives the following suggestion to get this cooling effect. First requirement is to have plenty of shade. Trees are generally used to provide shade. Check to see if you have enough shade. Study trees and locate where to plant them this fall to have shade right where you want it during summer. Some of the quick-growing, medium-size trees which would provide shade in a year or two are: Mimosa, tallow, red bud, or crape myrtle. These can be planted nearer buildings for quick use. Other quick-growing large trees are sycamore and Chinese elm. These should be planted farther away from the building. Large slow - growing trees such as the pecan, live oak, and magnolias may be planted also away from building. Arbors covered with quick growing vines may be used to provide quick shade.

Cooling Effects

Water featured in the garden, still or moving, gives a cooling effect. Try a water basin for birds. Moving water from the sprinkler or hose gives a sparkling note of coolness to the landscape. You might even have a fountain which will supply a live, running water feature. The dripping, gurgling water makes one feel cooler. This type water feature will not greatly increase the water bill as a small pump can be used to keep water recirculating over fountain. A fountain of this kind can be seen at 603 South Third at the Gochenour home.

By using plants with cool, colored foliage — green, gray green and blue green, such as bice paper plant, vitex, dusty miller, and Feijoa (pineapple gauva) — you add coolness to the landscape. White blooming plants, also, add to the cooling effect. Avoid large areas of warm colored foliage and blooming plants — (red, bright yellow, red-purple and orange.)

Make maintenance of landscape easy by using ground cover plants in hard to mow areas — ivy, periwinkle, aspidistra, liriope, monkey grass, violets, carpet bugle or (ajeuiga reptans). Mulch the bed and give yourself a vacation from weed pulling.

For fewer insects use yellow bulbs to light the outdoor area. Yellow lights do not attract insects. Some authorities say they cannot see them. Spray or dust regularly shrubs under edges of house, etc., with 5 per cent DDT, and 2 per cent chlordane or lindane to keep down mosquitoes. A new repellent recommended by Extension Service is diethyl toluamide. Keep fly crystals scattered over area to help get rid outside of flies.

A large oscillating electric fan will add much comfort when the air is still and there are no breezes. The selection of an outdoor area to be used for family living is most important. Keep in mind the breezes come from the southeast and the southwest in summer. This means this area may have to be out away from the building to get breezes from these directions. Picnics and family get-togethers are safer in your own back yard today, so follow information and have a comfortable outdoor living area.

Date Reminders

Council meeting will be Saturday, July 20 at 10 a.m. at the Agriculture building in West Monroe. The twenty-five year picnic is to be Tuesday, July 23, 6:30 p.m. at Mrs. J. S. Sims, Highway 80 west of Twin Cities. Plan to attend Farm and Home Week.

Homemakers and farmers, mark the week of August 12-16 on your canendar. Plan to enjoy a week of recreation, education, vacation and inspiration at your Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. Contact your Agricultural Extension agents for more information regarding rooms and transportation. Let's have Ouachita Parish well represented. This is your week at the University so don't forget the dates, August 12-16.

Flora Group Holds This Week's Show

By Mary M. Jardine

Continuing from last week, here's more of "Let's Make Bouquets" by Henry J. Rahmlow:

"The scoreboard for judging the bouquets is:

Quality of flowers, 50 per cent.

Suitability of container, 20 per cent.

The section for "perfection of bloom" is retained for varieties of flowers grown in the community for which there is a national organization and having a score card for "perfection" judging. This group includes gladiolus, dahlias, iris, peonies, roses, etc. The bouquet class has revolutionized interest in the "perfection of bloom" section of shows because so many beautiful bouquets have been shown. If properly done, a bouquet can show to best advantage the beautiful flowers we grow in our gardens. Judging the flowers for quality of "perfection" when in bouquet form has been a pleasure.

We need lecturers on how properly to make a bouquet. Many gardeners who grow beautiful flowers are often too busy to make an arrangement. We place them in a suitable container in "Bouquet" form and find them attractive, used in various places in the home. However, as flowers of different size, form and color come into bloom we may wonder about the best way to arrange them in bouquets and the type of container to use to show them to zest advantage. Here is a new class which challenges the lecturer on arrangements!"

This week's show at the Center was staged by members of the Flora Group of Monroe. The horticulture section was of much interest to visitors and blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. Peggy Garnett for Aucuba (gold dust plant), Mrs. Gladys Pitts for Pentas (red - violet clusters of star shaped flowers) and Mrs. Hopie R. Mott for rosa viridiflora (the green rose).

In the arrangement section first place blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Ethel Handy. A tall slender vase of yellow Chinese crackleware was selected for the vertical design. Green and yellow variegated ligustrum branches were placed in a vertical position with other placements downward over the vase. The center of interest at the rim of the vase was a cluster of variegated green and white ivy leaves and pedilanthus. It was quite distinctive.

Mrs. Peggy Garnett was award second place. A rectangular green bowl was selected for the pleasing design of variegated sansevieria, and caladium spathes strengthening the line. Rosettes of variegated euonymus were clustered at the base forming a background for the gold - band lily used as a center of interest. This was a very pleasing design, semi-permanent in the character in that the background material will stay fresh for a long time and fresh flowers, such as zinnias or daylilies could be added from time to time.

Mrs. Edward Dalton designed a pleasing foliage arrangement using an antique compote of blue glass. The mass design was composed of butterfly lily foliage, ivy and purple wandering jew. This was staged against a rosy pink background.

Important dates for your calendar:

Open Flower Show School II, Monroe, September 25-27, Monroe.

Streamline Summertime Housekeeping

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Light housekeeping should be the aim of every housewife during the summer months. Some homemakers are such confirmed dust catchers and germ chasers that they can't sleep at night unless they tear the house apart, and are likely to forget this is not the age of the household drudge. Everything has been designed to make chores easier on the lady of the house.

Prepare a new housecleaning plan for summer different from your winter schedule. Cut down on heavy cleaning, vacuum, waxing floors, turning mattresses, scrubbing floors. Try to make one good cleaning do for the rest of the summer, and take advantage of lighter and easy - to use equipment. Discover how useful carpet sweeper and dust mop can be for every - day pickups.

Improved Tools

New dust mops are nylon, and may be dunked in a soap and water bath for easy cleaning. Ditto the hand duster of nylon that is easily fastened and removed from its rod. And if you've never discovered the dust mop before, now is the time to experiment. It is a delight to use under the beds over bare floors, under bureaus that are hard to reach otherwise.

Discover window cleaners too, that contain ingredients that repel dust, making the cleanings less frequent. Soap the windows from the outside with a long handled sponge mop, then hose them clean. Dry them by wrapping a clean towel around your long handled mop and wring dry. The hose is easy to us. Sprinke soap powder on likely spots — porch floor, outdoor patio furniture, outdoor tables and chairs and turn the hose on for easy, quick cleaning.

It's a good idea to plan to finish household tasks in the morning during summer. That goes for dinner preparations. Mop the kitchen floor first thing, dust bare wood floors, furniture. Iron if you must in the morning. Contour sheets do not necessarily need ironing (too hard to fold anyway). Give pillowcases a once - over lightly. Take advantage of no - iron clothes for the family to avoid extra ironing chores.

Simplify Settings

Dispense with linen table linens until cooler weather, even for Sunday - best entertaining. lace mats serve the purpose well, even for buffet serving. Use disposable table service whenever practicable for family meals — paper plates, napkins, cups. Buy paper cups in different colors for each child, let them use them over again during the day. Rinse out after each use and store in the ice box or put paper napkin inside to keep clean

Dress in cool work clothes for most effective household operation — shorts, slacks, housedress will all see you through the day. Adopt a keep-up-with-the-work routine. Letting work get ahead of you will just make you irritable when it is time to perform the chores.

Keep shades down in the heat of the day and draw the draperies if you'd have cool rooms in evening.

Instead of going through that silly dish performance all day — wash, dry, put-away — leave washed dishes in the drain during the day, putting away all but those to be used at the dinner table, before the man of the house comes home.

THE HOME SHIFT

Dry Weather Brings Garden Hose Time

By Mildred Swift

Unless we have rain within a few days (I'm writing this on Wednesday) you'll need to check plants that were set out this last year. It takes plants two years to develop a full root system through which they can absorb moisture. Naturally the smaller the root system the less moisture they can absorb. So you supply moisture more often. One of the common mistakes is to water too often and not enough at a time. As a general rule, plants like one inch of water a week. That's quite a lot of water and it takes several hours of soaking to get one inch of water in the soil.

More Gardening

Last week we said this was a good time to divide bearded iris. Also, it's an excellent time to divide your native or Louisiana iris. Your bearded iris likes an alkaline well drained soil. Your native like acid soil, preferably damp. This plant will even grow in a bog. Louisiana iris roots are sensitive to scalding sun, so give them a mulch for protection.

Our natural humidity is fairly high, but when the weather is hot and dry try to arrange some way for the hose to mist your favorite camellias for an hour or two. This should be done late in the afternoon.

Roses will need some watering if the weather continues dry. Be sure the rose bed is well mulched, too, to conserve the moisture.

The grass clippings are heavy this year due to the rains making the grass grow. Some people like to rake these clippings from the lawns after mowing, because they look untidy. If the clippings are left where they fall, in this hot sun they're gone in a day or two. Then they decay and add richness in the form of organic matter to the soil. If you rake these clippings you are depleting the soil of some of its best qualities.

Chrysanthemums should be staked and pinched back now for the last time. Fertilize monthly with a complete food.

If cannas don't look so good, cut them to the ground. We did that last year and they sprouted right back and gave us heavy blooms.

Food In The News

If it's convenience, economy and extra richness you're looking for, use more evaporated milk. It is made from homogenized whole milk, which has been heated in a vacuum to remove about 60 per cent of its water. All evaporated milk has the sunshine vitamin D added. Mixed with an equal amount of water, evaporated milk has about the same food value as fresh, whole milk. It is handy to store, and is less expensive than fluid whole milk. Canned milk holds longer if the storage place is cool. Once opened, canned milk's place is in the refrigerator, and the can should be covered to keep the milk clean and protect it against off flavors.

Remember, too that evaporated milk will whip. Just chill the can for six or eight hours. Chill the whipping bowl and the beaters. Beat at high speed. If the family objects to the taste, add sugar and a few drops of their favorite flavoring. This is excellent for toppings, or for folding in desserts and is always on hand.

Peaches are still an excellent buy. Get out the peach recipes, make your preserves and pickles and get some in the freezer while they're available. Call FA 3-2251 for a copy of the preserve, pickle and freezing bulletin.

The quality of potatoes and onions is excellent now, so serve the old stand-by, potato salad, often. A good rule to follow for the amount to make is use one medium sized potato for each person. The practice of boiling and chilling the potatoes over night may save time, but the seasoning does not go through the cold potato. Try making the salad while the potatoes are warm. Always boil in the jacket to save that valuable vitamin C. Here is my favorite recipe:

2 medium size onions (chopped.)
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ to ½ cup chopped celery.
2 or 3 hard cooked eggs.
⅛ teaspoon white pepper.
1 piece pimiento.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
½ teaspoon prepared mustard.

Mayonnaise to soften.

Put egg yolks in a shallow dish, mash and add salad oil gradually to make a French dressing. Add seasonings. Chop warm potatoes in a large bowl. Add French dressing and toss. Add enough mayonnaise to soften. Select a mayonnaise that does not have a sweet taste. While eggs are plentiful you can use as many as four. This serves four people generously.

News and Hints

Those who have been to market to buy fall materials tell us the leading colors are royal blue and deep red. Black, of course, is always tops. Crepes are back in the fashion swing. Woolens have the brushed look. Cottons have the soft cashmere feel and come in small plaids, stripes, checks. Velvets and corduroys will be worn again.

No more clothes pins! Announcement is being made this week of a new kind of clothes line. Two solid steel lines coated with a white plastic are twisted together to form a strong spring gap. A "spreader" separates the 2 so a corner of the wash may be held between the lines. Even winds of 100 miles per hour are powerless against the steel washline grip.

A new kind of heavy duty nylon has been introduced, a kind that aims to prolong the life of denim overalls, rayon trousers and other men's and boys' clothing. It has been designed exclusively as a reinforcement for cotton and rayon used in such garments. The manufacturers say the blend will lengthen the life of work clothes by 70 per cent.

Here is a hint that has been recommended to me, but I haven't tried it out. Before leaving on a vacation, wrap house plants in sheets of polyethylene plastic. It is said that they can be left as long as three weeks without water.

Announcements

Your Open House programs for next week are as follows: Monday, the ABC's of the perfect fall wardrobe; Tuesday, "Doing a Job the Easy Way"; Wednesday, flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, marketing and food preparation.

See you next Sunday.

WAYS TO FINISH WOOD

When finishing wood paneling, you can paint it to blend with or contrast to other decorations. Or you can exploit the natural markings and color of the wood by finishing with varnish, clear lacquer or shellac. Delicately colored stains now on the market give you a wide choice in soft pastel tints that will not hide natural grain.

You can install wood paneling right over old plaster, cracks furring strips in unfinished places and all, or attach it to studs or like a basement or attic.

STARS IN FILM—Marilyn Monroe is teamed with Laurence Olivier for the first time in the Warners release of "The Prince and the Showgirl". The Technicolor film, co-produced by the two stars and directed by Olivier, opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

STARS OF "SILK STOCKINGS"—Fred Astaire has Cyd Charisse flying high in one of their exhuberant dancing numbers of "Silk Stockings," Arthur Creed's M-G-M film version of the smash Cole Porter musical, now brought to the screen in CinemaScope and color. Janis Paige and Peter Lorre co-star in the film, which opens Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

'Midnight Story' Bizarre Tale Of Tenderness, Violence

From the opening scene, showing a murder being committed (but not by whom), "The Midnight Story," latest Tony Curtis starrer from Universal - International, which opened today at the Jim Theatre, is an engrossing, suspenseful, sometimes brutal, sometimes tender but always exciting tale of fierce passions.

Filmed in CinemaScope, mostly on location in San Francisco, the picture co - stars dainty Marisa Pavan and lusty Gilbert Roland with Curtis. As a starring trio they seem to strike sparks from each other, resulting in three brilliant performances.

Curtis portrays a San Francisco traffic cop who quits the force to track down the murderer of a kindly priest who has virtually been a father to him and was beloved by everyone, even by the man who, in this strange but plausible tale, is eventually found to be his murderer. Called upon to portray a young fellow who can be tough and relentless and yet sensitive and tender, Curtis turns in what many fans will regard as the best acting job of his career.

As the immigrant girl who brings out the softer side in the nature of Curtis, Miss Pavan creates an immensely appealing character, displaying an artistry that puts her securely in the top rank of the screen's younger dramatic actresses.

Topical Stamp Collecting Is Increasing

Topical collecting is becoming increasingly popular each year. Topical collectors are those who specialize in one particular type of stamp or in a definite theme—sports, artists, music, famous buildings, children etc.

One such group — the collectors of religion on stamps — has just announced the results of a poll of its members which named the outstanding religious adhesive issued in 1956.

The winner was an Argentina stamp depicting the Christ Child. The Vatican stamp showing "Our Lady of Czestochowa" was selected best Catholic theme of the year. The West Germany issue honoring the Kirchentag (Protestant faith festival) was chosen top Protestant theme. The Israeli stamp illustrating the symbols of the Twelve Tribes won top honors for best Jewish theme.

Results of the balloting were announced by the Rev. Aloysius S. Horn of Fremont, Ohio.

Czechoslovakia has issued a new set of stamps honoring its annual music festival and depicting portraits of its famous artists and composers, reports the New York Stamp Co. Each stamp is the same value, 60 horuna. Illustrated are the following: Joseph B. Foerster (1859-1951), Josef Suk-(1874-1935), Frantisek Ondricek (1857-1922), Ferdinand Laub (1832-1875, Vitezslav Novak (1870-1949) and Jan V. Stamic (1717-1757).

---

The U. S. Post Office Department in Washington announced the "Virginia of Sagadhock" stamp commemorating the 350th anniversary of ship building in America will be placed on first day sale Aug. 15 at Bath, Maine. Details as to the denomination of the stamp and its design will be announced shortly in this column.

To emphasize European unity and the collaboration of Switzerland with its neighbors, the Swiss government has issued two special EUROPA stamps. The 25 centimes red and the 40 c blue, both of the same design, show a unity.

---

The Federation of Malaya has issued a new definitive set of 15 values. The 6, 12, 25 and 30 cents will be common to all Malay states and the settlements of Malaca and Pehang. Depicted on these "national" stamps are: tapping rubber, coat of arms, tin dredge and a map of the federation. Some of the other designs include pineapples, a rice field, a mosque, a tiger, fishing craft, railway, copra, aborigines and weaving.

'The Delicate Delinquent' Will Star Jerry Lewis

Heralded as Jerry Lewis' funniest picture to date, "The Delicate Delinquent," with Jerry in the title role, arrives next Sunday at the Paramount Theatre. Based on an original idea of Jerry's the story is said to be a perfect vehicle for the unique talent that has made Jerry a top comedian in the entertainment world.

Jampacked with humor and heart appeal, as well, "The Delicate Delinquent" has Jerry portraying a clumsy assistant janitor in a slum-ridden neighborhood. Unwittingly he becomes involved with the leather - jacket mob who inhabit the area. When Jerry's mistaken for one of the gang, and arrested along with them, the kindly cop on the beat, Darren McGavin, believes Jerry is worth saving from a life of delinquency. This noble endeavor, however, is fraught with all kinds of surprising and hilarious complications—particularly when Jerry announces that he wants to be a cop. McGavin has a tough boss, Horace McMahon, who wants no part of this fantastic deal. McGavin's fiancee, Martha Hyer, is jealous of the time McGavin spends with Jerry, and, most important, the neighborhood hoodlums could kill a guy who plays footsie with the cops.

Despite all, Jerry is determined to be a cop. With McGavin's help, he manages to squeeze through the Police Training Academy, learning everything the hard way, from wrestling with a 300-pound opponent to mastering the intricacies of outdoor and indoor drilling. This is only an introduction to what besets "the delicate delinquent" once he becomes a rookie cop.

Bible Words for Today

REVELATION 3:8—"Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut." (RSV)

It is said that doors are being closed to the Christian church in many lands. Where communism gains control, Christian missions are closed and missionaries are imprisoned or expelled. China is a classic example of this fact. But a missionary recently returned from China observed that while the door to China may be closed to us it is not closed to Chinese Christians. By the grace of God some Chinese Christians are still bearing witness to their faith under difficulties that are hard to imagine. We need to remember that God's ways are not our ways. Man's extremities are sometimes God's greatest opportunities. This is the Biblical faith, and the Christian church is a living witness to its truth. "In spite of dungeon, fire and sword" is more than a line in a great hymn. It is an expression of deep faith. We can take courage in the promise that the God we serve is able to keep open doors that no earthly powers can effectively shut.

Board of Christian Education and Publication,
Evangelical and Reformed Church,
Philadelphia, Pa.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: Is sin a reality or is it an attitude of mind? T. R.

ANSWER: It is both. Read your current issue of any newspaper and you will see that sin is a tragic reality, common to men everywhere and universal all over the world. Search your own heart and mind and remember that there you will find jealousy, hate, lust, pride, covetousness, impatience, criticism, lying and many other evil things. These are sins too. As a matter of fact, many of the sins which men see and know about have their origin in the mind and their fruit in subsequent action. Sin, whether the outward manifestations of evil such as impurity, murder, stealing and the like, often spoken of as the sins of the flesh; or the inner sins of the mind and heart which may not be outwardly expressed and spoken of as the sins of the spirit; all of these are sin because they are contrary to God's holy will and a breaking of His law. Sin is a tremendously deceptive and insidious thing. The apostle Paul wrote to the Ephesian Christains: "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, aginst the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." That is the reason that we all need a presence and a power greater than our own to overcome temptation and sin. Christ came into the world to solve this problem for us once and for all. Sin is a reality but Christ's saving power is also a reality.

Break Ground For Edgewood Baptist Church

Marines' Miniature Beach Landing Model, Officers Have Found, Provides Better Picture Than Real Thing

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A United States "Army of the Pacific" has come into being under the generalship of a short, ruddy man who believes in lightning attack of armor — tanks, planes and atomic force.

When he moved into his new headquarters in Hawaii, Gen. Isaac Davis White was no stranger to his duties. Since 1955 he commanded the Eighth Army in Korea and Army forces in the Far East.

While the scope of his command remains about the same, Gen. White must adjust himself to new conditions in the changing Far Eastern defense perimeter.

But then Gen. White has seldom been in a war that didn't have its peculiar conditions.

As commander of the "Hell on Wheel" 2nd Armored Division in World War II, White smashed into Magdeburg, Germany, and then, under orders, stopped his armored charge to let the Russians take Berlin, only 57 miles away.

In Korea, White commanded the 10th Corps over some of the roughest terrain of the Korean battlefield. Always to the north was the Manchurian border, the limit to any American advance.

In 1955, shortly after he had taken command in the Far East, Gen. White, still laboring under conditions, said:

"No matter what the Communists are doing in North Korea, we are not bringing in any additional weapons. At the same time we are not letting our powder get wet. The Department of the Army will make new weapons available as soon as they are needed."

Last month, the time came. The United States announced it was equipping its Korean forces with modern weapons to match the buildup of North Korean forces.

This, coupled with the announced withdrawal of combat forces from Japan, imposed a new set of conditions in the Far East.

With fewer bases, a changing world trade attitude toward China, and a planned atomic reorganization of the U. S. Army, the Pacific forces will have to be fast, hard-hitting mobile units.

White, a 56-year-old native of Peterborough, N. H., earned his commission as a second lieutenant in 1923, graduating from an Army Cavalry school. Warfare has changed a lot since then and his ideas have changed with it. But he believes that atomic bombs and shells have only reinforced the necessity of armor.

But armor to White has a larger meaning than just tanks. He says:

"I don't want to leave the impression that tanks alone can win wars. Armor is composite unit combining all branches of the service.

"The attack of the future might be either an airborne drop, followed by an armored breakthrough, or just the opposite, an armored breakthrough to a given point, followed by an air drop in support."

HEADS FOR INDUSTRY

Capt. Nimitz To Resign Commission In U.S. Navy

NORFOLK, Va., July 13 (AP) — Capt. Chester W. Nimitz, Jr., 41, said today he will resign his commission Aug. 1 and accept private employment because his pay has not kept pace with living costs.

The son of the famous World War II Pacific Fleet commander plans to go into industrial management in Texas. He has served 21 years in the Navy. He is the commanding officer of the submarine tender Orion.

His father didn't want him to leave the Navy, Nimitz said, but "He understands the situation."

"We haven't had a raise in three years," the captain told a reporter. "The cost of living goes up as our purchasing power goes down. You have to make a choice; you must sacrifice your standard of living, your children's education, or your career."

Finished In 1936

Nimitz, who was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1936, has three daughters. One is in college and the others are planning to go.

Last week the Kansas City Star said the President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, had turned down an offer from a large school "at a salary three times that of his military pay."

The Star said it learned through congressmen that the President would give his son no help in reaching a decision but was elated when he learned Maj. Eisenhower would stick to the military life.

The President's son was reported to have told his father that the military was having trouble getting young men and officers to stay in the service and it would look bad for the President's son to quit for a better-paying job.

Capt. Nimitz said today: "Of course there's no guarantee you can do better on the outside. But I have a damn good idea I can." His Navy pay and allowances come to $901.28 per month.

He said 80 officers quit the Navy for civilian careers last year and 70 to 80 the year before. "I suspect the number will increase unless something is done," Nimitz said.

Congress May Resume Balky Witness Trials

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — There has been talk, inspired by a recent Supreme Court decision, of resuming trials by the House or Senate of witnesses who balk at questions from investigating committees.

But if Congress ever seriously considers taking over this job—in recent years left to the courts—some member with a long memory is sure to remind it of the roar of laughter that swept the country in 1934.

That year saw the last trial for contempt at the bar of the Senate. But first the American public, sated with reading of depression at home and Hitler abroad, whooped with delight at the spectacle of a nimble lawyer and a swallowtail - coated Senate sergeant-at-arms pursuing each other through the capital's better-known landmarks.

After the Senate won its point and ordered two prominent citizens to jail for 10 days each, the Supreme Court declined to interfere. Ironically, it is another decision of the Supreme Court—on somewhat different grounds—that now has some senators and House members talking of resuming trials with the aggrieved lawmakers themselves as judge and jury.

It was the great air mail contract controversy of 1934 that led to the Senate's extraordinary procedure.

The Senate set up a special committee to investigate. Among those told to come with all pertinent papers were several air line executives and their attorney, William P. MacCracken Jr.

Between Jan. 31, when MacCracken got his subpena, and Feb. 6, when he first appeared, laden with papers and marshalled by a sergeant-at-arms, Chesley W. Jurney, some of the documents were taken out of the attorney's files.

MacCracken contended throughout he complied as fully as he could with the Senate's orders. He said if any air mail documents pertinent to the inquiry were taken out it was by inadvertence.

But senators spoke darkly of files stripped and burned. MacCracken and three clients were cited for contempt of the Senate.

The duty of arresting MacCracken fell to Jurney, who wore a working uniform of swallowtail coat, striped trousers, 10-gallon hat, red carnation in buttonhole and silver-headed cane in hand.

For several days he hunted MacCracken with a Senate warrant. Then abruptly the roles were reversed.

MacCracken decided it would be best to be arrested by the Senate, then have a court take him out of Senate custody with a writ of habeas corpus.

MacCracken tried to persuade Jurney to arrest him in the clerk's office at the District of Columbia courthouse, described afterwards as "a comfortable public office where any gentleman could be arrested with dignity."

Jurney, understandably confused, consulted his Senate superiors, who apparently smelled a rat. So he declined to arrest MacCracken.

But MacCracken was persistent. He showed up at Jurney's home, on Saturday, Feb. 10, demanding to be arrested. Jurney said no, and MacCracken said he was moving in. Jurney hospitably set up a cot in the living room and MacCracken's attorney sent in a pair of sky blue pajamas, a tooth brush and other necessities.

The District of Columbia court meanwhile issued a writ and lawyers began wrangling as to whether MacCracken was or wasn't under arrest.

Jurney and his prisoner-or-guest took a walk together the next day and Jurney gave MacCracken the slip, leaving hat, coat and silver-headed cane behind to throw the attorney off the track.

This action was described by MacCracken's lawyer as "establishing the first legal precedent of a prisoner released by the flight of an arresting officer."

Jurney on Monday was authorized to arrest MacCracken, who finally was haled before the bar of a dead serious Senate. It heard the case and deliberated 5½ hours before voting, 64-20, that MacCracken was guilty of contempt.

Meanwhile, three of the attorney's clients also had been tried by the Senate for contempt, but only one, L. H. Brittin, former vice-president of Northwest Airways, was convicted.

MacCracken and Brittin were sentenced to 10 days in jail each. Brittin, saying he was too broke to fight any longer, did his time immediately. MacCracken appealed, but the Supreme Court eventually upheld the Senate's right to try him.

Throughout the proceedings, he had remained on personally friendly terms not only with Jurney, but with the head of the special Senate investigating committee, the man who made the motion for his arrest, Sen. Hugo L. Black of Alabama.

MacCracken is still a practicing attorney in Washington. Black is now Justice Black of the Supreme Court—a member of the majority which rendered the decision last month declaring witnesses before congressional committees must be told plainly how the questions put to them are legislatively pertinent.

The attorney and the justice still meet occasionally. When they do, they never lack a topic of conversation.

PROFESSOR'S TIPS HELP BEAT THE HEAT

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"Heat," said the professor, "is a form of energy consisting of the motion of molecules in a substance with the rate of motion determining the temperature."

He stirred up a few lazy molecules in front of his face with a long, limp sweep of a newspaper held in his hand. The temperature rose perceptibly.

We were sitting on a park bench in the shade of a tall building. Overhead, the sun was beating down. It was beating down passers by. Several collapsed around us as we talked.

"That's all very well and good," I said, "but I too can read the dictionary. I came to you to find out what to do about it. Tell me, professor, how can I beat the heat?"

"First off," said the professor, "it is necessary to recognize that it is hot. One simply does not beat the heat by ignoring it or pretending it is not there. Worst thing you can do."

"That's easily done," I murmured.

"Once that you recognize that it is hot, then slow down. Don't exert yourself. Remember, the more you move around, the more those little old molecules move around, too."

"That's right," I said, making a mental note to bring that point up the next time the chief chided me when something wasn't done on time.

"Drink plenty of liquids," the professor went on. "They lower the body temperature. They slow down the molecules."

"Yes. Yes," I interrupted with an eagerness unbecoming an objective reporter. I had read about places that sell liquids in tall, cool glasses. In fact, I had made plans to visit one shortly to study the effect on my molecules.

"But go easy on the alcohol," said the professor, throwing cold beer all over my plans. "Ice water is better to replace body moisture lost through perspiration."

"Wear light, loose, comfortable clothing," he went on. "And the less clothing the better."

"Wear light colored clothes, too," the professor continued. "Remember, light surfaces reflect heat while dark surfaces absorb it. And eat light foods, like fruit, green vegetables, lean meat.

"If you follow those simple rules, you'll be more comfortable and you'll enjoy the summer no matter how hot it gets," he concluded.

"Hot, isn't it," I sympathized.

"Wrong," said the professor. "It ain't the humidity, it's the molecules."

Dr. Clark To Use Clinic Funds To Aid Cameronites

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 13 (AP)—Dr. Cecil Clark said yesterday he received donations to rebuild his clinic in Cameron but will use the money to help hurricane victims instead.

"The money is needed more for medical supplies than a building now," said Dr. Clark, who lost three children when hurricane Audrey struck Cameron June 27.

The hurricane killed more than 500 persons and left thousands homeless.

The doctor indicated he would accept money to rebuild his clinic in the future if the need for medical supplies to victims grew less.

When informed that The Nashville Tennessean is conducting a drive for clinic funds, Dr. Clark said, "Oh, that's wonderful."

Disaster Hero

The 33-year-old doctor, who became the hero of the disaster when he worked ceaselessly with victims despite his awareness that his children had died, said the cost of rebuilding his 12-bed clinic would be about $10,000. He was not sure how much it would cost to install equipment, beds and medical supplies. But he added that the original cost of the equipment and supplies was between $60,000 and $70,000.

The hurricane winds and their accompanying waves destroyed the entire Negro section of the hospital, the nurses' living quarters, the store room and the wash house.

The floors have to be reinstalled, the walls refinished, and a new kitchen and heating system installed. None of the medical equipment was salvaged.

At peak operation, before the hurricane, the clinic, staffed by Dr. Clark and four nurses, cared for 12 hospitalized patients and about 50-out-patients.

Dr. Clark now maintains an office in Lake Charles Memorial Hospital, but said he is anxious to return to Cameron as soon as families start moving back.

The doctor said the only fund drive to rebuild the clinic that he has heard of is the one sponsored by the Nashville Tennessean. All other donations to him have come from individuals, he said. He gave no estimate of how much he has received.

Dentist's Wife Knows Her Eskimos

By ROBERT SUNDY

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Alaskan Eskimos have bad teeth, and they can thank the white man for that.

So says an American woman who probably has had more to do with Eskimo teeth than any other woman alive.

She's done it all the hard way — living in igloos, traveling by dog sled in 50 - below - zero temperatures, hunting animals for food and wearing animal hides for clothes.

"The white man's diet is largely responsible for generally poor teeth among natives in Alaska who have come in contact with our civilization," says Mrs. Margaret P. Lathrop. "On the other hand, natives in the interior, where the white man's influence has not been felt, have good teeth."

Mrs. Lathrop's Alaskan home is the tiny community of Kotzebue, north of Fairbanks. That's where her husband, Robert, 38, a dentist from Bellaire, Mich., built and operates a dental clinic for the Alaska Native Service. The service is a divisiin of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Dr. Lathrop's job is to provide free dental care for native children. Mrs. Lathrop, a former lieutenant commander in the Navy Nurse Corps, is his dental assistant.

Mrs. Lathrop, the former Margaret Peterson, was interviewed at her parents' home in Camden on one of her infrequent trips to the U. S. — and one of the rare occasions during the last 10 years in which she has renewed acquaintance with everyday luxuries most women consider necessities. Her husband had to stay in Kotzebue to run the clinic.

Roughing It

"I had never even camped out overnight in the back yard before I went to Alaska," says Mrs. Lathrop. "But in the last few years I've had my share of roughing it. I'd be lying — any woman would — if I said I thought it was an ideal way to live. But our work is satisfying and we're happy in what we're doing."

Mrs. Lathrop met her husband while both were stationed in Alaska in 1946. Lathrop was a Navy dentist with the rank of lieutenant.

"We fell in love, and Bob asked me to marry him even though I outranked him," Mrs. Lathrop smiled.

Lathrop had developed a fondness for Alaska — and a desire to do something for the natives, particularly the children. They decided to return to Alaska as man and wife.

Arctic Honeymoon

Margaret and Bob were married in 1948 in Camden following their discharge from the Navy. Then they bought a new car and headed back for Alaska — in the dead of winter.

"We drove up the Alcan Highway with the heater on full blast. It was nice and warm inside even though it got as low as 40 below outside," Mrs. Lathrop recalled.

They got jobs with the Alaska Department of Health on a medical ship which visited villages along the coast and the Aleutian Islands.

Igloo Bride

A year later, they decided to prepare themselves for setting up a practice in a remote native village. The preparation: living for a solid year in a native igloo in the village of Point Hope in Northern Alaska. They hunted for their food — mostly caribou — and Mrs. Lathrop made their clothes from animal hides.

"In that place, even the natives thought life was pretty rough," she remarked.

After a year they set out for the village of Kotzebue. The Alaska Native Service had assigned them to open a dental clinic there.

The Lathrops made the 800-mile journey by dog sled. It took them and their 11 dogs 21 ½ days.

PLANS TO WORK FOR DAD

American Who Vanished In Red China Ready For Home

HONG KONG, July 12 (AP)—Back from a disappointing 2½-month visit to Red China, American Donald J. Blackwood declared tonight he wants to get back to the United States as soon as he can.

When he gets there, he said, "I will probably work for my father," who operates a chain of restaurants in and near Cincinnati, Ohio.

Blackwood, 25, his Korean wife and infant son arrived in Hong Kong less than 24 hours after he was expelled by the Chinese Communists as an "illegal immigrant" because he slipped into Red China unannounced April 28.

Chatting with reporters, Blackwood said he was "sadly disappointed in the trip—in fact the whole affair." He called it "an irresponsible gesture on my part; and I am sorry I made it."

Always Watched

He admitted that his Korean wife felt she "rather would have not gone at all" and "I didn't like being watched all the time without seeing anything."

Blackwood's father, James, had previously employed his son in his baking department before Donald returned to South Korea as a civilian. The elder Blackwood came here in May in a vain effort to find out what had happened to his son.

Young Blackwood noted that there are "technicalities that have to be cleared up" before he could return to America. He said one of these was obtaining a visa for his Korean wife and getting his clearance from the American consulate in Hong Kong.

Clothing Business

Blackwood told reporters earlier he had come to Hong Kong originally to investigate setting up a clothing business which would have South Korea among its outlets.

But now, he added: "I guess I will have to go back and work for dad."

American consular officials said Blackwood, who violated a stipulation of his passport, which bars travel to Red China, would be given a passport valid only for return to the United States. Blackwood said he was aware his passport privileges might be revoked after arrival home.

Immediately after arrival here he and his wife went to the American consulate and began filling forms for Mrs. Blackwood's visa and other documents that would enable them to leave.

Plane Test Center, Driven From City Of Los Angeles, Prospers In Desert

By DIAL TORGERSON

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP)—A silver jet fighter appeared in a sky of brilliant blue, circled, then landed in the brown expanse of desert. A score of men waited at a lone hangar building.

The aviation industry had come to California's Mojave Desert.

"At first it was just one plane, one pilot, and us on the ground," recalls Howard Skirvin, who was one of the mechanics waiting when the first F94C landed at Palmdale Airport Jan. 2, 1952.

Take a look at Palmdale today:

"We're assembling F104s now—and when I say we, I mean the company," said Skirvin. "I'm a foreman now for the 104 flight department. Look at those babies!"

On a concrete apron on F104, looking more like a rocket ship than an airplane, blasts its jet into a big deflector with a roar like a bull elephant's bellow.

Around the horizon — broken once only by mountains, cactus and yucca — loom the big factory buildings of Convair, North American Aviation and Northrop Aircraft.

Surrounding the plants are sprawling parking lots, jam-packed with the cars of the more than 5,000 workers who followed Skirvin and the original score of men who came to Palmdale five years ago.

No. 1 Test Center

It has been a busy five years. In that time Palmdale — on the edge of the nation's hottest desert — has become the nation's number one test center for production aircraft.

Five years ago jet manufacturers flew from fields in populous Los Angeles areas. Then a series of disastrous crashes stirred a move that shifted a big piece of American Aviation and Northrop Aircraft.

Southern California's aviation industry north of the San Gabriel Mountains, 35 miles from Los Angeles.

Palmdale, then, was a gas station stop on the highway leading north into the Mojave Desert. Some 2,600 people, about one-fifth of today's population, called it home.

Lockheed interested the Air Force in the Palmdale field, and the Air Force bought it from Los Angeles County and named it "Plant 42." The Air Force made Lockheed the prime contractor to develop the field, and invited other plants to move in.

To keep residents from moving next to the field, a mile-wide "buffer zone" surrounding the runways is zoned non-residential. Long "run-out strips" at the ends of the field are zoned for only agriculture, so a plane missing the runway can cut a swath through nothing worse than an alfalfa patch.

The extravagance of fresh air at Palmdale — urged along frequently by 20-to-80 m.p.h. winds—is too much for some city-dwelling types. Many workers commute by air from the Los Angeles area in "company airlines" which fly bus-like schedules to and from the desert.

One test pilot, Northrop's Rod Close, flies to work from Torrance, near Los Angeles, every day. It takes him about a half-hour each way. "It's much safer than driving," he said.

But most of the workers who stay in the Antelope Valley awhile come to love the desert.

NEW PACIFIC LEADER FAVORS BLITZ

By NORMAN BELL

CORONADO, Calif (AP)— An atomic bomb explodes in a blinding flash; then the spectacular mushroom rises.

The stage is set for the final phases of a school room demonstration by the Marine Troop Training Command of the Pacific Fleet amphibious force.

All phases of a five - day amphibious assault are presented in miniature, with both time and space reduced in scale. Model ships and planes and helicopters are used on a model ocean and model beach.

The Marine training command calls the setup its sand table. It is located in a long hall, with bleacher - type seats along each side for classes and spectators.

Progress of the action is described by an instructor or narrator, who is assisted by Marines who move the ships and beach landing craft as he directs.

Behind a screen, others of the crew simulate bombs, gunfire and other sounds of battle, including bugle calls.

The atomic bomb is simulated electrically behind a screen, on which the hills are painted.

Powder charges are set off electrically on the beach to represent shell hits from the warships. A bridge is blown high into the air.

A Marine officer in charge says the demonstration gives an overall picture of an amphibious operation that can not be obtained in full - scale training or even in actual war.

"Everything is reduced in size so that it can be seen as a whole, with the various phases correlated as to time and place," he said. "It is worth 10,000 words of verbal instruction."

The training command is so pleased with results it sends units to various Navy and Marine stations, even as far away as Japan and Korea, to present similar demonstrations.

Gary Ready To Forgive Convict

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13 — (UP)—The governor is ready to forgive an escaped convict who has kept his record clean since walking away from a work gang at the state penitentiary 19 years ago.

A spokesman said Gov. Raymond Gary will not seek to extradite Artemus Carroll from Omaha, Neb.

Carroll was serving five years for cow theft when he left a McAlester state prison in the late 1930s.

Reports received here indicate that Carroll "is a good, law-abiding citizen, and that no good would be accomplished by returning him to an Oklahoma prison," the spokesman said.

Khrushchev Says Chinese Are 'Milking Russia Dry'

LONDON, July 13 (UP) — Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev has complained that Red China "is milking us dry", diplomatic sources said today.

Khrushchev made the remark to East European leaders during recent negotiations for increased Soviet aid to the satellites, the sources said.

The Peiping regime is understood to be insisting that Russia fulfill her commitments to supply industrial goods and raw materials on which China's economic planning depends to an important degree.

Russia, although under pressure for more assistance from her satellites in Europe, cannot afford to rebuke Red China, on whose political good will she is at present more dependent than ever.

Khrushchev said in Czechoslovakia yesterday that Russia's strength lies in the aid which she dispenses "with great joy" to other Communist states.

But there have been signs for some time that the growing call on Soviet assistance is severally testing Russia's strained economy.

These demands compete with Russia's offers of economic assistance to underdeveloped countries, made in the last 12 months in a political contest with the West over the neutralist nations.

The latest shakeup in Moscow may lead to more satellite claims on Russian assistance. Khrushchev has indicated during his Czechoslovakian tour that Russia will help the satellites in raising their standards of living.

These demands compete with Russia's offers of economic assistance to underdeveloped countries, made in the last 12 months.

ENDS ALERT

Ike Abandons 'Emergency' Hideout For Bit Of Golf

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 13 (UP) — President Eisenhower abandoned his war - emergency hideout today in favor of a Gettysburg golfing weekend while Civil Defense officials calculated the "awesome toll" of Friday's mock atomic attack.

Washington lay in make-believe ruins, as did practically every large city and many air bases and atomic installations.

At Fast Clip

He drove at a fast clip over winding back roads from the secret retreat, arriving at the farm at 640 a.m. CST. He was on the golf course 20 minutes later.

Riding with the President were his nine-year- old grandson, David, and eight- year- old granddaughter, Barbara. Mrs. Eisenhower and granddaughter Susan, 5, were following them later.

The small White House staff which accompanied Eisenhower by helicopter to his relocation site and most of the 14 newsmen who joined the helicopter evacuation flew back to Washington for the weekend.

On Monday morning the President is scheduled to take off in his new helicopter again, this time from the front lawn of his farmhouse, and head for another relocation site called "Highpoint" --emergency location of the office of Defense Mobilization and the federal Civil Defense administration.

Top Russian Urges Czechs To Strengthen Its Red Ties

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 13 (UP)— Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev today urged Czech Communists to strengthen their ties with the Soviet Union and warned them to avoid another Hungary by keeping in touch with the masses.

Khrushchev, apologizing for wearing a hat as shield against a burning-hot sun, spoke at a mass meeting at the Moravian coal mining center of Ostrava, near the Polish border.

A former coal miner himself, he told the crowd he knew what it was like to toil with one's hands and praised "the blessings of mechanization."

Divide Forces

Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Bulganin divided forces on their fence-mending tour of Czechoslovakia. While Khrushchev was stumping the coal mining area, Bulganin toured a heavy machinery plant at Brno, capital of Moravia and home of the famous Bren Gun.

"See what has happened in Hungary, where the party had 900,000 members," Khrushchev said. "But as a result of the stupid mistakes of (former Premier Matyas) Rakosi and (former party chief Ernoe) Geroe, the party was cut off from the masses, so that a handful of counterrevolutionaries with help from abroad were able to produce a blood bath.

Kadar To Get Order

"Now comarade (Janos) Kadar (Hungary's premier) will bring order in Hungary." He knows what to do, himself. We must also draw our lesson. The enemy sleeps but sees everything. They said the Czechoslovakians would follow Hungary's example, but see what has happened."

The audience laughed.

Khrushchev said that nothing can stop "the birth of the new social order" and he appealed for "friendship, friendship and friendship between Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union."

"We must cherish this friendship and strengthen it," he said. "Such friendship on the base of correct leadership of the Communist party. I don't want to mix internal affairs, because you have other parties in your national front, which is good.

Legion Opens Drive To Help Storm Victims

NEW ORLEANS, July 13 (AP)— American Legionnaires in Louisiana have opened a nationwide fund drive for a three to five year rehabilitation program for victims of hurricane Audrey.

Albert V. Labiche, department disaster chairman here, said today the structure would be called the "American Legion Rehabilitation Center."

He said construction of the building would begin as soon as architectural plans are completed, regardless of the fund drive outcome, because of the urgent need for it.

Labiche said donations have already come from legion posts in Michigan, Connecticut and Arkansas as well as Louisiana.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, YOU ALL KNOW WHY WE ARE HERE—TO MEET THE WOMAN WHO SYMBOLIZES OUR HOPE OF INVADING RED CHINA FROM THE WEST...
PRINCESS SNOWFLOWER!
HOGAN, I WOULDN'T MISS IT FOR THE WORLD—INCLUDING THE SPEECH YOU WROTE FOR HER.
MY DEAR AMERICAN FRIENDS: THERE WAS ONLY COLD FURY IN MY HEART WHEN I ESCAPED FROM THE RED HORDE, BUT TODAY I AM WARMED BY THE THOUGHT THAT SO MANY OF YOU KNOW AND CARE ABOUT MY EFFORTS TO DRIVE THE GODLESS MINIONS OF THE SOVIET FROM MY HOME...
...WHILE I REJOICE AT YOUR FAITH IN ME, I AM SADDENED AGAIN BY THE CERTAIN KNOWLEDGE THAT—IF AMERICA WERE TO BE OVERRUN AS WAS MY SMALL KINGDOM, THE CREATIVE PEOPLE—WRITERS, ARTISTS, ACTORS AND ALL OF YOU WHO SWAY PUBLIC OPINION—WOULD BE THE FIRST TO FACE A FIRING SQUAD!
...AND NOW THE DUTIES OF CONDUCTING A GOVERNMENT IN EXILE CALL ME FROM YOUR GRACIOUS MIDST... I BID YOU A FOND AU REVOIR...
YOU DID VERY WELL, PRINCESS, BUT YOU MUST PUT MORE HEART INTO IT!
THE 'SPONTANEOUS' FORMATION OF A COMMITTEE TO RAISE FUNDS FOR DAMMA RELIEF IS TO START AS SOON AS WE'RE OUT OF THE HOUSE!
OHH H-H-H
SNOWFLOWER, ARE YOU ILL?
REACTION TO THE TENSION! SHE FALLS APART AFTER SUCH AN APPEARANCE—WHICH IS ONE REASON WE MUST LEAVE AT ONCE!
SHE'LL SNAP OUT OF IT AS SOON AS SHE HAS HAD HER CRY...
Y-YES, HOGAN - I-I'LL BE ALL R-RIGHT!
WE GOT OFF TO A GOOD START!—ONLY ONE THING BOTHERS ME! —I EXPECTED YOU TO REACT TO HER EMOTIONAL OUTBURST LIKE A HORATIO ALGER HERO!
...YOU'RE UP TO SOMETHING, CANYON! IF YOU TRY TO UNDERCUT THIS DEAL I'LL CHOP YOU UP!
